CHERAW, S. C., FEBRUARY 9, 1922

NO 14.

Episcopal Womens Auxiliary Passes Resolution.

At the regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church held Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. E. H. Duval's, the following resolution was drawn and adopted: "We, the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. David's, Cheraw, S. C. go on record as being in favor of the Simonhoff Bill, and urging that the State Board of Health be kept intact with the Tuberculosis Sanatorium under its supervision and that the election of the Secretary of this Board be by the Executive Committee appointed by the State Medical Association."

Four Cheraw Stores to Hold Dollar Days.

Four of Cheraw's merchants will give Dollar Day bargains for three days, next Friday, Saturday and Monday. S. Adelmy & Bro., Horton's Cash Store, The New Store and L. M. Evans Co. will give bargains on these three days that will warrant the public's going to their stores and making purchases. These merchants are not making money by selling the goods offered, but in order to advertise their stores they offer this opportunity. Read their advertisements in this issue.

Washington's Birthday Party.

The D. A. R.'s will give a Pledge and Book Party on Wednesday, February 22nd at 4 o'clock, at the residence of Miss Elise Duval. Admission 50c. Those wishing to reserve a table will please phone either Mrs. C. H. Waddill, Miss Katie Harrell or Mr. Edwin Malloy.

J. P. Polson's Loses Home.

On last Friday afternoon Mr. J. P. Polson of near Patrick lost his home by fire. It seems that Mrs. Polson and children were away from home for the day and while Mr. Polson was at the barn near by, with several tenants the house caught fire and under the roof. The fire was not discovered by the party in the barn until the roof was falling in, too late to save anything. The dwelling was insured for $2,000 through a Cheraw agency.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH MY TOWN?

Dr. John E. White, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Anderson, preached a sermon recently on "What's the Matter With Anderson?" The diagnosis he gave of the cause that afflict his city makes good reading for citizens of other towns. We quote, in part, from The Daily Mail: "There is another thing the matter in Anderson. We are not coordinating our sympathies fairly. The building forces of a young city include the churches. Organized religion is practically just as much a factor in the promotion of progress and happiness as mills and banks. Why is it that so many citizens are not lending their personal influence to the churches? They are public spirited about other things. They are committed ardently to the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, the Young Men's Business League, the Country Club, and other civic institutions, but they are not supporting the churches. They have cut out going to church. I want to say they are not giving Anderson a square deal. They haven't thought of it this way, but they ought to think of it this way. They expect the churches and Sunday schools to promote religion and morality in the town and to train the younger generation in these things as some good church trained them in the formative period of their lives. I plead for the claims of the churches upon their personal attention. It is putting it on the lowest ground of appeal to claim that they are not playing fair with the preachers and the churches, but it is a solid ground of fact. Let me lift it to a high level; the citizens of Anderson who let the churches stay outside their personal interests are risking far more of good in the future of the town than if they were putting another institution of common welfare outside their personal interests. They are risking their families, their neighbor's families and their souls. Mr. and Mrs. Churchforsakers are almost without exception bound to become Mr. and Mrs. Godforsakers. It is not the organization of the church which will taboo; it is the sense of God, of Prayer, or religion in the elementary sense. As surely as gossipers evolve into scandal mongers just as surely church forsakers evolve into God forsakers. Now if a man is an out and out atheist, give him credit for intellectual honesty and let him lie in the bed he makes for himself. But to confess privately a desire for good religious influences and a belief in the Bible, and a disposition to contribute money to help along in these things, and then put the weight of their character, their example, and their influence on Sundays against the churches by never going about them, is not only a hypocritical injury, but it is a gross personal inconsistency and it is an injury of big spirited public minded men." The Baptist Courier, Feb. 2

Former Cheraw Teacher Honored.

Mrs. Andrena Williams, of Johnston, S. C., has been selected from about 10,000 students of the Woman's Institute of Domestic Arts and Sciences in ten southeastern states to attend as a guest of honor the dedication of the Institute's new million-dollar building in Scranton, Pa., on Sept. 29th. She is one of the 10,000 chosen from the Institute's 125,070 students in all parts of the world to receive this distinction. The Woman's Institute, which teaches dressmaking, millinery and cookery by mail, is the largest women's college in the world. It has a staff of 546 instructors and other employees and with its new building it covers 68,000 square feet of floor space.

Many of our readers will remember Mrs. Johnson referred to in the above article, who as Miss Andrena Oatis taught school here in 1908. Her many friends here will read with pleasure of this honor conferred upon her.

Maj. W. L. Gillespie Loses Barn and Contents by Fire.

