NEW METHODIST PASTOR WELCOMED TO CAMDEN

One of the most delightful events of the recent weeks, was the reception tendered Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Wimberly, the new pastor of the Methodist church, by the members of his congregation, last Friday evening. The affair was planned by the chairman of the Official Board, and was met with unanimous approval by all. It was held at the American Legion Hall, and no less than one hundred attended, notwithstanding the downpour of rain, and other events in town that had been prearranged.

The choir from the church, directed by Mr. T. V. Walsh and Mrs. Lois Gandy entertained the crowd with some rousing inspirational songs. Miss Doty Zemp rendered a piano solo with the touch of an artist, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Zemp sang some beautiful duets. Mr. W. R. Zemp made an appropriate address of welcome to the new pastor and his wife, and was responded to by Dr. Wimberly. Delightful refreshments were served, and it was voted a most happy occasion.

The following pastors of the city called and extended a welcome to the new minister: Rev. J. B. Caston, of the Baptist church; Rev. A. D. McArn, of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. and Mrs. Craighill, rector of the Episcopal church, and Rev. Mr. Littlejohn, of the Waterree Baptist church.

On Sunday evening a union service was held in the Methodist church, participated in by all the local pastors and their people. The main auditorium was packed, and the Sunday School annex was also comfortably filled. Rev. Mr. Caston, presided, and gave warm words of welcome for the Baptist people; Rev. A. D. McArn, of the Presbyterian church, represented his people in the same wholesome, fraternal spirit. It was a two-fold welcome, as Rev. Frances Craighill, the new rector of the Episcopal church, had assumed charge very recently. All the ministers took part in the preliminaries, and Dr. Wimberly delivered the message.

Demonstration Agent Reviews Years Work

During the past year home demonstration clubs have increased from 9 with a membership of 2 to 17, with a membership of 420—the largest increase of any county in the state.

328 of the 420 club women had year-round gardens, and 288 of this number served balanced meals throughout the year. 45 of these women entered the garden contest and learned to grow and eat at least 3 new vegetables.

352 of the 420 club members have done some beautification work. 7 churches and 4 schools have been landscaped. 42 members entered the Exterior Beautification contest.

The club women raised 31,352 chicks during the past year. 132 women culled their flocks systematically and made a profit from their poultry.

In furnishing ready money for the farm women, poultry led. The 420 club women sold $11,874.32 worth of poultry.

The renovation of hats and clothing meant a real saving in dollars and cents. 13 all-day meetings were held and 256 hats and 132 dresses were renovated. 302 women were present at these meetings.

Home Management was the major project for the women's clubs. As a result of this project 23 new kitchen cabinets have been made or bought, 27 women have put castors on their kitchen work tables. This serves 2 purposes, it raises the table to correct working height and makes the table easy to move to convenient places.

During the Bicentennial Celebration, more than 700,000 committees representative of churches, universities, fraternities, civic bodies and public schools were actively engaged in honoring the memory of George Washington on the 200th anniversary of his birth. Reports also show that over 1,000,000 separate programs were held under the auspices of these committees.

More than 25,000 booklets containing specially prepared matter for the Thanksgiving Day programs have been distributed principally to churches in small towns and cities where facilities for research are not good. Copies may be had upon request to the U. S. George Washington Bicentennial Commission, Washington Building, Washington, D. C.

Food Production and Conservation has been stressed throughout the year 38,250 qts. of fruits, 17,706 qts. of vegetables, 10,200 qts. of jelly, preserves and pickles have been canned by Home Demonstration club women. 128 women canned according to the Budget recommended.

The Home Demonstration club people know that all work and no play makes everybody dull and that a few hours of relaxation in community play really recreates.

During the past year 29 social meetings were held with 1293 people present. This includes picnics, play parties, ice cream festivals and community suppers.

During the past year the agent gave 248 demonstrations to 4600 people. 68 other meetings were held with 4077 people present.

MODERN HOME CANNING METHODS SHOWN AT MEAT CANNING DEMONSTRATION

Meat canning continues to grow in popularity in Camden and the home programs this fall and winter. The first of a series of demonstrations in meat canning was given last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Paul Brown, a member of the Mt. Zion Home Demonstration Club. Miss Sadie B. Craig, the home agent, supervised the canning and everyone present learned just how surplus and unprofitable farm animals may be turned into wholesome, economical and delicious food for the family.

Many of us can think back to the time when farmers and their families took it for granted that they must eat cured meat the year round except just at slaughtering time when everybody ate too much fresh meat. We can also recall when the weather was not as cold as we expected it to be and so lost much of the meat through spoilage. Today we know that we can have the equipment of fresh meat all the year because we know how to can our surplus meat just as we do our surplus fruits and vegetables.

Besides the fact that fresh meat is varied and pleasant it is more economical to cull the flocks and slaughter surplus animals than to feed them throughout the winter.

There are 3 ways in which meat may be canned—raw, browned and roasted. There is no difference in the keeping quality of raw meat and cooked. Raw meat requires less time for preparing but longer for the processing.

Having plenty of canned foods on the pantry shelves makes all the difference between an abundant table and a skimpy one, between a well-balanced and health-giving diet and one that is alarmingly deficient.

