*ROUND THE TOWN

The 'Spooking'

(Editor's Note: Today's column is written by Scoutmaster Mike Turner who recently received the Silver Beaver award for his dedication and contribution to scouting. The incident reported here happened last weekend and Turner said, "I might as well tell it before they tell it on me.")

BY MIKE TURNER Scoutmaster, Troop 111 Last Friday night, Troop 111 toook off for an an overnight fishing trip to James Jacks' farm pond. After fishing, cooking, snipe hunting, etc., the troop gathered around the campfire for a ghost story session.

When things got pretty spooky, the scoutmaster slipped over to talk with some of the older boys, and it seemed like a good idea for several of them to go up and haunt the upstairs of James' old abandoned house near the dairy barn in preparation for a visit by the rest of the troop later. Several scouts thereupon departed (the scoutmaster not knowing how many) to get on with the spook-

Afer several minutes, scouts "Mud" Jacks and Jimmy Audia repappeared at the campfire breathless and white as you-know-what, and proceeded to tell that upon arriving at the old house, they saw lights upstairs and heard noises and that verily, the house was already adequately haunted.

With the other scouts admonished to remain around the campfire, the scoutmaster accompanied Mud and Jimmy up to the house to disprove the tricks that their eyes and ears had played on them. When we arrived at the house, other would-bespooks were hiding in various places, peeping at the house and watching the goings on. About this time, the scoutmaster looked up towards the middle upstairs window and sure enough, there was an eerie light moving around. He then decided that Mr. Jacks should know about this, after commissioning several scouts to watch for a safe distance, he went to solicit Mr. Jacks' good help.

James was playing bridge with his kinfolk so we loaded up Phil, Fran, Mud, Jimmy and others and headed for the scene of the mytsery. When we arrived we turned the car lights full on the house and James challenged in a loud voice for whoever might be in there to come on out and then we all jumped behind silos, grain bins, rocks, cars, or whateved was handy. The only reply was a window raising and we felt theye were escaping form the side or back so we had another car shine lights on the back of the house to prevent escape from this direction.

Imagination, mystery and excitement were all running rampant at this point and when James and Mike discussed all the bad things going on in the world today, we dediced this was a clear case for the law. James then departed to telephone the county sheriff and our very efficient county deputies appeared within minutes.

After a brief explanation as to how all this happened, they turned their lights on the house and marched straight in with all bravery while the rest of us hid.

Within minutes, they had the culprits in hand. Out marched three very frightened scout spook types who had beaten Mud, Jimmy and Vernon to the house by just enough time to create this com-

The scene was made possible by darkness, confusion, some scouts at campfire, some in bushes, scoutmaster behind grain bin, Jacks behind everything, and a count of noses impossible.

Exit scout spook type, goodbye and thank you nice lawmen, good night most Jacks', exit red-faced practical joking scoutmaster, and good night James

Virginia Rogers Crowned As 'Miss Clinton Of '70'

Virginia Adair Rogers, a sophomore at Clemson University and a native of Clinton, is the 1970 Miss Clinton.

Miss Rogers, a 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Rogers of Clinton, was crowned Saturday night at the Clinton Jaycee-sponsored Miss Clinton Pageant. The pageant attracted a near capacity audience to Belk Auditorium on the Presbyterian College campus. It was the largest crowd to attend the pageant in at least the past three years.

Miss Rogers will attend the Miss South Carolina pageant in July as an observer and will represent Clinton in the 1970 state pageant. She was crowned by Pat Davis, Miss Clinton of 1969 who will represent Clinton in this year's state pageant.

Virginia Leaman (Ginger) Crocker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Crocker, was first runner-up and Gloria Dale Nabors, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Carson Nabors, was second runner-up. Miss Crocker and Miss Nabors both are seniors at Clinton High School.

Polly Ann Adair, a rising senior at Winthrop College, was named "Miss Congeniality." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Adair Sr. of Route 1, Clin-

Missi Cooper, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Cooper Jr. of Clinton, was named Little Miss Clinton of 1970. She was crowned by Barbara Frady, Little Miss Clinton of 1969 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Frady.

The new Miss Clinton is majoring in psychology at Clemson University where her brother, Phil, was an outstanding football player. She plans to enter the field of education upon graduation. An avid sports enthusiast, she is 5 feet, 3 inches tall, has blonde hair and blue eyes. She sang and clogged for her talent presentation which was well received.

In winning the title, Miss Rogers received a $150 scholarship from the Jaycees and $50 from Pepsi Cola. She also received a crown and trophy. Miss Crocker received a $100 savings bond and a trophy and Miss Nabors was presented a $50 savings bond and trophy. Ramage Wins National Merit Scholarship

Albert A. (Gus) Ramage, a senior at Clinton High School, has been named winner of a $1,000 National Merit Scholarship.

Ramage's grant is one of 1,000 unrestricted scholarships awarded nationally this year under the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ramage, he intends to attend Clemson University next fall.He was selected as the Laurens County and Congressional District Four "Star student" earlier this year. Last year, he was a Furman Scholar.

All winners of a National Merit Scholarship are chosen by a se-

Program began in February. 1968, when 793,114 students in 17,572 schools took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Of that group, 15,000 were selected as semifinalists, the highest-scoring students in each state. The number of semifinalists in each state is proportional to its number of graduating secondary school seniors and constitutes less than one per cent of those seniors.

About 97 per cent of the semifinalists each year advance to finalist level and thereby become The fourteenth annual Merit eligible for Merit Scholarships.

> The finalist competition is based on demonstrated academic performance and high potential for future accomplishment. The committee evaluates such factors as test scores, high school grades, achievements outside the classroom, qualities of leadership and citizenship and endorsements by the school, Financial need is not a factor in selecting the winners.

Be that as it may, I will give you some Bailey genealogy. The grand old man of the Clinton Clan of Bailey's was Silas M. Bailey, who was born June 22, 1805, and died October 22, 1872. He was married three times. His first wife was Margaret Beasley. To them were born William Logan Bailey. James Bailey, Mercer Silas Bailey, Dolly Bailey Milam, Mary Ann Bailey May, Dora Bailey Bailey, and Cindy Bailey Chandler. His second wife was Pamelia Nelson. She died, leaving no children. His third wife was Fannie Bolt. To them was born Clayte C. Bailey, George W. Bailey, P. Bee Bailey. Lelia Bailey Sumerel, Robert L. Bailey, Sam D. Bailey, and Rebecca Bailey Bobo. Now, see if you can figure out who you are kin to. Thanks to Mrs. Helen Sumerel Anderson of Clinton for the above genealogy. Silas M. Bailey is buried in the northwest corner of the Presbyterian Cemetery beside his third wife, Mrs. Fannie Bolt Bailey.
