Every man has a right to his own opinion, but so few married ones leave the courage to express theirs.

The saddest piece of news that we have read lately is that women skirts are to be from four to six inches long.

Hard times in Camden are of the past. For two nights in one week the Camden Opera House has been packed to capacity.

If Ed. DeClang doesn't stop writing "poetry" we'll believe it true that there is one still in Cherokee which has not been located.

With eggs as scarce as they are it could well be referred to as "The life of the Barnyard Hen" instead of "The Lay of the Barnyard Hen."

Senator Tillman is reported to have said that the other day that he does not consider "slippers" as a political proposition. However, he went on to say to express the opinion of Mr. Hoover, A. Cooper is going to be the next Governor of South Carolina. There are a good many other people in this state who agree with the senator, and like him, are pleased with the prospect among whom are a large part of the voters of Hampton County. Hampton Herald.

EVENING GOWNS

Accept The Reign Of Simplicity—M-lady's Slipper Follows Suit. New York, October 9.—The question of evening dress, the "to be or not to be" of the decollete, seems to have been decided. The optimistic spirit of America has prevailed, and while there is not the same gorgeous display as in the past, evening clothes are worn, and rarely beautiful ones at that. The President of the United States paid a visit to New York not long ago, and together with Mrs. Wilson, passed an evening at one of the most enjoyable plays of the season of course, the house was widely enthusiastic; it was some time before the play could begin, and even then the audience paid more attention to the official box party than to the play. Mrs. Wilson was very simply dressed, but she seemed intensely interested in the audience and the costumes scattered everywhere over the house.

A Victory on Empire Lines.

Picturesque, indeed, are the comparisons effected by Fashion. The dresses are in the same wonderful tints and colors that have always been favorites, perhaps though a trifle subdued. Some are high in the back, square or round in front, with long sleeves of full or very short ones of the same material as the bodice or the overskirt. The waist that is so straight across from shoulder to shoulder is very popular this year, for it gives the effect of a higher neck.

There is very little trimming on the new models. They seem to rely to a great extent on their line and color, and changing method is the result. One of the most attractive of the new models, evening gowns is illustrated here. It is of a soft, rounded satin, bodice and skirt, with a thin overskirt or tulle of soft, most gray, and a strip of the lower edge with a scalloped edge. The color is a soft, pale pink, which makes such a fascinating combination. The skirt and the short sleeves of the dress are finished in the same pattern.

Just a word here about slippers for evening, and the difference between those in good taste and those that are just a trifle too gaudy and over-trimmed. Life has invented a new word, "hoovey," meaning to conserve, and it is now being widely used. One must "hoovey" one's food, of course, and equally, of course, one must "hoovey" one's trappings on every article of one's dress. Slippers that are good form are very plain, indeed. The long vamp is still with us, heels do not seem to be quite so high as formerly, for they too have been "hooved." Satin, the same color as the dress, is the first choice. A rhinestone buckle placed high on the slipper is very fashionable. Then one of the latest ideas in slipper decoration is a tiny bow of satin, a single bow of ribbon a quarter of an inch wide, perhaps. Many of the fall brides have chosen this for their wedding slippers. It gives the foot the long, narrow effect that is so distinctive. Slippers of brocade, of metal cloth, or of combinations of plain and figured materials are worn only on the most formal occasions. Indeed, the all-black or all-white slipper is always appropriate and in good taste. Stockings must, of course, match the costume and the slipper.

The black iguana of California, of which the scientific name is Ctenosau acanthur in allusion to the comblike crest of spines along the back, scaly meaning "spring-tailed," is allied to the ring-tailed iguana but unlike the Jamaican iguana its flesh is highly esteemed.

GERMAN CREWS MUTINY

Emperor Orders One Out of Seven Mutineers Executed. Amsterdam, Oct. 10.—Mutiny among the crews of four battleships of the German fleet has occurred at Wilhelmshaven. One of these battleships was the Westfalen whose captain was thrown overboard and drowned. The crews landed. Marines refused to fire on them, whereupon soldiers surrounded the sailors, who surrendered. A mutiny is reported to have occurred on the German warship Nurnberg, which was at sea. The men seized the officers and proceeded in the direction of Norway with the intention of having the ship interned. The Nurnberg was overtaken by destroyers and forced to surrender. Emperor William went to Wilhelmshaven and ordered that one out of every seven mutineers be shot. Chancellor Michaelis protested with the result that only three were shot. Heavy sentences were imposed on the others.

