Horton-Davenport Christmas Party

The Cornwall home on East Carolina Avenue was the setting for a most charming party given by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Horton and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Davenport on Saturday evening from seven-thirty to nine o'clock.

The Christmas theme was carried out in decorating the home and party refreshments.

Guests were led to the side door from the front walk adorned with tall lighted candles dressed with holly and red bows. A huge Christmas wreath covered the front door. Sprays of cedar accented at intervals with red bows covered the side entrance and step rails.

Greeting the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Horton and Mr. and Mrs. Davenport, who invited them into the dining room. Party dainties with punch and coffee were served buffet style from a prettily appointed table covered with an impore army and navy cover over pink satin. Only the glow of burning tapers lighted the room. Centering the buffet table was a tall silver and crystal epergne arrangement of pink debutant camellias. To each side five branched candelabra with green tapers were used. Gracing the bay windows were candelabra and similar arrangements. Also tapers were used on the serving table and mantel.

In the hall a huge decorated Christmas tree reaching above the ceiling to the top of the staircase was the center of attraction. Adorning the staircase were garlands of simlax interspersed with red ribbons and tied at the bottom with clusters of silver bells.

In the parlor a gold colornote was used in arrangements at points of interest with burning green tapers in silver candelabra. The den was adorned with holly and red Christmas balls.
