Homes, Emorand Proprietor T COUNTY CIRCUIATION THURSDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1884

The achiversary of the advent of the Prince of Peace, the blessed season when men should make friends and women say yes, is come again. The only war ermisible during the holiday time is hat upon delinquent subscribers and seemong and pies and turkies, sanction. d by centuries of precedents and manimous vote of the present general sembly of numerity. But also, that we should be called upon to chronicle the outbreak of another unpleasantness in irrepressible, red bot, red shirt, red silled our Edgefield. The Greenville News and the Abbeville Press and Banner, the Columbia Register and the Charleston News and Courier have washed off their war paint and clothed themselves in the garments of peace and Sunday while the Monitor and Chronicle are puncturing each other with hostile pens, blocking each other with printer's ink and belaboring each other with bad adjectives. And all this is going on in the year of grace 1835 and in the town of Johnston where they have a male and female institute and a fish stall, a millinery store and a coffin shop, a skating rink and fresh meat twice a week .-Verily there is something wrong up there and Johnston is a promising op. n'ng for a gun store or a couple of protracted meetings. Christmas is here and Cleveland is elected and Mason and Dixon's line has been rubbed out and the Republicun party is dead and buried and there is nothing to molest or make us afraid except our debts and Edgefield's irate journalists. Now we don't know which is right but are inclined to think both are wrong. We have never met these brethren in the flesh and don't care to until they get in better humor, but re lying on the fact that they are sixty odd miles off and have no passes over the South Carolina Railway we offer our services as mediator after the manner of civilized nations. The c. ffin shop man and the coroder will please excuse us for interfering with their great expectations We have no special enmity again t them and no extravagant love for the fish dealer and purveyor of fresh meats whose customers are likely to go the way of all flesh. Brother McLauna, your Monitor the bearing and bearing the total to this office for seven years and five weeks, and we hope to see you every Thursday for forty-two years more. In your lest number you sprak of the "ratent outside" of your neighbor, by which you mean that its owside is printed in Winn-born, Atlanta, Baltimore or some other hamlet outside the corporate fimits of the city of Johnston. Please stand up and say your carechism. Have you

And this is Christmas morning! The horn of the bad boy is in full blast and the stars shiver in the wintry sky; the smoke of the fire cracker girdles the world and the lorn turkey roosts high on the house top, and the same ever old Santa Claus continues to drum for the anzient wholesale Norwegian house and to fill the striped hosiery of young America with Yankee abominations. The deaf sloue are happy now. Before the full day shall dispet the memories of the night let us set down in black and white the revelions of a vision that haunts us like a well repembered reality. We dreamed that we awoke and by the light of the emben dying on the hearth saw Sunta Claus opening his clustic grip sack and unpacking its treasures.
