Plans Developing For Area Religious Census

Some 60 persons attended the first planning sessions Sunday afternoon toward the holding of a religious census in Clinton later in April.

Representatives from most of the churches in Clinton and Joanna met at the Broad Street Methodist Church to launch plans for a city-wide census that will determine the church affiliation or preference of every individual in the community.

It was pointed out that the last religious census, in 1958, proved most effective, and that the influx of new people with industries during the past seven years has made it necessary to conduct a new census.

Harry McSweeney, a representative of the First Presbyterian Church, was named to serve as chairman of a district assignment committee. This group will assign specific church teams to these districts within the community which are predominantly populated by the particular denominations. Teams are scheduled to
