Mr. C. W. Estes, General Agent,
Southeastern Life Insurance Company,
Cheraw, S. C.

Dear Sir:-

I wish to thank you and your company for your promptness in paying Policy #180 on the life of my brother, G. Wells Vaughn. Although he had insurance with other companies, none received such prompt attention as yours. Little did we think when the policy was taken out that it would be such a little while before he would be taken away from us.

Again thanking you,

Respectfully,

(Miss) Carrie Belle Vaughn

From present indications there will be an abundance of flowers and the show a greater success, if possible than last year. And just as a reminder to the prize winners of the Chrysanthemum show last fall, now is the time to put out your "mums," to have them in prime order for the November show. "A hint to the wise is sufficient."

Cotton.

duction; and then shows how to make cotton under boll-weevil conditions. As the boll-weevil has not yet invaded this territory we will not give this argument.

Some other practical views are thrown out in the address; he says: "We hear it in all sections that 'we should diversify and raise less cotton.' I agree with you. We should diversify but we must raise more cotton per acre with fewer acres to the crop."

"For a farmer to buy everything with one crop is unsafe and uneconomic and therefore must ultimately be a failure. The South has had greater opportunities to gain wealth than any portion of the United States. It has made the money but it has not kept it because it has failed to produce the things necessary for sustenance on the farm and has chosen to buy them at greater expense from abroad."

In summing up he gives this sound advice: "Do not lay by cotton as usual but continue to cultivate until the boll begins to open; cotton is thus made all the time. To gain the greatest good you must supervise your tenants; you must give them to understand that the day of the haphazard method has gone. It is the man who uses the most horse and mule power who wins the day. The successful man is the one who enslaves machinery; we are in the period of higher prices for labor; it is here to stay. I believe that the man who will win is the one who will see to it that he gets more work out of his labor by the use of better teams and tools."

"The South should be the richest country in the world; that is from an agricultural stand-point. You have advantage over every other country for the production of good crops, and if you do not succeed it is your fault, because you failed to apply the proper methods for planting and making a good crop."

"Do not get scared by the boll-weevil; it can be whipped. Diversify your crops and get more out of the soil; when you are talking about abandoning cotton you are laying the foundation for agricultural distrust and that means an agricultural panic. You might just as well put dynamite under your cities and blow them up as to destroy your agricultural districts. The prosperity of the two must go together. The government gives you a method by which you can succeed if you will."