Last Sunday morning about 10 o'clock Maj. W. L. Gillespie suffers the loss of his barn and most of its contents by fire. About 10 bales of long staple cotton, some nitrate of soda, hay, feed stuff and some old mahogany furniture were totally destroyed. The furniture stored in the barn belonged to Maj. Gillespie's mother and was to have been moved to a house on the following day, Monday. The fire occurred at the time when her telephone operators were observing Sunday hours, consequently, the alarm was slow in getting to the fire department. By the time the fire truck arrived on the scene there was little chance to do much toward saving the building. No insurance was carried except possibly a small amount on the building. The fire originated from a match struck by Maj. Gillespie's little son, playing near the cotton.

GRAVES IN ST. DAVID'S CEMETERY

Near the center of the cemetery is the grave of

DANIEL B. McARN
Born 1809
Died 1867

Mr. McArn came to Cheraw from North Carolina early in the thirties. He was a merchant and his store on Front Street prior to the Civil War was one of the largest in this section. He was Mayor of the town in 1865, and, as such, had to surrender the town to Sherman.

In the fall of 1867 he went to New York to purchase goods. While going to the station to take the train for Cheraw he was run over by a bus and instantly killed.

His son, Dr. A. H. McArn, is the present pastor of the Presbyterian church in Cheraw.

D. A. R. Meeting.

The January meeting of the Old Cheraws Chapter, D. A. R. was held at the home of Mrs. Robt. Chapman on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 28.

Despite the inclemency of the weather a very representative number was present.

The topic for consideration was "Home Work." After the meeting was called to order by the Regent, Mrs. C. L. Prince, the roll call was responded to with "Needs of our Town." This was followed by a Round Table Discussion of this ever interesting and vital subject led by Mrs. Prince.

It was finally decided that we request of the editor, space in his paper each week to present some need of our town.

Mrs. R. E. Hanna gave a very interesting paper on "The Woman and the Child Offender."

The social hour followed, during which a salad course with accessories was served.

Among the guests present were Mrs. H. C. Dockery, of Rockingham, N. C., and Mrs. B. F. Foster, of Cardinal, Va.

A Community Nurse.

The Round Table discussion on "Needs of Our Town" at the January meeting of Old Cheraws Chapter, D. A. R., brought forth various suggestions relative to the religious, educational and political life of the town. All of which if put into effect, would contribute towards the development of a "Charming Cheraw" which would be in every respect, a "Tip Top Town."

Among the needs mentioned, there was none which met with greater interest than that of a Community Nurse. The Community Nurse is no longer an experiment; she has in many towns, cities, and counties justified her position.

The Public Health Nurse has taken a post graduate course which preparation is required to fit her for work which is different in character and broader in scope than that of a regular professional nurse. Her motto is "Prevention." Her task is not to teach to nurse the sick as to take such care as shall prevent sickness. She makes regular inspection of children in the school where her trained eye quickly detects first symptoms of contagious diseases, under-nourished children, and various other disorders. She visits in the homes of those who need her services. She conducts classes for the instruction of mothers on the feeding and care of babies, on home nursing, and other kindred subjects. She is the physician's ready help in time of epidemic. She does not nurse regular cases of sickness except emergency cases for which she may always be called, with the consent of the attending physician.

In short, the Public Health Nurse comes to a community as the messenger of the Gospel of Health. The experience of other towns is that she is an influence for converting the ignorant to the laws of health; that, by way of preventive work, she renders much assistance in arresting the spread of disease; that she is a welcome help to the physician.

This nursing service is necessary, expensive, but other towns have weighed the cost of sickness and have found that from an economic point of view it is a good investment. They no longer consider it a luxury but a necessity.

Should we not profit by their experience and secure this benefit for Cheraw? If all organizations of the town should unite in effort for this object, we believe it could be accomplished.

Mr. Frank Evans who had a very serious operation is improving and very encouraging report was received about him yesterday.

Mr. E. H. Graves spent several days this week in Laurens.

INTERESTING PHRASES OF CLUB WORK

Clemson College, Feb. 2.—The annual report of L. L. Baker, supervising agent of boys' club work, for 1921 shows some interesting phases of decided educational value, such as community organization, encampments and short courses, exhibits at state and county fairs, dealings with banks, the use of purebred seed and pure bred animals, etc., things which make club work worth while, regardless of the monetary value of club work.

The community club method of conducting boys' club work was tried out for the first time in 1921 and proved a most satisfactory method from all angles, particularly because of its educational effect upon the members in training them to transact their own affairs and learn the value of cooperation. There were 49 community clubs, with a total membership of 744. These clubs held 245 meetings carrying out monthly programs and instructions furnished by club leaders. The wisdom of the community club plan is borne out by the returns of county agents, the most efficient work having been done in those counties which have had community organizations.

