LARGEST COUNTY CIRCULATION

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1884

Personal Notices.

Senator Hampton was unanimously re-elected on Tuesday.

Gov. Cleveland has received a number of congratulatory letters from different parts of the country. He does not let them disturb his rest in talking to journalists.

Mr. Blaine, the ex plumed knight, reached Washington, where he will spend the winter, on Friday. He looks ten years older than he really is and wears the enlightened appearance of a shed up fuck.

President Arthur is said to be willing to accept the Senatorship from New York. A conference of his stalwart friends was held on Friday to consider his address but adjourned without coming to any conclusion.

There are a great many ways of celebrating a victory, but perhaps the best way is that proposed by the democrats of Springfield, Mass. They are preparing to buy 500 sacks of flour. On each sack will be printed: 'Compliments of the democratic party,' to be distributed to the poor of the city.

General Logan in an interview in New York, frankly admits that he is in favor of disfranchising the colored voters. They must either vote as republicans or not at all. As their days of usefulness to the republican party have passed away, the leaders of that party are perfectly willing to take the ballot away from them. The next logical movement of the republicans would be the movement to re-enslave the colored people for the benefit of such patriots as Logan and Blaine.

The question of national prohibition may come up for solution at a very early day. It is stated that one of the first bills on the senate calendar is the bill of Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, proposing an amendment to the federal constitution, prohibiting the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors, except for sacramental, manufacturing and medicinal purposes. Senator Blair is a prohibitionist of the most determined stripe, and will urge his measure to a speedy hearing. It is not probable that the bill will pass the senate, but if it should, it would certainly be defeated in the house. The discussion of the matter, however, will bring prohibition to the front in national politics as an issue of uncertain power.

All the States have reported the electoral vote for Presidential Electors on the 4th of November last. The results allow a total vote of 10,066,973, of which the Cleveland ticket received 4,910,992, the Blaine ticket 4,847,550, the Butler ticket 133,826, and the St. John ticket 154,605, showing a plurality of 63,442 for Cleveland. The total vote in 1880 was 9,218,251, and Garfields plurality 9,464. It should be noted, in considering this year's vote, that the Blaine Electoral tickets were supported by the Republicans and the People's Party in Missouri and West Virginia, and that the Cleveland Electorial tickets were supported by the Democrats and the People's Party in Iowa, Michigan, and Nebraska.

The House of Representatives is now working five hours a day besides holding considered night sessions. It has its work well in hand and a final adjournment will be reached before Christmas.

Several hundred colored people have recently gone from the upper part of this State to Arkansas and California. Immigration agents pay their passage and promise big wages. So far none have gone from Barnwell. All are so happy over Cleveland's election that they don't care to go. There are about five colored Republicans in the county now and they are pegging chickens.

Charleston will elaborately celebrate the election of Cleveland and Hendricks to-morrow night with a torch light procession, illumination of the city and a gorgeous display of fireworks. It will be the most magnificent night in all the heroic history of the famous old city by the sea. The Railroads are selling round trip tickets at very low rates and the red shirts of the banner county should have a place in the picture. See advertisement in this issue and GO.

Gen. U. S. Grant is said to be about as poor as the average country editor. The fund of $250,000 voted for his support by wealthy New York and Philadelphia gentlemen has been almost squandered by bad investments and his years annual income will soon cease. Mr. Arthur has recommended in his message that Congress shall give him a pension sufficiently large to make him comfortable for the remainder of his life. It will be a graceful Christmas gift to the old General.

Some thrift agt, a good friend who has taken and paid for THE PEOPLE since its first issue came to Barnwell, a distance of fifteen miles, for the purpose of paying his subscription, which was then due. He complained of the gentle reminders which we occasionally publish for the benefit of delinquent subscribers. Now we beg to assure him and others like him that he did not shoot at them. The delinquent subscriber of whom we complained is a generous fellow blessed with a short memory who believes in a free press just so he does in a free gospel, neither of which costs him much or does him a great deal of good. He pays the printer with promises of the pie crust order will he comes to regard editors as quasi intellectual missionaries who live on advertisements and faith. He becomes as indifferent to dues as a duck does to summer showers and when, being often reproved he hardeneth his heart and stiffeneth his neck and is suddenly cut off the subscription books, he straightway subscribes to another paper. His name is legion and he lives in every township in this county, in thirteen other counties in this State and in ten other States and two territories. We think of him often and tenderly cherish the hope that he will repent and remit his dues before Christmas. He will read this article and think he is not the man we are talking about.

