Dublin, Sept. 19.—De Valera may be content to leave the Irish situation as it stands and discontinue further correspondence with Lloyd George in an effort to clear up the differences of opinion between the two parties.

The recent advance of 4 per cent in food prices is regarded as seasonal, due to the proximity of winter. The working man, despite a reduction in his wage, can buy more now than before the war, for his average wages before the war were $600; now they amount to $1,000.

The advance in wholesale prices is very slight, officials say, in comparison with wage increases. Food, for instance, is 34 per cent higher than in 1918; clothing 79, and metals 25. Present wage scales, on the other hand, average about 50 per cent above the pre-war scale, even considering deflation of wages.

WASHINGTON SEES PROSPERITY AHEAD

By Hugh W. Roberts. Washington, Sept. 18.—Information in possession of the departments in Washington would make a pessimist ashamed of himself. Prosperity, it is indicated, is just around the corner. All that delays its actual return is the fact that some people won't go out to meet it.

Secretary Davis of the department of labor, for instance, dispels the spectre of unemployment. He cites indications of the resumption of normal conditions. He declares that $1,000,000,000 is at present being paid monthly by mills, shops and factories in the United States for skilled and unskilled labor.

The average wage of the industrial worker, at present, according to the department, is $3.50 per day. In the steel industry common labor draws in excess of $2; skilled workmen from $6 to $8.

Wage scales have not been reduced to pre-war rates, the department reports. It is explained, however, that the pre-war rates will never again prevail, in accordance with the economic history.

Secretary Davis contends that those unemployed at present number between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 instead of from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000, as generally believed.

In normal times, the secretary points out, between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 are without work or in the process of changing from one job to another. He finds nothing alarming in present conditions.

The recent advance of 4 per cent in food prices is regarded as seasonal, due to the proximity of winter. The working man, despite a reduction in his wage, can buy more now than before the war, for his average wages before the war were $600; now they amount to $1,000.

The advance in wholesale prices is very slight, officials say, in comparison with wage increases. Food, for instance, is 34 per cent higher than in 1918; clothing 79, and metals 25. Present wage scales, on the other hand, average about 50 per cent above the pre-war scale, even considering deflation of wages.

And the people have money, according to the treasury department. Small investors are considered. The savings division, in its last report, declared that despite depression and unemployment, small investors have saved $27,000,000,000. The per capita saving of men, women and children of all ages is $250.

Of this sum $21,000,000,000 is invested in government securities, the remainder in 30,000 savings banks. Government war issues are held mainly by persons of small means, according to treasury officials. No war lesson, it is said, was more thoroughly learned than that inculcated in the wage earner and the child to save.

D. R. Crissinger, comptroller of the treasury, reports $6,000,000,000 in savings banks. Deposits during the period of depression exceeded withdrawals, he states.

Slaughter is wanted for several other crimes, including murder.

NEGRO LYNCHED IN NORTH CAROLINA

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 18.—Ernest Daniels, a young negro, was taken from the Pittsboro jail early this morning by a mob and hanged to the limb of a tree five miles from that town. The body of the victim was found today about 10 o'clock.

It is alleged that Daniels was found in the room of a sleeping white girl Friday night. He escaped from the house when alarm was given but was apprehended by officers Saturday night and, it is alleged, confessed that he was the negro found leaning over the sleeping girl. The negro was placed in jail at Pittsboro and this morning at 2 o'clock a mob overpowered Jailer W. H. Taylor and taking the jail keys from that officer took Daniels from the jail to a point five miles from town where he was hanged. An automobile tire chain was used to hang the negro.

Big Robbery Saturday Night

Parties broke into Fowler & Lybrand's store and took almost the entire stock, consisting largely of cold drinks, supplies and confectionery.

Having taken the goods they carried them to the corn field in the rear of the residence of Mr. J. F. McClure. They spent the night there. Yesterday, after the rain, Chief Moseley got word that the robbers were hiding. Getting on track of them Chief Moseley, Policeman Stroud and Gault ran the robbers down. They were captured in the woods back of the Perrin residence in East Union. Two men, Wallace Gregory and Willie Howell, and a young white woman were captured upon the charge of housebreaking and larceny in the night time and the young woman was charged with being accessory to the crime. The prisoners were turned over to the criminal court as the police court has no jurisdiction in such cases.

