Annexation Moves Heard

New Fire Alarm System Approved By City Council

A new fire alarm system for Clinton was approved by City Council at its August meeting Friday night. The system will automatically alert the city's 22 volunteer firemen at their homes.

It is understood that the fire siren, in use for many years, will continue to be used. The new system is designed to give better service in alerting the firemen, principally at night, and in the winter when windows in homes are closed, making it difficult at times for firemen to hear the siren.

The system incorporates a tape recording device for all fire calls which automatically will ring telephones in the homes of firemen and relay the location of the fire.

Installation cost will be $118, Fire Chief William C. Milam said. Operating cost will be $100 a month.

Local B&PW Club To Sponsor 'Career Woman' Selection

The basis on which the "Career Woman of the Year" will be chosen, as set up by the South Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will be as follows: 50 per cent for career (professional preparation for career, manner in which candidate is using her professional preparation, continued growth in her career and continued effort to advance and improve her qualifications); 20 per cent for civic participation (interest shown in worthwhile civic projects and organizations, and contribution to welfare of others); 20 per cent for religious participation (interest shown in life of church, time and talent devoted to activities of church and other religious organizations, and contribution to welfare of others).

The winner will represent Clinton at a state-wide convention in Columbia in February and will compete with winners from other towns for the title of "South Carolina Career Woman of the Year."

Approximately 200 players will take part in the program this year, and they will stay in PC dormitories and use college facilities. Practices are slated for the Clinton, Lydia and Joanna parks.

Champions Are Dethroned As City Tennis Competition Is Completed

The only champion to retain his crown, Chris Adair, Jr., led a different group to the winner's circle this year in the Clinton tennis tournament. The 1963 titleholders, with the above exception, managed to fight it out for awhile but on the day of the finals were to be found sitting on the sidelines. Those who were there witnessed another day of excellent tennis.

Earlier in the week young

Chris defeated Ben Hay Hammet, Jr., 6-4, 6-2 to repeat as the 14-and-Under Champion; then to revenge himself Ben turned back Adair 6-0, 6-1 to establish himself as the 18-and-Under winner. Previously, he and Chris had upset the one and two seeded players, Billy Shields and William Bell, respectively.

The Junior Doubles title was decided as Adair and Hammet teamed to defeat Larry Warren-William Bell 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

As in the boys singles, the girls, too, played the game of "Now it's your turn." After losing to Cynthia Turner 6-4, 6-3 (18-and-Under), sister Melissa retaliated by downing her 6-4, 6-2 for the 14-and-Under Championship.

The 12-and-Under titlists this year are Dickie McSween and Cynthia Turner, who is also the only participant to win two singles trophies. The runners-up are Dirke Von Hollen and Julie Young.

Probably the hottest match of the entire tournament was a semifinal match in the men's doubles division between Rufus Sadler-Charles Johnson and Don Anderson-Bobby Plaxico. The pace was so fast and the teams so even that the match had to be halted at dark before a winner had been decided. The next day at 3-3 in the third set play resumed, and Anderson-Plaxico came out on top 4-6, 6-3, 8-6. These two "old sluggers" went on to win the championship by routing Dodge Frederick and Randy Fitzpatrick, a pair from Presbyterian College. The score was 6-1, 6-3.

In the mixed doubles, mixed-up doubles, or whatever anyone wants to call it, Frederick fared better. Teaming with Mary Nettles, they successfully put down

Mrs. Sydney Alexander and Don Warlick 6-2, 6-0.

The number one seed in the Ladies Division, Amelia Nichols, was forced to default in both singles and doubles divisions because of an ankle injury. Marian Ramage and the team of Jane Hammet and Nancy von Hollen won titles in this division.

A relative newcomer to Clinton and his first year in the tournament, Don Anderson from N. C., displayed some fine tennis. In the men's singles he overcame John Minnaugh and upset last year's champion, Fred Jacobs. However, in the finals against the bustle and briskness of Rufus Sadler, Anderson was bypassed 6-4 in the first set. Both playing the same power tennis—hitting deep from corner to corner, then coming to the net to volley away the point—they swapped games until Sadler managed to gain an advantage. Seemingly to overcome a first-set hesitancy, the red-haired dynamo was charged up ready to win—and win he did, taking the second and final set 6-0. Packing a pair of sl-shooters—a serve that blazed across the net and a deadly, low-bouncing forehand that seldom missed—Sadler proved himself armed and ready, and deserving of the 1964 Men's Singles title. As further evidence of the above statement is his record in this tournament; statistics report that he lost an average of only one game for every set he played in the tournament. This has been unequalled by any previous men's winner.

This finals match, as others, exemplified the fine tennis and sportsmanship that has been displayed during the two weeks of the City Tournament and, for (Continued on page 8)

Cars Collide Near Square

These two cars collided Saturday night about 7:30 near the square when a 1965 Chevrolet, driven by William Bledsoe, 31, of Joanna, was said by officers to have crashed into a car driven by Dianna Osborne of Clinton, on West Main Street. Bledsoe was said to have been leaving the parking lot of Wilson's Curb Market when he hit the Osborne car, traveling west on West Main. Mrs. Osborne, mother of Dianna, was admitted to Bailey Memorial Hospital for treatment for injuries suffered in the crash. At the right in the photo is Roy Osborne, husband and father of the car's occupants, and employee of Baldwin Motor Co., who answered the call for a wrecker.—Photo by Paul Quinton.