"Gnaweth a File."

SOME SAGE REFLECTIONS FROM BILL ARP.

And he gnaweth a file. Well, it is right hard victels, I know, but sometimes it helps a man to explode, and thrash around under great disappointments. It sets the pent up bile to working, and when he gets rid of it he feels better. Mr. Blaine feels better now, I reckon. May be that Augusta speech saved his life, for I heard folks say that he was a very sensitive man and if he got beaten he would kill himself. But the danger is all over now and the crisis is past. Let us have pity on him. Let us pass resolutions of sympathy, for a great man has fallen this day in Israel. Well, he fell several years ago, but he didn't fall so far nor so suddenly, and the whole nation did not see him. It was an awful shock this time, and he had to say something. He had to abuse somebody. He had Beecher and Burchard and Nast and the Harpers and the Times, but he was afraid of them, and so he takes the solid south for his victim—the old martyr that has stood the brunt of a thousand slanders and still lives. Thank the good Lord, she still lives! They have thrown boomerangs at her for twenty years, but the boomerang is a dangerous weapon in careless hands. They tell me that a man can throw it clean round a house and it will come back and hit him if he don't dodge. Better quit throwing boomerangs. They threw one at us when they gave the negro the vote and it has just got back and hit them a terrible blow. It hit Mr. Blaine in the pit of the stomach and hurt and he gnaweth a file. And it hit Horat Halstead and he gnaweth a file. And that Milwaukee feller gnaweth a file. I'm afraid that files will be scarce up there and as they seem to like such vittals, I think I will send them a few old ones from my blacksmith shop—I reckon they are good eating to folks who like them.

But I am sorry for Mr. Blaine—I really am—and I hope our folks will give him the charity of their silence. Don't kick a man when he is down. Don't punch a poor coon just to see him bite the stick. They punched us after they whipped us and I never could understand it unless it was like the fellow who killed a dog for biting him, and after the dog was dead he kicked him and mangled him and cursed him until a man who stood by said, 'Don't you see that brute is dead—what are you kicking him now for?' 'Dog on him,' said he, 'I want to teach him that there is a little hell and punishment after death.'

But now let us all have peace. Let us return good for evil. We have got friends up there, and for their sakes let us forgive and forget. I wish we had invited Mr. Blaine down to our jubilee and got him to make another speech. Maybe our sunny south and our hospitality would have affected him and set his liver straight.

I wonder what office he would like under Mr. Cleveland—some little thing to taper off on—a consulate to South America, Brazil or Terra Del Fuego, or maybe the Cape of Good Hope. Good hopes are good things for a disappointed man. There would be a wide field for his philanthropy down there, for the people are black—solid black. I think it would harmonize Halstead and company to give them an office, and we will have lots of offices. I was afraid we wouldn't have enough people to fill them, but I reckon we will. Our boys seem to be right patriotic. There are fifteen volunteers already for the Cattersville postoffice, and I feel encouraged. They are all good men and willing. I hear that one man came a hundred miles to take it as soon as it was vacant. Such patriotism ought to be rewarded. I was thinking about a song little sinecure myself, and went down to Atlanta to see about it and offer my services but a mad tackled me as soon as I lit off the cars and took me away off round a corner and said he was after an office, and wanted me to help him get it, and told me how that he had worked for the party for 20 odd years, and never had had nothing, and he was poor and needy and when I asked him what office it was, he named the very one I was after. Well, I am easily overcome by a friend in distress, and so I promised to do all I could, and in ten minutes after I left him I met another friend who wanted it, and so I promised him, and before I left to it had promised six, and I felt relieved to think that I was deprived of much influence and consequently so good in helping the needy. It is a good sign to see that so many are volunteering, for it will give Mr. Cleveland plenty of choice. It is going to be right hard on our members of congress. They have a mighty hard role now. When fifteen applications for the postoffice are sent up to the postmaster general he will do like that officer always does. He will refer the whole lot to Mr. Clements, and Mr. Clements will look over the names of the patriots, and after considering who is the best man for the office and for the people, and for Mr. Clements too, he will recommend one and there by make one friend and fourteen enemies. So, there is going to be the dickens to play in the district and all over the state, and lots of disappointed patriots are going to get cussing mad. But I hope they will have sense enough to spell the word sequence, and not go to gnawing a file. I'm sorry for our members of congress. A man told me in Atlanta that Governor Brown's mail was now about a bushel a day, and it took two clerks to read them and file them and make out a tally sheet, so that the governor could get an idea without reading them. Governor Colquitt got 47 letters in one mail, and 45 of them were applicants for office. It is very encouraging to think that we have got so many who are fitten, for I know they are all fitten; their friends say they are.

