We hoped to give to this issue a full report of the election, but circumstances beyond the control? of the editor have prevented the latest.

Mil Arp Rejoices Because "His Southenent" School Mouse is

Our country school house is finished and we are proud. The teacher has gels and monkeys, and it keeps up ja been installed and the children are enthering in. That school house may be blecorio in time to come, for some one or more of the scholars may wake up the world about something .-There is a heap to learn yet. The in me, some original sin that made me mysteries are not all unfolded. That | meaner than I want to be, and now I school house may be the alma mater | know just where it come from. That of some wonderful gentus, and then we apple eating business had nothing to who have stock in it will be proud. We strained ourselves first, and then we foraged on the town and got a little bere and a little there, and it counted up. I used to live in a town and the country foraged on me and so I am just playing for even. Judge Underwood used to say that he all the rest of the old monkey stock had stock in all the country churches and country schools from Tugalc river to the Tallapoosa. Well, it is bread react upon the waters, I reckon, and it will return to us after many days. I don't know how many, but after many days, I don't mind begging for a There is a difference, a great differchurch or a school thouse, I When we found we couldent make up the money | where. But after he had signed it I reckon he read over the compliments again, for se men will do that, and then he added postscript saying: 'On reflection I Thave concluded to send you fifty dollara.' I thought we would get bim, and so we dident mind about his leeture and bis advice. The school house was what we were after. Well, we wanted a good, large heating stove and some pipe, and while I was in Atlanta, the other day, I visited those great and good men. Hunnicutt & Bellingrath, and opened up to their generous minds distant views of a broad philanthrophy and what a lux-Mry it was to make these investments that somethute so much to the comfort d dittle children, and how future generations would rise up and call them blessed, and so they surrendered it. It was a quick way of get sing sid of me, and so they gave us the stove, and they did it gracefully and cheerfully, and our people are grateful and will make returns after many days - yee, many days. I was amused at a good, Christian lady, who, not long ago, looked up over her spectacles at me and said, 'Major, what kind of a man is Mr. Jay Gould?'

I told ter I dident know him, but reckoned he was a right clever man; and she then told me she bad written him a letter more than a month ago seking him to give the church ten dollars for a chandelter and a carpet, and, cays she, as she laid her knitting in mer lap, 'Mejor, he basent even anever got it. Governor Brown sent us ten dollars, and they say Mr. Gould is richer than he is."

Well, we are all right now and the Ironville academy is open to the commusity. Our teachers are going to teach rudiments and good behavior and good manners and music and baseball, too, I reckon. Arblination Courts_No. 2. Arbitration courts are rather characteristic of a republican form of governmeut, though they have flourished in monarchies and despotisms. They have proven satisfactory wherever tried. Their urisdiction has generally been limited to disputes about chattels, or personal injuries. In Holland and Denmark they apply mainly to certain mercantile cases. inently useful in adjusting differences between employers and employed in the various industries. In Prussia, perhaps more than elsewhere, is recourse to them where they have signally diminished the amount and expenses of litigation. Cases involving hundreds of thousands of dollars have been taken out of the regular

to introduce them into England.

It is true our law, and that of Engaland, admits of arbitration ; but the requisite conditions to be fulfilled differ in effect from having established arbitration courts, which, besides having power at all aimes to sit and take references, may also compel the attendance of witnesses and the execution of their awards. -While isolated courts—as for instance the Charleston Exchange and, it might be, the Barnwell Fair Association. should the Act incorporating it be amendeddoubtless render great local service, a system embracing such courts in every community, agricultural and menufacturing, as well as commercial, so that disputants may have a choice of their judges, would redound incalculably to the public good. Such a system adopted throughout our State, while not necessarily conflicting with the present trial justice's courts-an experimental system not free from material objectionsmight, with suitable provisions, wholly supercede them—the official empire being empowered to issue criminal processes, try cases small and mean &c., as trial justices are now empowered-as well as greatly reduce the business and expenses of our circuit courts,

The International Time Commission. which met in Washington on last Monday week, decided by resolution to abolish the present system of numbering the hours of the day, fand substitute a system beginning with zero, at midnight, and running up to twentyfour at midnight agais. This system will abolish all difference between a. m. and p. m. time, and will alter all swered my letter. Do you reckon he hours after 12 meridian, so that one will be thirteen, two fourteen, and so on to twelve at night, which will be twenty-four o'clock. This system will now in all probability, be rapidly adopted all ever the world, and the change will be very desirable.

The Mexican eilver mine, owned in part by the late Col. Polk, Tennessee's defaulting Treasurer, is said to be something of a bonanza. It is now said that Col. Polk's interest in the mine will not only pay out his total indebtedness to the State, but will leave a handsome residue for his beirs.

No man has any right to be a prophet unless he is a good guesser. Prophesying dont pay. If you get it right, no one remembers it; if you get it wrong, no one forgets it.

Col. Cash, is said to have at his fingers ends all sorts of odd points about duelling. One of his queer assertions is that in every regular duel fought in the United States the man with the fewer syllables in his name killed his antagonist. He aids, moreover, that it has been so in all history from the time of David and Gollah to that of Burr and Hamilston,

Young man, do not blush and feel good, because the girl you meet on the street seems to be gazing with rapture on your noble countenance : she is only looking at your pretty cravat and thinking how nice it would look in her crazy quilt. That is all.

A touching incident connected with Erekeine college is the daily visits of young Mr. Boyd, of Newberry County. God has laid upon this young man a sore affliction. With the Southern cotton crop and the Western grain crop in the control of giant monopolies, the farmer who raises a big cotton crop and a little grain crop is at the mercy of the gamoling speculators. His only remedy, and his only chance for independence and prosperity, is to raise his own hog and hominy, and make his cetton his surplus crop. This doctrine may be considered stale, but it is true; and we shall continue to preach it .- Newberty Observer.
