Other Memoirs

BY JOE H. SIMPSON

Over the years of my youth, I had a number of teachers in the Clinton Schools, most of whom were very efficient and lovable.

I want to pay tribute to two who made a deep impression on me. I know that a lot of you "youngsters of yesteryear" will agree with me on these two, but will also want to add others, which I am sure are worthy of our love and admiration. Yes, we had many qualified and Christian teachers, but I refer here to Mrs. John Spratt, (nee Tallulah Neville) and Mrs. A. C. Daniels (nee Laura Aull).

Miss Tallulah was well qualified as a teacher. She did not stop with the book learning, but was interested in your health, social and general growth as a good citizen. Yes, she was as pretty inside as outside.

Miss Laura saw to it that you knew each lesson and she was a true friend if you would alher to be.

Memory of these two and others remains with us long after they have passed on. May our teachers of today realize the great responsibility that is theirs, of training our future citizens.
