Treatment of Hog Cholera.

For the benefit of all whom it may concern, I will give my recent experience with hog cholera, how I got the remedy, the circumstances connected with it and the result of treatment. About the first of last November my hogs were dying daily with cholera. In fact up to that time I had lost every one of my pigs and nearly all of my younger hogs. I had my meat hogs shut up and separated entirely from those that were infected with the disease, but very soon those commenced to get sick and die, not one that was taken sick recovering, but dying in the short space of ten hours. While all this destruction was going on, I received my November number of the Southern Cultivator in searching through the columns I came upon the following cure for hog cholera. The Dawson, Georgia Journal states that Mr. Bob Murry, one of the most reliable planters of Calhoun Co., told of a sure cure for hog cholera that he was using. Several years ago Mr. Murray's hogs were dying in large numbers with cholera, and he checked its ravages by mixing with their food a moderate quantity of soda. A few days ago cholera again attacked his hogs, and he lost twelve in one day. He at once began giving soda and he has not had a hog to die since. While reading the above in the Cultivator, my wife came in and told me that two more of my large meat hogs had just died and three more were sick. In less than fifteen minutes after receiving this information my hogs were eating ground food with a liberal quantity of soda and salt mixed together. The three sick hogs just mentioned were not so bad but they ate some and got well. For ten days following I gave all my hogs a liberal mixture, at first twice a day; I have continued to give it occasionally up to this time, and now I am able to state, with pleasure, that I have not had a sick hog on my place since giving them the first dose of soda and salt mixture; now over two months ago. I will further state that having been so fortunate as to see this cholera cure in the Southern Cultivator and having tested its virtue fully, I do not hesitate to say that I consider it worth more to me than twenty times the subscription price that I paid for that excellent farm journal. W. K. CROSWELL. Manville, S. C. An Illinois farmer gives his hogs red pepper tea on their showing symptoms of cholera, and claims that this has always proved an effectual cure, and that he has never lost a porker so treated, while his neighbors have suffered seriously.
