Arrest County Residents In Huge Car Theft Ring

Greenville — A 10-month investigation of auto theft operations in four states reached a climax Monday with the arrest of five persons.

Robert M. Murphy, special agent in charge of the Charlotte office of the FBI, announced the following arrests:

John Douglas Kennedy, 45, and John Pierce Hellams, 46, both of Laurens; Horace King, 43, and his wife, Mildred J. King, both of Fountain Inn; and Charles Ambry Barrett, 38, of Commerce, Ga.

In addition, charges were filed against Herschel Elrod, 34-year-old former used car dealer and operator of an auto parts business. He is serving 10 years in the Georgia prison system for receiving stolen property.

Indictments were obtained from the federal grand jury against the group last Monday in Greenville.

Murphy said the FBI worked with officers in Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

Kennedy, Horace King and Hellams were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Fox B. Cahaly at Anderson and held in lieu of $20,000 bond each. Mildred J. King was released on personal recognizance.

Barrett was arraigned before a U. S. Commissioner in Gainesville, Ga. He was also held in lieu of $20,000 bond.

The operation allegedly involved placing phony identification numbers on cars, and using salvage vehicles to give false identification to stolen cars.

Kennedy operates Kennedy Iron and Metal Works in Laurens. Hellams is listed as a house trailer salesman. King is a wholesale car dealer. Barrett operates a garage and used parts business in Commerce.

Kennedy and King less than three months ago were charged in Laurens County with complicity in what State Law Enforcement Division officers termed a multi-million dollar statewide car theft and stripping ring. SLED at the time said the ring had multi-state implications. Kennedy and King were released from Laurens County custody after posting bonds of $5,000 each.

Presbyterian To Change Calendar For 1966-67 Year

That "tough study" time between Christmas holidays and the late-January close of the first semester is being eliminated at Presbyterian College.

In the first major change in its semester calendar in two decades, PC officials today announced a new schedule that will have the regular fall semester begin in August and finish just prior to Christmas vacation. The spring semester, then, will get underway upon return from Christmas holidays and will extend until mid-May.

President Marc C. Weersing said the revised calendar will have several advantages. Students will be able to complete the first semester's work while they are at top momentum and before the pleasant distractions of Christmas. Faculty members will have longer in which to assess semester performances; the administration, more time for the recording of grades and other between-semester activities. And for each group there will be a more extended vacation period.

The new calendar will become effective with the 1966-67 session, starting next August 22 rather than in mid-September as previously. New students will come in on that date to begin orientation, and all students will register three days later. The annual four-day Thanksgiving holiday remains on the schedule as usual, and the final examination closing the semester and opening Christmas vacation is set for December 17.

When the students return to school on January 9, they will immediately register for the second semester. Its course will run unbroken until May 11, except for the annual spring holiday week (March 4-12). Final 1967 commencement exercises are scheduled for May 14.

President Weersing pointed out that, in preparation for the new schedule, the PC's 1966 summer school will start one week earlier—on May 30 rather than on June 6 as previously announced. The two-term session will close on August 16.

Some other schools, including Clemson this year, have changed with successful results. It will mark the first big realignment in the Presbyterian College schedule since PC went on an accelerated program, switching to the term system, to produce ROTC-trained leaders as quickly as possible for World War II.

The Clinton-Laurens road definitely will be made into a four-lane highway, it was revealed last Thursday by the Laurens County legislative delegation at a meeting in Clinton.

Senator William C. Dobbins and Representatives Marshall W. Abercrombie and J. C. League told a group of representatives from the Chambers of Commerce of Clinton and Laurens that the road will be rebuilt, with work starting next spring.

In the meantime, a survey party from the State Highway Department was expected sometime this week to arrive to begin a survey of the project.

The decision to make the road in its entirety a four-lane highway is a departure from the original plans, according to members of the legislative delegation and Chambers of Commerce representatives who are pushing the plan.

Some objection was expressed by property owners along the route to that plan, it was stated, and signing of rights-of-way was withheld by a number of property owners.

It is felt, members of the delegation said, that the decision by the State Highway Department, at the urging of the delegation, to build a four-lane highway for the entire distance would remove any objections heretofore interposed and that securing of rights-of-way could proceed without undue hindrance.

Headquarters for the rights-of-way engineer of the Highway Department, S. O. Holstein, will be established in Laurens, probably in one of the court house offices, and work of surveying to establish the center line of the highway will proceed so that it can be determined exactly the area required on either side. Property owners will then be contacted, it was stated.

Mr. Holstein, who was present at the meeting, said that 79 tracts are involved along the course of the road and that 31 property owners have already signed easements, leaving 48 from which to secure rights-of-way.

Plans are proceeding for a Democratic rally to be held at the Laurens County court house Monday evening, Nov. 15, at 7:30.

The rally is sponsored by the Laurens County Young Democrats headed by Thomas V. Reames of Laurens as president.

The principal speaker will be Congressman W. J. Bryan Dorn of Greenwood, who represents the Third Congressional District.

Also in attendance will be Don Fowler, of Columbia, president of S. C. Young Democrats. Other Democratic leaders are also expected to attend. It was stated.

All Democrats and other interested citizens are invited.

The four-laning of the road for the entire route is expected to expedite the securing of rights-of-way, it was stated.

Formerly, it was planned to make the road four-lane at the Clinton and Laurens ends, with a two-lane road for the intervening distance.

Some objection was expressed by property owners along the route to that plan, it was stated, and signing of rights-of-way was withheld by a number of property owners.

Car Hits Utilities Pole

Mrs. Pressley Chaney of 803 Jefferson St., was injured Sunday afternoon about 3:30 when the car she was driving hit a utilities pole at the corner of West Centennial and Thornwell Streets. With her was a passenger, Miss Priscilla Nan Williamson of Blufford St., and both were taken to Bailey Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries.

Officers stated that it is thought that Miss Williamson was teaching Mrs. Chaney to drive, and that Mrs. Chaney must have touched the accelerator rather than the brake as she was turning from Centennial into Thornwell Street. Investigating were Assistant Chief of Police W. B. Bakely and Officer W. E. Marso. Photo by Paul Quinton.
