THE GREATEST COTTON CROP

ESTIMATED AT 14,885,000 BALS

This State's Yield Is Given as 1,480,- 000—Acreage Is Larger Than In Former Years.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The total production of cotton in the United States for the season of 1911-12 will amount to 7,121,713,000 pounds (not including linters) of 14,885,000 bales of 500 pounds, gross weight, according to the first official estimate of the size of the crop issued at 2 p. m. today by the crop reporting board of the United States department of agriculture and made up from reports of the correspondents and agents of the bureau of statistics throughout the cotton belt.

Heretofore the record cotton crop was that of the year 1904, when 13,- 438,012 bales, exclusive of linters were grown. Other large crops were those of 1906, which was 13,273,809 bales, and 1908, when 13,241,799 bales were grown. In point of value, however the crop of 1910, which was 11,- 608,616 bales, exclusive of linters, was the record one, the fibre being valued at $820,320,000 and the cotton seed at $142,860,000, a total of $963,180,- 000 as the aggregate value of the cotton crop of that year.

Conditions early in the growing belt, later in the season weather conditions were distinctly favorable and on the contrary, the conditions placed the probable production well toward the figure of the biggest crop heretofore grown. The acreage on which cotton was planted this season was estimated by the department of agriculture to be 35,004,000 acres, a greater area than ever before planted to cotton in this country. This vast area exceeded the previous record of acreage by more than 2,500,000 acres, there having been planted 32,444,000 acres in 1908 and 32,403,000 acres last year. In the record production were planted.

Scorching hot and excessive dry weather during the middle of the summer caused considerable damage to cotton in many parts of the cotton

a result of the record acreage and splendid growing conditions then prevailing. One result of the hot weather was that the crop matured about two weeks earlier than usual.

Don't Forget to Register.

Next Monday the County Board of Registration will be in Cheraw for the purpose of registering all those who are qualified under the law, and as this will be the only chance to secure a registration certificate so as to enable you to vote in the approaching Municipal Primary, it behooves you to come out and secure your registration certificate. The board will meet Monday, Dec. 18, at 10 o'clock a.m. day, and that this will be the only chance to secure a registration certificate for this election.