As an illustration of business methods learned by club members, money was borrowed by members for club work from 32 banks, the total amount being $480. There were 450 club members having their own bank accounts in conducting their club work.

The value of purebred seed and purebred stock was taught the club members by the county agents and club leaders, and 500 purebred pigs, 280 good grade pigs, and 28 purebred calves were distributed to members. Seventy bushels of purebred seed corn were used by club members, 249 of whom planted catch crops for soil improvement.

List of Contributors.

We give below a list of those who have contributed to the up-keep of the Cemetery for the year 1922. If your name does not appear, the Committee will appreciate very much your mailing your contribution to W. E. Duval, Treas. Anyone who goes and looks at the Cemetery will agree that improved appearance and well-kept grounds are well worth a contribution from all interested.

Death of Chas. Turnage.

Mr. Chas. Turnage, who lives in Marlboro county beyond Grant's Mill was found dead in bed about 10 o'clock morning. It seems that he, accompanied by Mr. Henry Paddock of Bennettsville passed through Cheraw yesterday on their way to the upper part of the county. They spent the night at the house near Ruby both sleeping in the same bed. This morning Mr. Paddock discovered that Mr. Turnage had died during the night.

Letter from Jr. O. U. A. M.

Dear Sirs: Pee Dee Council No. 40—Jr. O. U. A. M. desires to thank you and your staff for the assistance you gave us in making Prof. Aro's magical show a success last Friday evening.

The Juniors who were present on Thursday night were doubly favored in having on Friday to enjoy the pleasure of some 125 children in their happiness over the two hours of constant cheering from Aro's Magical tricks.

Not the least of our pleasure was the close attention and courteous conduct of those children and Prof. Aro's remarks that Cheraw must be a fine town for he had never played to better behaved audiences.

SUNDAY HOURS TELEPHONE SERVICE CAUSES LOSS

Citizens Complain

Editor Cheraw Chronicle: By his fire last Sunday morning Maj. Gillespie lost at least five thousand dollars of good money. Who is responsible for that loss? There was no telephone service at the time because the town has not enough backbone to force an all day service on Sundays, as all other towns of the same size have. There was no pressure on the water when the alarm was given, and by the time that was put on the big barn and contents were completely destroyed. Why is not our water system kept at a hundred per cent efficiency so that a fire can be put out at any time? Years ago when we had no fire apparatus and no water system we stood around a fire and saw it burn. We did that on Sunday. Yet we are taxed for protection against fire. In my neighborhood there are ten houses that have no fire protection because we have no hydrant near enough and the town has not hose enough to reach us. But we pay for protection all the same. Five or more years ago, a petition was sent to town Council signed by all the property owners up here, asking for a hydrant, but it is not here yet. Yet we are paying for protection. If a fire breaks out up here under such circumstances, who will be prosecuted for damages? J. S. HARTZELL.

W. H. Rainwater

Florence, Feb. 8.—W. H. Rainwater died suddenly at his home here Monday night. He was 70 years old. Mr. Rainwater had been in failing health for the past two years but the family was unprepared for the end. He leaves a widow and 11 children, two of whom, I. H. and L. S. Rainwater, are well known and successful business men of Florence. Mr. Rainwater was a retired farmer and owned a large plantation in Georgia. He had lived here for the best five years. The funeral services were held at the First Baptist church. Beside the widow the following children survive: J. E. Rainwater, Bennettsville; F. P. and F. G. Rainwater, Cheraw; C. H. Rainwater, Tifton, Ga.; Miss Cleo Rainwater, Athens, Ga.; Miss Lois Rainwater, Wagner and Mrs. L. D. Rhodes, Sanford, Fla.; I. S. and J. H. Rainwater, Florence—The State, Feb. 9th.

The many friends of Messrs. F. G. Rainwater here will be sorry to learn of the death of their father. The Chronicle extends sympathy to them in this bereavement.

C. C. Anderson

Timonmsville, Feb. 4.—C. C. Anderson, aged 71, a well known and highly esteemed citizen of this county died Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Hopkins while on a visit to his daughter. The funeral service were held here Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of Clarence Anderson and were conducted by the Rev. J. A. Gaines of the Baptist church assisted by the Rev. Roy Phillips of the Methodist church.

Mr. Anderson was a prominent farmer and business man of this section. The Citizen's Bank, of which his son, Laurie Anderson, is vice president, and the C. C. Anderson Company were closed here Friday. Besides many friends to mourn the death Mr. Anderson leaves the following sons and daughters: Clarence Anderson and Laurie Anderson of Timonmsville, J. L. and H. C. Anderson of Cheraw, C. C. Anderson, Jr., of Augusta, Mrs. Edward Clarkson and Mrs. James A. Clarkson, both of Hopkins and Mrs. F. C. Bane of Cheraw—Columbia Record, Feb. 5.