Sometimes I think I would like to get a good fat office like Mr. Cleveland has always got his. That is hard, it shoved on me, I was reminding over his wonderful career. There is nothing like it since old Father Cincinnatus was called from the plow to govern the Roman empire. But they don't call them from the plow now. I have been looking up the road for seven years for a committee to come after me and take me from the plow, but they don't come, and so I have quit plowing. The shoving process seems to be unpopular, all is general thin, and now the feller who works the hardest and has the longest pole generally knocks down the persimmon.

So, wade in, boys, and fortify yourselves. Combine, confederate, make promises. It is no sin to hold office. It is honorable, but if you can do anything else and make a living you had better do it, for fear you may be disappointed and have to gnaw a file.

THE PEOPLE, the organ of the people, sends through its columns to-day the commencement of its special annual orders No. 5. "The Museum" at Bamberg, under the management of C. D. C. Adams, has been selected by Santa Claus as his central headquarters through the Christmas season for the distribution of his gifts, and advises all the patrons of his yearly festival to call there from December 1st and see what he has been doing for the little folk as well as the big folk.

It will cost the State seventy thousand dollars to take the census next year.

MAN'S ORGANISM

Is the most complex work of the Creator, and when this complicated structure, so exquisitely wrought, is disturbed by disease, the most efficient aid should be sought from the most skilled physician—for the human body is too precious to be neglected. It becomes the question, then: "What physician shall be employed?"

DR. OSCAR JOHANNESSEN, of the University of Berlin, Germany, has made a lifelong study of ailments of the Nervous and Genito-Urinary System.

NO REMEDIES USED

Any Debility or Derangements of the Nervous System, including Spermatorhœa, Gonnorhœa, Syphilis, Stricture, Impotence, etc., etc.

Persons you may have been cheated and fooled by Quacks, who claim to cure this class of diseases, do not hesitate to give Dr. Johannessen's method a fair trial before your case becomes chronic and incurable.

"Well, old friend, which way?" said a down Individual to his fat friend at a railway station not long since.

"Part of the time I try to use what little brain I've got, but the rest of the time I'm bound."

"What do you mean by being in bondage?"

"Why, did you manage to get out?" "I sold off all the surplus stock, &c., that I could spare, consolidated at every point and traded this year on a cash basis with Ben Davies in Barnwell. You have no idea what a difference it makes—some merchants don't seem to realize that the year is over, and think they have a government contract to keep the farmers poor. When I first commenced trading with Ben Davies I presented the same 'shabby' appearance that you do at present, but look at my proportions now—and I am the leanest one of the family. It is not always good feeding that makes a man fat; peace and contentment, the satisfaction first-you will reap the benefit of your labor and no fears of the sheriff's levy to disturb your peaceful slumbers. I am fat, healthy and happy, save up money a dollar and sum go and take a little free excursion of my own as a complement to myself. I fear that the March winds will carry you hence if you don't make a change. Ben Davies keeps everything you need—Dry Goods, Boots, Shoes, Fresh Groceries, Hardware, Tinware, Canned Goods, in fact anything you need, and for the cash he will provision you. Take my word for it trade with him next year and in the winter you'll enjoy a trip out West on our railroads cash."
