It's Better Than a Letter.

From way off in Mississippi comes a renewal for a year's subscription, with the statement: "I cannot do without The Chronicle; it is better than a letter from the home folks."

The case against Will Ervin, charged with murder, resulted in a verdict of guilty with the recommendation to mercy, which sends him to the penitentiary for life. Mr. P. A. Murray, Jr. the young attorney appointed by Judge Shipp to defend him, did so in a creditable manner. This was Mr. Murray's first appearance in our courts.—Chesterfield Advertiser.

Attention, Flower Growers!

As has been announced the ladies of the Civic League intend this year giving their annual flower show, and The Chronicle begs to remind the flower growers of the city and the surrounding territory and urge them to plant their chrysanthemums early. Get ready to plant; plan your work now—do not put it off and let the matter slip by until planting time is over. If plants are to be ordered they should be ordered now in order to get the best attention. A dozen or so good plants of the modern and greatly improved chrysanthemums properly selected will not only give you much enjoyment, while a garden of these showy and effective favorites can be readily made a delight.

The average home ground as a rule has several available spots for chrysanthemums, and the ladies, we are sure, would be glad that as many as possible grow them this year and thus help to make the flower show a great success.

Dr. Chas. D. Walters.

The Chronicle was pleased to learn this week of the graduation of Mr. Chas. D. Walters, from the Atlanta College of Pharmacy.

Dr. Walters is a brother to Messrs George M. and Jeff. D. Walters of the Walters-Terrell Company and Mr. Jno. B. Walters of The Cheraw Mercantile Company, of our city. He numbers his friends in Cheraw by the score, and the news of his success will be learned with much pleasure.