The foregoing account of the death of Mr. C. C. Anderson, father of Mr. J. L. Anderson, will be read with sorrow by both the friends of father and son here.

Is Your Name on this List?

It is the desire of the American Legion to get in touch with every service man in or near Cheraw, and will be glad if all whose name does not appear on the following list will turn their names in to the Chronicle office, or to the Post Adjutant right away. LESPEDEZA AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR COTTON

Lespedeza, one of the South's greatest legumes, is the title of an interesting article prepared for the Lespedeza Seed Growers' Cooperative Assn., Inc., by Dr. R. E. Lewis, Bains, Louisiana, a prominent farmer who is specializing in the growing of this profitable crop.

While the name, Lespedeza, was supposed to have been given this plant by botanists in 1800; it was not until 1880 that it received the attention its merits warrant, as a commercial farm product, under the development of Col. J. B. McGehee, of Laurel Hill, Louisiana, who recognized its value as a feed for farm animals and as a soil builder, and who sang its praises for years. Its place in southern agriculture is due largely to Col. McGehee, says Dr. Lewis.

Lespedeza is an annual, maturing its seed in the fall, which shatter readily and reseed the ground for the coming year. Normally, these seeds which shatter off at maturing time remain dormant until the warmth and moisture germinate them. It is the practice to plant from February 15 to May 1.

The stems and branches of the Lespedeza plant are slender and the leaves small but very numerous. A good crop will grow to the height of 15 to 18 inches, and on fertile soils 30 inches is not unknown. It is estimated that a good stand of Lespedeza will represent a ton of hay for each 6 inches of its growth.

This plant will grow on almost any of the types of soil in the cotton belt, but of course like most other plants does best on a more fertile, well drained soil. It is thought that no plant is more suitable to follow cotton, as Lespedeza brings the soil back to its former state of fertility.

The custom of seeding Lespedeza with oats has become more or less a fixed habit among the producers, as the oats, by virtue of its shade keeps down weeds and grasses and allows the Lespedeza to make rapid growth. However, just as good crops can be produced when the seed is sown alone; but seeding with oats has the advantage of giving the planter two crops from the same ground during the year, with but one cost of cultivation. Experience indicates that one bushel of seed (25 lbs.) per acre is about the right amount to be planted. It requires no inoculation, as the rough little jackets containing the seeds carry enough from the fields from which they are taken to insure perfect inoculation.

No special soil preparation is necessary, although it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that soils well supplied with phosphates will produce the greatest growth.

Little need be said in favor of Lespedeza hay as a feed for all kinds of stock after looking at the following comparative analyses: Timothy contains 2.8 percent protein, 28.3 percent carbohydrates and 1.6 percent fat. Lespedeza contains 7.6 percent protein, 31.0 percent carbohydrates and 1.8 percent fat. As compared with other legume hays it has the advantage of being free from woody growth, permitting its entire consumption and is free from the extreme laxative properties which make some legume hays undesirable for work stock.

When used as a pasture with other grasses it helps to make a balanced ration and should be found in every pasture in the South, thinks Dr. Lewis. As a soil builder it ranks with other legumes.

The Lespedeza Seed Growers' Cooperative Association, Inc., of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, has done much in the way of standardizing the seed and seed prices, also in disseminating information in connection with the best known methods of cultivation and harvesting. According to reports sent out from the office of the Association, orders for more than one-third of the seed pool have been received. This was on January 28, 1922, at which time the seed market had hardly opened.

Three years ago the Republicans, in the middle of President Wilson's second term, won the House and got control of the Senate through bribery—the bribery being in Michigan, where a seat was purchased for Truman H. Newberry. Then they raised a great cry for the President to summon Congress in extra session so that they could do something to help the soldiers, with bonus legislation, provision for the wounded, sick in care and so on—so Wilson called Congress. In his opening address, in April, 1919 he asked Congress to provide for the soldiers and revise the tax laws, which had been enacted in haste in Henry C. McDonald, Frank M. Guy, Geo. W. Terrell, Robt. M. McDonald, Ike Parrot W. Bell, Thos. A. Brewer, Frank W. McKeel, Walter Clark, R. M. Witherspoon, J. Hood White, J. K. McKown, James Polson, M. L. Clark, E. E. Clark, Lonnie Clark, Thornton Malloy, Joseph Pegues, Preston Pegues, Marter B. Smith, Philip A. Murray, Clifton Coward, Frank Zaloom, L. A. Corbett, Clifton Wallace.
