

CHICAGO LITTLE SYMPHONY

Season's Final Concert on Wednesday

The distinguished Thor Johnson conducts the Chicago Little Symphony in a concert on March 17 in Belk Auditorium for the Clinton Community Concert Association.

Thor Johnson's "first love", he says is for the small symphony with music written for an instrumentation between the full grand symphony and chamber music, a literature of great beauty and heard too rarely.

Each artist is chosen by Dr.

High School Seniors Finalists For College Scholarship Grants

Twenty high school seniors have been named as finalists in Presbyterian College's Founder's Scholarship competition, seeking ten grants ranging up to $5,000, Student Dean A. J. Thackston announced today.

To Change Joanna Telephone Numbers

D. H. Martin, Southern Bell's local manager said that all telephone numbers in Joanna in the 697-4000 and 697-5000 groups will be changed effective with the next telephone directory.

This change is necessary in order to improve the quality of service for subscribers. Also the equipment being installed is the type needed to eventually provide direct distance dialing.

The new numbers will be delivered in May.

U. of Pennsylvania Archaeologist To Lecture at College

A noted underwater archaeologist will address the Presbyterian College student body next Monday morning as another feature of the 1964-65 fine arts series.

He is Dr. George Fletcher Bass, a native of Columbia who serves as assistant professor of classical archaeology at the University of Pennsylvania and special assistant in underwater archaeology for the University museum.

This 32-year-old expert diver has recently been excavating a Seventh Century Byzantine ship off the coast of Turkey in his capacity as field director of the Yassi Ada expeditions. He and his team in 1960 excavated the earliest known Bronze Age ship, estimated to have sailed at least as long ago as 1200 BC.

Dr. Bass will tell of his work at the 10 a. m. chapel exercises in Belk Auditorium on Monday. The public is cordially invited to attend. That afternoon at 3 o'clock he will show a movie on undersea explorations, and Clinton high school students as well as other interested persons are invited to join the PC students in the auditorium for this program.

Dr. Bass is brought to the PC campus under the auspices of the South Carolina Foundation of Independent Colleges, which is arranging for him to lecture to several colleges while he is in this area. The PC fine arts committee is headed by Assistant Professor Earl Halsall.

Rev. Joseph Greer Comes to Clinton Church on March 15

The Rev. Joseph Greer, to whom a call by the congregation to become associate minister was extended last Sunday morning, will begin his ministry at the First Presbyterian Church March 15 and will occupy the pulpit and preach the sermon the following Sunday evening at the regular evening services.

It was explained to the congregation last Sunday that Mr. Greer's ministry would be primarily in the field of Christian education, working with the young people in the church and at the college. He will assist the minister in pastoral work and will preach at the Sunday evening services from week to week.

Rev. Greer comes to Clinton from the Presbyterian Church in Gatlinburg, Tenn. He was formerly associated with Rev. Alfred L. Bixler, now pastor of the local Presbyterian Church, when he was in Bradenton, Fla.

DEAN H. E. MCCLURE

Chamber Commerce Dinner Scheduled For Tuesday Night

Members of the Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday evening in what is termed the "annual" session, at Hotel Mary Musgrove, beginning at 7:30.

New officers, headed by Don Creighton as president, will be installed to serve for the 1965-66 year beginning April 1.

Officers state that the meeting will be of interest to ladies and no charge for the dinner will be made to members.

Speaker for the session will be Dean Harlan E. McClure of the architecture department of Clemson University, who will discuss planning for Clinton's future.

The meeting has been billed as "An Important Date for Clinton's Future."

Dean McClure is expected to explain general proposals submitted by his students methods of research and the possibilities of solving problems which hinder the orderly and progressive development of a community.

All fifth-year students in architecture at Clemson spend a semester on city planning and civic design studies.

Students, directed by Dean McClure and associate professors in the department, have submitted designs to several cities in the state for improving the civic image of the respective cities.

His talk here is expected to be related to that general subject.

Clinton No. 2 (armory)—Huguley 153, Sherrill 130.

II Rating Given Band at Festival

The Clinton High School Band under the direction of Harry A. Bouknight participated in the district music festival Friday at the Boiling Springs High School.

The band, participating in sight reading and concert events received a II rating and entitled the band to go to the State Music Festival which will be held at Winthrop College in Rock Hill in April. The II rating is equal to excellent.

The school sent seven soloists and three ensembles. From this group four soloists made scores entitling them to participate in the state festival: Danny Jones, cornet solo I rating; Jim Adair, drum solo, I rating; Bobby Powell, cornet solo, II rating; Joe Lee, trombone solo, II rating.

One ensemble scored high enough to participate in the State Festival: Trumpet solo, Bobby Powell, Danny Jones and Bill Jacobs received a II rating.

Miss Nannette Young and Mrs. James Von Hollen were piano accompanists for the group.

Scouts Distribute Posters in County

Boy Scouts in Laurens County have begun distributing posters throughout the county promoting immunizations for preventable diseases, Dr. Von A. Long, Laurens County Health Officer, has announced.

The posters, urging families to immunize against polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and lockjaw, are part of an extensive publicity campaign that eventually will cover every county in South Carolina.

Street Markers Being Erected

This photo shows one of several hundred street identification markers being erected over the city. Two of them will be at each intersection and soon will be seen in all areas of town. City council purchased the green and white markers and the poles at a cost of approximately $8,000. City forces are doing the installation work, which will continue for several weeks.

Contract Let for Whitten Village Building

Officials at Whitten Village have approved construction of a home economics building at the State institution. A contract for $131,700 has been awarded to George A. Creed & Son, general contractor of Columbia, according to Dr. B. O. Whitten, Superintendent.

The structure is the latest move in expanding the training program for resident at the school, and will adjoin the new school building with a connecting covered passageway.

Square in shape, the building consists of a large multipurpose room surrounded by other spaces, thus eliminating excess corridors. These other spaces include a sewing room with lockers and dressing areas; demonstration kitchens; a model home unit with living room, dining room and kitchen; offices and utility and storage rooms.

The multi-purpose area will serve as a banquet hall for 4-H Club members and supply recreational space originally in the old school building which was given over to Vocational Rehabilitation Department of the Village after being modernized and well equipped.