During last week Miss Craig had the following meetings: Wateres Mill 4-H club, Pine Grove 4-H club, Blaney H. D. C., Mt. Pisgah 4-H club, Mt. Pisgah H. D. C., DeKalb 4-H club, Gates Ford H. D. C. Market on Saturday morning and office in the afternoon. For the remainder of the month her schedule is as follows:

Monday, Nov. 21, office; Tues. 22, Timrod H. D. C., 3 o'clock; Wed. 23, Liberty Hill H. D. C., 3 o'clock; Fri. 25, Providence H. D. C., 3 o'clock. Saturday the older girls' club will meet in the office at 10 o'clock. Tues. Nov. 29 Antioch H. D. C. 3 o'clock and Wed., Nov. 30, Thorn Hill H. D. C. at 2:30 o'clock.

The date for the Three C's Home Demonstration Club has not yet been decided on.

Eastern Airway Corporation to Inaugurate Mail and Passenger Service. Officials Here Saturday.

The people of Camden are delighted to know that the Eastern Airways Corporation is to give Camden daily aeroplane mail, passenger and freight service, commencing December 1st.

The officials of the Eastern Airway Corporation were here on Saturday in two planes, one an enormous Condor plane and the other a six passenger plane.

They arrived here at 9:30 A. M. from Columbia and were met by a delegation of citizens representing the City, County, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Shrine Club and tourist colony. They were taken over the City in automobiles and at 12:45 a luncheon was served to them at the Camden Hotel.

Hughy Tindal, President of the Chamber of Commerce, presided and he introduced Henry G. Carrison, Jr., Chairman of the Woodward Airport Commission, who made the address of welcome. Mayor R. M. Kennedy also made a talk, and welcomed the officials and the new air line to Camden and told of the cooperation they would receive from our citizens. Talks were also made by R. W. Pomeroy, Samuel Russell and David R. Williams. Mr. Tindal then called on Mr. Elliott, Vice President of the Eastern Airways, who made a splendid talk, telling them how much they appreciated the enthusiasm shown by the people here, and what his air line proposed to do. He then introduced the other officials of his company, about eighteen of them, and most of them made short talks. One of the officials said that Camden was perhaps the prettiest town they had ever flown over, and said it was a treat to see such a pretty town from the air, as well as riding around it in automobiles. They also praised the Woodward Aviation field, and said it was an unusually fine one and that the hangar was very modern and complete.

Mr. Elliott then invited all of the luncheon party to come out as guests of his company and to see the town from the air. All of them accepted his invitation, and all were delighted with the air trip.

The giant Condor plane attracted a lot of attention. It has a capacity of twenty passengers, two pilots and a hostess. The plane is so arranged that conversation is easy and every comfort is offered in it that one finds in a Pullman car. Luncheons are served to the passengers on long trips by attractive hostesses, who are all college graduates and trained for their work. The meals are prepared at their headquarters in Newark, N. J., which is within sight of New York City. The plane has magazines and papers for passengers, and there is a cooler of ice water. In the way of comforts besides these is a rest room equipped with hand basins, mirrors, toilet, etc. just as one finds in a Pullman car.

Camden is to be on the Charlotte, Camden, Columbia, Augusta branch of the Airways, and later the line will likely be extended to Charleston or Savannah.

One can leave Camden at 10:40 in the morning and go via Charlotte to New York, arriving in New York at 6:10 that afternoon. At Charlotte, the Camden plane will connect with the New York-New Orleans air line, and Camden will then be within a days travel of New York or New Orleans. Later on night flying is to be inaugurated.

The complete will be able to stay in touch with their Northern homes in a manner that they did not dream of a few years ago. They can join their families here for week-ends, and get their New York papers each day, instead of waiting two days, as is necessary now.

The business men of Camden can have letters delivered at long distances each day by planes or receive mail the same way.

One of the officials said that Camden is the smallest town on the whole Airways system. Our citizens should be proud of the new era that we are now entering, and our town will be advertised in all sections of the country now that it is a stopping place for daily planes.

INSURANCE AGENT FINED AT CAMDEN

V. C. Carter Pleads Guilty of Representing Unlicensed Company.

Virgil C. Carter, an agent of the National Aid society of Indianapolis, Ind. was fined $100 in magistrate's court at Camden yesterday after being arrested for soliciting business in South Carolina for a firm not licensed with the state insurance commissioner, Sam B. King, commissioner, said.

Carter plead guilty of the offense and Magistrate Benny Smith imposed the fine on him.

Upon being informed that the agent was in Kershaw county representing the unlicensed company, R. Lee Kelly of the state insurance commission, began an investigation and soon after swore out a warrant for his arrest. The arrest was made by the county deputy sheriff.

Mr. King said the arrest was in line with many different warnings that had been issued by the commission and that it was his intention to "vigorously prosecute any man guilty of violation of the insurance laws of the state, such as soliciting insurance for an unlicensed company."

"The public is again reminded to do business with only those agents who can produce an insurance license from South Carolina for the reason that the commission has no jurisdiction over unlicensed companies," he said. Whether or not a company is licensed can be ascertained by communicating with the insurance commission offices, he said.