Daniel, acting cashier of the Fulton Real Estate company, who was found apparently unconscious in the office of the company early Thursday morning and who reported having been held up by a bandit and relieved of about $800 of the company's money, according to the police, was taken into custody today under a charge of embezzlement. When found Thursday morning he had a heavy bruise over the left eye where, he claimed, according to the police, he was knocked out by the bandit.

BERKELEY NEGROES TELL OF TORTURE

Orangeburg, Sept. 18.—Claiming to have been hanged by a rope to a tree limb until nearly dead in an effort by white men to get certain information, two negroes of the St. Stephens section of Berkeley county found their way to Orangeburg yesterday to prevail upon Solicitor A. J. Hydrick to take action against the guilty parties.

The negroes, cousins, one about 45 years and the other about 25 years, said about 10 days ago they were caught up by a party of white men, known to them, and carried to a wooded place, blindfolded and pulled up by rope around their necks as if they were going to be hanged, as they were demanding that they tell who it was that shot into the road camp shortly before this occasion. The negroes claimed they knew nothing of it and when nearly dead, they were let down. Both negroes had signs of the rope about their necks yesterday.

In telling what they could of the incident, they said some trouble must have come about among hands on the road work that is being done by some company in Berkeley county in building a highway near St. Stephens and that some one, according to the white men, shot at random into the work camp and the white men were endeavoring to find out who did the shooting.

Anderson County S. S. Association

The annual convention of the Anderson County Sunday School Convention was held at Neal's Creek church Tuesday, with a gratifying attendance from the Sunday schools of all denominations throughout the county.

Dr. John E. White, pastor of the First Baptist church of Anderson and president of Anderson College, was the leading speaker on the program. He spoke on "Christian Co-operation for Kingdom Service," saying, "Co-operation is a principle which is approved by all people with common sense. When God's people march together in co-operation they exert a combination of power that is felt to the uttermost reaches of Satan's realm; but when we have our heels toward each other instead of our hearts and heads, it makes a picnic for the devil. The tragedy of Christianity is the tragedy of factions. I wish I had the opportunity, as Christ's messenger, to rebuke every man or woman who stands apart from Christ and yet stands apart from other Christians."

"The Sunday School association encouraging Sunday school work, developing denominational school interests throughout the state. I am a life-member of the International Sunday School association, and am deeply grateful for that fact. I believe in the principles of this organization and I know that it has been the father and founder of our modern progressiveness in Sunday school work."

Dr. White closed with an appeal for the financial support of the South Carolina Sunday School association, and a generous collection was the response.

For the coming year Frank McGee, president of the Anderson Chamber of Commerce and president of several banks, was elected president.

American Exhibit in Paris

New York, Sept. 15.—Arrangements are being made to hold in Paris next spring an exhibition of all American art activity, including not only the fine arts, such as painting and sculpture, but also the arts as applied to industry and the decorative arts, such as furnishings and architecture.

It is understood that this will be the first time in which such a comprehensive demonstration of the work of American artists, designers and architects will be given to the people of France.

The project is to be undertaken at the request of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the announcement is made by Jules Clarence Levi, of New York, who recently returned here after a conference with the French authorities on that subject. Mr. Levi was for a long time in Paris as an agent of the Red Cross and of the French-American Union for Open Air Schools. He was secretary of the committee which arranged the recent exhibit of American architecture at the Paris Salon.

An American committee to arrange for the exhibit next spring has been organized with the following members: William Anderson of Boston; Paul Cret, Philadelphia; and Charles Butler and Mr. Levi of New York. The space to be given to it and the date have not yet been determined, but Mr. Levi said that when this had been done the committee would call upon American artists to submit the exhibits from all over the country so that the exhibition may be truly national. It is intended to hold the exhibit in the rooms of the museum of the Louvre.

The French people, he said, are interested in obtaining a better knowledge of artistic effort in America and this exhibition is intended to fulfill that need.
