Education Group Meets at Bell St.

The annual meeting of the Association of College and School Administrators was held Wednesday, October 13, at Bell Street High School.

Dr. Sylvia Swinton, director of Teacher Education at Allen University, was the principal speaker. Dr. Swinton spoke on "The Role of a Good Teacher in Our Classrooms," the theme of the meeting.

B. F. Spillers, principal of Roberts High School and president of the organization, presided and presented the speaker.

W. E. Solomon, executive secretary of the Palmetto Education Association, brought remarks and summarized the discussion on the theme of the meeting.

Music was rendered by the Bell Street Band, under the direction of General Austin. The invocation was delivered by W. E. Crumlin, after which McQuilla Hudson, principal of Bell Street, brought greetings on behalf of the school and School District 56.

The association now nominates and elects officers by secret ballot and the moderator is eligible to serve two years.

The proposed constitution provides for the selection of seven trustees, two of whom must be association ministers. Terms of office would be for five years on a rotating basis with a provision that no two would come from the same church.

Rev. Glenn Mosteller, pastor of Union Baptist Church, gave the doctrinal sermon on the theme, "The Lordship of Christ."

During the afternoon session, Dr. Ralph West, missionary to Nigeria now on furlough, told the messengers that compassion and love would help solve the difficulties of the world today.

Noting the collapse of old frontiers such as the British Empire and the rise of new nations, he said, "What we Christians do today can greatly affect the future of the world for the next thousand years."

The two-day session convened last Wednesday at the First Baptist Church of Laurens, with the Rev. J. W. Spillers, pastor of Clinton's Calvary Baptist Church preaching the associational sermon.

"The preaching of the Word of God is the cure for the ills of the world," Mr. Spillers told the assembly.

He said a lot of cures were being offered for the ills of the world but he was not sure "they are right."

"Student demonstrating on the campus is not going to solve our Christian problems," he said, calling for a return to a simple faith and trust in the Word of God.

"Our main task must be to preach the Word and nothing must sidetrack us from this task."

The theme of this year's 69th annual associational session was "A Church Fulfilling Her Mission." Moderator Rev. Grange S. Cothran, pastor of Laurens Second Church, presided at the morning's second session.

Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell, president of Furman University, told the messengers that this year was one of "record enrollment" at all four of the Baptist colleges in South Carolina.

Dr. H. G. Hammett, executive secretary and treasurer of the South Carolina Baptist Convention, stressed missions and stewardship when he addressed the association during the afternoon.

Rev. Floyd Hellams Is New Moderator Of County Baptists

Rev. M. Floyd Hellams, pastor of Davidson Street Baptist Church of Clinton, was elected moderator of the Laurens Baptist Association Thursday at the Baptist Assembly grounds at Lake Greenwood.

He succeeds Rev. Grange Cothran, pastor of Laurens Second Baptist Church.

The new vice moderator is Rev. J. B. Abercrombie, pastor of Bellevue Church. Officers re-elected were H. C. Monroe, clerk; G. B. Odell, assistant clerk; and Karl Johnson, treasurer.

Meeting on the second day of the 69th session, the 225 messengers heard the reading of a proposed revised constitution and voted to consider its adoption during the annual meeting next year.

The two proposed major changes were in the method of nominating and electing officers and the provision for an election of trustees.

Under the revised constitution, the moderator, vice moderator, clerk, assistant clerk and treasurer would be nominated by a committee, with further nominations from the floor.

The moderator, who under the proposed constitution will be ineligible to succeed himself, would appoint the nominating committee.

The association now nominates and elects officers by secret ballot and the moderator is eligible to serve two years.

The city will also build an electric line to the industrial area.

About a month ago, bids were opened and contracts let for water and sewer mains in the College View Heights section and construction of a sewer lagoon to serve the northwestern area of the city of approximately $275,000. Material is being moved in and work is already underway on parts of these projects.

Commerce Committee Reports Heard Tuesday

Progress reports from committee chairman were heard at the membership coffee meeting of the Clinton Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning at the Mary Musgrove Hotel. Chamber president Don Creighton presided and welcomed special guests, Senator W. C. Dobbins, mayor J. J. Cornwell, and new member Ralph Patterson of Gray Funeral Home.

James Von Hollen, Civic Affairs Chariman, reported on progress being made by fifth-year architectural students of Clemson University who are making a planning survey of the city.

Von Hollen stated their first report should be ready for submission either next month or early December and the full report completed by early 1966. He further stated that the survey is focused on traffic at the present time and asked for cooperation from Chamber members in giving information to the students.

Robert Wassung, chairman of the Education Committee, gave information received by his group. Wassung indicated the architect's estimates of cost of a new elementary school, adequate for present needs and with a minimum of future growth, exceeded the amount of funds presently available to School District 56 for this purpose by a substantial amount.

Wassung asked the members present to go on record as supporting the board of trustees in their efforts to secure necessary funds. Of the members present, the vote was unanimous.

Industrial Promotion Chairman Tom Plaxico, praised the Chamber and the city of Clinton in the progress that has been made toward industrial growth in expansion of local industry in the past few months and of the prospects of new industry for the area. "It is a god sign when we see our domestic industries move forward," Plaxico stated, and "We shall continue to work with the city to maintain the steady growth we now have."

I. Mac Adair, reporting for the Merchants Division of the Chamber, called attention to improvement being made in the new city parking area and said completion would be soon.

Local Lutherans Exceed Fund Asked

Dr. E. B. Keisler, interim pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, announces that the congregation has contributed a little more than 106 per cent of the minimum quota assigned it by the synodical authorities in an appeal for funds to enlarge the facilities of the Lutheran Student Center at Clemson University.

While the appeal was set up on a two-year basis, the local congregation decided to raise its quota in full immediately. Thus its solicitation for capital funds with which to build a new church will be the only project to which the congregation will be asked to contribute, except to current expenses and the regular synodical apportionment.

Dr. N. Carl Wessinger headed the local successful effort.