As Viewed in Washington. Washington, Oct. 10.—Few dispatches since the war began have created more interest at the navy department than today's reports from Amsterdam telling of a revolt in the German navy. Officers unhesitatingly declared that the story, so far not confirmed in official reports, was one of the most encouraging signs of the year for the allies. They pointed out that, while the allied powers have noted repeatedly in their recent official statements that the morale of the German troops was declining there has been nothing to suggest that the iron discipline of the German military system had lost its hold over the fighting machines in the slightest degree. The declining morale on the western front, it was said, has shown itself in the feeble character of recent counterattacks.

The revolt in the navy, these officers said, was a more serious matter for Germany. The soldiers generally have not been subjected to the batter of guns day after day, month after month. They insisted that if there is discontent among the sailors with their condition, it must be even greater in the army. As one possible explanation of the navy revolt, they pointed out that ever since submarine warfare was started by the Germans the British have adopted the consistent policy of suppressing information to the fate of submarines sent to the bottom by their torpedoes. The policy was adopted as a deliberate method of breaking down the morale of the submarine crews. Crews for the uboats are understood to be drafted from the high seas.

FOOD PLACED UNDER CONTROL

Regulations To Be Prescribed For At Least Twenty Commodities.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Virtually all the staple foods consumed by the American people will be under government control, November 1. The food administration announced tonight that within a few days President Wilson will issue an executive order requiring that manufacturers and distributors of some 20 fundamental foods operate under license restrictions designed to prevent unreasonable profits and to stop speculation and hoarding. Regulations will be prescribed for meat packers, cold storage houses, millers, farmers, elevators, grain dealers and wholesale dealers and retailers doing a business of more than $100,000 annually in the commodities to be named. "The prime purpose of the food administration," the announcement said, "is to protect the patriot against the shacker in business. It has generally been recognized that the enormous obligation imposed on the American people to feed our soldiers at the front and the allies creates a disturbing factor in trade which allows opportunity to a few to impose burdens upon the many and that it is of vital national importance that such control should be exerted as will remedy so far as may be, the economic disturbances incident to the war."

Will Hughes, a white man from Spartanburg who has been confined in the death-house at the State penitentiary died from natural causes Tuesday. His case was under appeal to the Supreme Court and a new trial had been granted him. He was convicted of killing a man and given a life sentence. Then he killed a chain gang guard and it was for this killing he was sentenced to death.

Is your barn a cotton warehouse?

WHEN you store a ton of old style cottonseed hulls you give space to almost 500 pounds of lint and all the extra bulk that the lint causes.

When you store a ton of BUCKEYE COTTONSEED HULLS LINTLESS

you give space to 2000 pounds of real roughage, free from lint, compact, concentrated, solid. Buckeye Hulls save half your storage space or enable you to carry twice as much roughage.

Other Advantages: 2000 pounds of roughage value to the ton—not 1500. Priced much less per ton. Every pound goes farther. Better assimilation of other food. No trash or dust. Sacked—easy to handle. Mix well with other forage.

Mr. John Wicker, Forest, Miss., says: that his first experience in feeding Buckeye Hulls was unsatisfactory as he fed them improperly. He now soaks the hulls over night, then feeds them and has very satisfactory results. Mr. Wicker states that these hulls are more economical than the old style hulls and thinks that they go almost twice as far as the old style hulls at a considerably less cost to begin with.

To secure the best results and to develop the ensilage odor, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by wetting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free: Gives the right formula for every combination of feeds used in the South. Tells how much to feed for maintenance, for milk, for fattening, for work. Describes Buckeye Hulls and gives directions for using them properly. Send for your copy to the nearest mill.

Col. W. G. Smith, State warehouse commissioner reports that there is now being received in the various State warehouses from 800 to 1,000 bales of cotton each day. It is notable that the small farmer in very much greater numbers than ever before is storing cotton.

The Loan Must Succeed. We must make this loan a success. We can make it a success. The failure of a single issue of Government bonds would be worse for America than a disaster upon the field of battle. We must never let that happen.

A few days ago I read the following manifesto issued in Berlin by the League of German Municipalities: "If money talks, the President of the United States may learn by October 18, when the subscription lists close, that the echo of the new war fund given by the German people will have drowned out completely the clamor of unending protests to which his reply to the Pope has given stimulus."

Let us meet that challenge by a subscription to our Second Liberty Loan on the 27th day of October, nine days after the close of the German loan, which will make clear to the German military despotism that

YOU KNOW THE BANK BUT DOES THE BANK KNOW YOU? Banks are often asked is such and such a person is reliable, or entitled to credit. If you are a depositor the bank knows your worth and can give you a rating. Otherwise a bank is often compelled to withhold a favorable rating purely through lack of information relative to your financial status. A bank account is your best endorsement. It stamps you as a man of affairs. Loan & Savings Bank OF CAMDEN, S. C.
