DECEMBER 18, 1884

Four bile proposing the repeal of or to the Hailroad Commision last were latroduced in the House of the present session and referred to the nin members report unfavorably as to lowing reasons: fat: The best mode of rotecting the people against unjust diswithout unduly interfering with private lights of property, has not been conclualvely to thed anywhere. 2nd. No Me-Rulls and Companies or from the citizens of the State, have been haid before the committee. Sd. There are pending in the Courts questions which seriously afthe powers and efficiency of the Commission, which it is desirable should be settled before any decisive action is taken, w The couclusions of the majority of the committee are as illogical as they are triginal and unique. Their own states ment of present conditions is an unan swerable argument in favor of the prompt correction of the acknowledged illegali. thes and unequalities of the law as nor rands. The presentation of Uil ruggestier repeal of amendments, and the pendency of actions in the Courts then that the law is not satisfactory either to the roads or to the people, and the absence of petitions and memorials is due to the directiffstances of the situation and not to the alleged fact that "there is less discrimination, more stability in rates, fewer complaints and greater harmany between the Railroads and the people than at any time during the administration of the present Board or of their preflecesaor." No human law which has ever been enacted was at first absolutely perfect in all its provisions. It is the province of succeeding Legislatures to correct the errors of their predecessors. Corporations are said to be soulless but they have rights, and the same justice that is given to individuals should be iffeted dut to them. If the watch-andwait-do-nothing-until-we know-exactlywhat-will-please everybody-policy recom mended by the majority is adopted, nei ther plaintiffs or defendants will be giv en early relief from the wrongs of which they complain. There is no time so proper for doing right as the present.-Such changes as justice commends should be made at once and future developments will suggest such further legislation as may be advisable. State pride if nothing elec, should induce the Legis-Liture to change the law so that the Commissioners should be paid by the State They are its officers, bear its commission and were appointed to protect the peothe against the exactions of the Railroads and it is the grossest injustice that these arteries of commerce, which pour into the State treasury one-cighth of its entire resinue and make possible the splendid development of our resources, should be the helpless victims of such unjustifiable extertion. We have no further suggestion to make as to the changes that all he wooded. From the attrition of intellegts in a full and free discussion of the question. if it can be land, and in no othor way, the Legislature will be able to evolve such changes as will best preserve the eights of all parties and cure the wide spread disactisfaction that exists. Life is too short to waste in waiting. We

Litel week we made our annual Debember pilgrimere to Columbia. It is very pleasant to make such visits to the tempital, to shake hands with the Goverertur and alsocials with the big men, to exemine the ship of State and read up her toy, to be called Colume and to meet old friends and make new ones. Leaving Barnwell at 5.30 p. m. we make home flowly to Blackville but congratulate our single self and everybody ole that the regime of the stage coach, when "Mr. Ruby drove his horses a'lumbering by Mr. Rorets," has placed away forever. On the South Carolina Railway we began a faster life: The conductor harries our travelling companious. bree lawyers, from the supper tuble at Branchville, where they tarry long, and we whis along to our journey's end at the trate of fify miles an hour: The State house is ablaze with light and sonorous with specohes, but we prefer sleep and so take the usual allowance of eight hours. A self appointed investigating commit toe of one, we begin our work at an early hour and contidus it for two days and now submit the following favorable report : The ship of State is in safe hands. admirably officered, excellently manned and sailing under full canvase into the number of a glowing, prosperous fuoutd with the progressive march of the gratified beyond measure at the many voluntary encomiums showered upon our immediate representative in the apper house, Major Lawrence W. Youmans. Perhaps the youngest, certainly the handsomest member of that body, he has already taken front tark among his associates. Nothing escapes his watchfulness in session or committee work and whenever he speaks he receives that attention which is merited by his thorough preparation and earnest eloquence .-Crossing to the House we find the Barnwell members giving watchful attention to its proceedings and voting intelligent ly for the best interests of the State and county. From them we learn that the tax levy for the next year will be 5 1-2 mills for State, 2 for school and 4 for county purposes, a reduction of one mill from last years levy, and it may be made better yet for the tax payers- The House has a large percentage of new and young men. The Speaker, Mr. James Simons, is strikingly handsome in per son and without a superior as a parliamentarian in the State. Thoroughly familiar with the duties of his honorable and arduous office, a lover of hard work he contributes very largely by his tact, readiness and perfect impartiality to the rapid and correct transaction of business. Of the original Wallace House only four members, Col. J. G. Blue, Gen. R. R. Hemphill, Mr. John G. Quignard and Col. B. H. Massey; kave survived the slaughter of conventions and primary elections, and Col. Massey is the only one who has been a member continuously since 1876. Among the members who ought to be elected for life we record the names of Cols. C. H. Simonton, J. F. Ficken and Gen, McCready of Char leston, John C. Haskell of Richland. James Aldrich of Aiken, J. W. Blue Marion, &c., &c. Of the younger mem bers who have distinguished themselves this session the most prominent are Stanyarne Wilson of Spartanburg, Ellis Graydon of Abbeville, T. M. Raysor of Orangeburg, O. L. Schumpert of Newberry, and H. G. Scudday of Anderson. Take it all in all the State has never had and will never have a better House. We might comment upon the probable face and merits and demerits of the various important measures that are being considered but such speculation would be unprofitable. The work of the present session has been in a large degree proparatory to that of the next and we feel very sure that the present General Assembly will never have cause hereafter to be ashaned of its record. We notice as conspicuous in the House the original and only Independent, Mr. F. W. Macusker, formerly of Massachusetts, but now of Georgetowa. He is weeding his own row and from what we saw has a pretty hard road to travel. So mote it be always. But the legislators went to Chafleston on Friday afternoon to help paint the city red and we came back to Grub Street.
