

College's 87th Session To Begin Next Monday

In a major change of its academic calendar, Presbyterian College will open its 87th session next Monday (August 22) with the fall semester that will end just prior to Christmas holidays.

Freshmen are being invited to come to the campus this Saturday for a preliminary orientation program sponsored by the Student Christian Association. It will extend through Sunday afternoon.

With official opening of school on Monday, PC will be starting its fall semester three weeks earlier than in previous years. The semester is scheduled to end on December 17, thus enabling students to complete this unit of work before leaving for the Christmas holidays. When they return on January 9, they will immediately register for the second semester.

The preliminary orientation period will include: a Saturday night program led by Dr. Virginia S. Hardie, Clemson University guidance director; morning worship services, followed by a Sunday afternoon program led by Dr. Claude Cooler, Presbyterian College guidance director, and a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Marc Weersing that night.

Monday and Tuesday also will be given to orientation work with the new students. Placement tests and conferences with faculty members and students leaders will be combined with special entertainment at the faculty-freshman banquet Monday night and at the various churches of Clinton on Tuesday night. Freshmen will register next Wednesday afternoon and then participate in the annual Student Christian Association picnic that evening.

Upperclassmen, meanwhile, have their first official meeting of the fall semester Wednesday morning, when they meet with faculty advisers in preparation for registration the next day. Classwork is to begin at Presbyterian College on regular schedule on Friday, August 26.

Presbyterian Will Participate In Georgia Fund

An anonymous challenge grant of $300,000 gives a strong send-off to the Georgia Synod campaign which is seeking $4 million for Presbyterian College and six other church agencies, including Thornwell Orphanage.

This gift included, the initial campaign results announced today stand at $444,586.

The $300,000 incentive grant is dependent upon the successful completion of the campaign. PC will receive $200,000 of the grant as part of the college's 1 1/2 million designated share of the total campaign goal.

Presbyterian College officials today also announced two other grants made directly to the college. The John and Mary Franklin Foundation of Atlanta is presenting $50,000 to underwrite the cost of the main physics laboratory in the new science hall, which was completed during the past year. Foundation trustees designated the gift in honor of the organization's co-founders, Mrs. Mary Franklin and the late John Franklin, former Atlanta business and church leader.

A $5,000 grant from the Tull Foundation of Atlanta has been given to PC for unrestricted use in the development program. The foundation bears the name of the late J. M. Tull, Southern industrial leader and founder of the J. M. Tull Metal and Metal Supply Co.

Little Theater Tryouts Are Set

Casting for the Laurens Little Theater will get underway Monday, August 29, when tryouts will be given for the new play "My Three Angels."

The comedy will feature parts for seven males and three females. Anyone interested is asked to meet at the above date in the Friendship Room of the Laurens Federal Savings and Loan Association on W. Main Street.

County Library Applies For Periodical Grant

Laurens County Library has applied to the South Carolina State Library Board for a grant to continue periodic subscriptions under the provisions of the initial periodical project of 1964-65. This project has greatly improved and supplemented the reference service of the library and adds to the collection of the library.

"If our quarterbacks come through, we should be fairly good," said Clinton High Coach Claude Howe at the beginning of the second week of practice Monday. "We're in pretty good shape in other spots."

The Red Devils began their 1966 work on Monday, Aug. 8, and spent the first week in limbering up exercises and drills. They put on pads at the beginning of this week and are getting a little of the rough stuff, hitting tackling dummies, etc.

By the end of the week they will be well into preparation for the opening of the season with York here on Sept. 2, the first of the six-game home schedule. They will have five games away.

Coach Herman Jackson is back as line coach and is putting the centers, guards and tackles through their paces.

Preston Cox, 1966 Erskine graduate of Honea Path, is a 50 important periodicals to a new member of the coaching staff this year, succeeding James Cox, who will do graduate study at Creighton University, Omaha, Neb. Cox will handle the ends and the junior varsity team.

Freddie Tumbler will have the first shot at the quarterback spot and both Ben Hammet and Rick Lollis will be waiting in the wings. Francis Cooper and Henry Simmons will battle for the right to replace AA Back of the Year Joel Whitsel and team with Hampton at halfback.

Coach Howe has 16 lettermen returning from his 1965 powerhouse and claims one of the state's best halfbacks — Darryl Hampton. It looks as if the team is solid everywhere with the possible exception of quarterback.

Add to that a solid line and the sum has to be another top-notch squad for the Red Devils.

Miss Pennington Is Named To PC Art Program

The inauguration of an art program within the department of fine arts and the appointment of an instructor to launch this program were announced today by President Marc C. Weersing.

He said this represents the third major step in the development of the fine arts offerings at PC and follows expansion of the music and drama areas last year.

The new instructor in art is Mary Anne Pennington, who comes to Presbyterian from the Richmond Professional Institute where she has just received her master of fine arts degree. She also earned her bachelor's degree from this institution after previous study at East Carolina College and the University of Maryland Far East Division. Miss Pennington was in the Far East as the daughter of a career Army officer.

A native of Franklin, Va., the 22-year-old artist has had works to appear in several exhibitions in the Richmond area and was invited to attend the Third National Sculpture Casting Conference at the University of Kansas. Her major interest is in sculpture, but she also has had strong preparation in painting, graphics and art history. Her thesis research in graduate school dealt with the application of an industrial casting process to sculpture.
