

McLeod is Nominated Governor South Carolina

Columbia, Sept. 13.—Cole L. Blease, aspirant for third term in governor's chair, was defeated by approximately 15,000 votes out of a total of 182,000 by Thomas G. McLeod, of Bishopville.

J. H. Hope of Union was nominated state superintendent of education by almost two to one ballot.

Thomas Gordon McLeod, Lee county citizen, was yesterday nominated governor of South Carolina in the second Democratic primary over Cole L. Blease, former governor.

With fewer than 100 small precincts scattered throughout the state yet to report returns at midnight gave Mr. McLeod a lead of 15,097 over his opponent. The vote stood: McLeod, 98,890; Blease, 83,293.

The outstanding vote will not make any material difference, as fewer than 10,000 votes are yet to be counted.

J. H. Hope of Union defeated John E. Swearingen, incumbent, for the office of state superintendent of education. Mr. Hope held a decisive lead over Mr. Swearingen throughout the night. In a total of 176,071, Mr. Hope received 104,543 and Mr. Swearingen 78,528. Mr. Hope's lead at midnight was 31,015.

A. H. Gasque of Florence defeated P. H. Stoll of Kingstree, incumbent, for congress from the Sixth district.

The total vote counted for candidates for governor at midnight was 181,683. The outstanding vote will doubtless carry this figure above 190,000.

Yesterday's vote was by far the heaviest ever cast in the state. The total official vote cast in the first primary for candidates for governor was 173,567, distributed as follows: Blease, 77,798; McLeod, 85,768; George K. Laney of Chesterfield, 23,854; William Coleman of Union, 5,797; John T. Duncan of Columbia, 1,780; J. J. Cason of Sumter, 7,260.

Thomas G. McLeod issued from his headquarters in Columbia last night at 11 o'clock a statement as follows: "My first impression is a feeling of profound gratitude to the men and women of South Carolina for their zealous and unselfish support during the campaign.

"To the people of South Carolina, I desire to say that the keen interest shown in the issues of the campaign makes the result an endorsement more of the principles that I advocated than of myself.

"I shall endeavor as far as within me lies to see that the affairs of the state are economically managed. We are living in times of depression and the hand of adversity falls heavily upon man. There must therefore be a fair and just distribution of taxation. We must not take a backward step and a fair and just distribution of the burden means the maintenance of efficiency.

"South Carolina has no foreign element, our white citizenship are all one people, with the same traditions, hopes and aspirations; and I sincerely trust that there will be no lines of division, but that together we may work out the destiny of a vigorous and valorous commonwealth.

"I realize the great responsibility that I will assume as governor and I most earnestly beg the cooperation of all citizens, their sympathy and their prayers, in my efforts to administer impartially the affairs of this state. In the campaign I made no personal attack upon anyone. I am leaving it, as I entered it, without malice. I have no bitterness and covet the good will and sympathy of every one. It is my purpose to work out our problems for the best good of all. I will be the governor of all the people."

Sketch of Thos. G. McLeod, Nominated Governor Yesterday.

Thomas Gordon McLeod, nominated yesterday for governor of South Carolina, long ago established in his home county of Lee his prestige as an able and learned member of the bar.

He was born in Lynchburg, Sumter county, South Carolina, December 17, 1868, and is descended from James McLeod, a Scot, who came to the Carolinas before the Revolutionary war.

His father, William James McLeod, was a merchant and farmer, and served as captain of Company E, Sixth South Carolina regiment, throughout the Confederate war.

Thomas G. McLeod once wrote in regard to his parentage, inheritance and early influence the following:

"My parents were both devoted Christians and the home influences were of the best. My mother died when I was but ten years of age; but her place was taken by my stepmother, and to her training and influence I am as much indebted for whatever success I have attained as I am to any other influence in my life.

Sketch of Jas. H. Hope, Nominated State Superintendent of Education Yesterday.

J. H. Hope, nominated in the election yesterday for the office of superintendent of education of South Carolina, has long been identified with school work and is known personally to many school men and women in the state.

Mr. Hope received a flattering vote in the primary yesterday and comes to the office with the strong indorsement of many men of Union and Union county. He will bring to the office a thorough training and a wide experience in educational work which will serve him in good stead in the discharge of his duties.

GOVERNMENT OFFERS AFFIDAVITS

Chicago, Sept. 13 (By the Associated Press).—With more than 20,000 affidavits charging assaults by strikers and strike sympathizers on railroad workers in every section of the country, the government today launched its endeavor to show a concerted effort by the striking shop crafts to interfere with interstate traffic by driving railroad employees from their work.

Overruling the objections of attorneys for B. M. Jewell and John Scott, the strike leaders, Federal Judge Wilkerson admitted the affidavits in evidence for the time being at least, in the hearing on the government's bill for a temporary injunction against some 240 shopcrafts officials and their followers.

The court likewise deferred for the present, argument on the defense motion for modification of the temporary restraining order now in force. He ruled that the government's contention that the dominant purpose of the alleged conspiracy is the destruction of interstate traffic would be a vital factor in determining whether the unions were entitled to any modification in the order, and directed the government to proceed with the evidence on which it expects to prove that claim.

The value, as evidence of the affidavits and strike sympathizers, or affidavits of public or railroad officials claiming knowledge of such assaults was vigorously opposed by Donald R. Richberg and Frank Mulholland, attorneys for Mr. Jewell and Mr. Scott.

The affidavits, they declared, are at the best only secondary evidence, and they fail, they added, to show any connection between their clients and the perpetration of the act of violence complained of.

A few isolated acts of violence among 400,000 men on strike are insignificant in themselves, Mr. Richberg declared. "They would occur in any army under military discipline," he said, "and an army of 400,000 men would have to have court-martials to deal with such cases, yet these scattered affairs."

He characterized the government's affidavits as being "may be half true," and denied the inference contained in one of the prosecution's exhibits that trains had ever been abandoned in the Southwestern desert by their crews.

Blackburn Esterline, assistant to the solicitor general, read nearly 200 of the affidavits telling of assaults to the court today, and announced he would continue the reading tomorrow. Unless an agreement is reached to shorten the presentation the government, he told the Associated Press, will read into the record reports of similar occurrences in every state and on every principal railroad line in the country.

Today's exhibits ranged from an affidavit of the tar and feathering of a railroad employee—with photographs attached—through bombings, shootings, attempts to run down workers with automobiles, beatings, threats, verbal abuse, rock throwing and even intimations of their wives and children.

KILLS TWO WOMEN AND SHOOT SELF

Anderson, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Alice McAllister and her daughter, Mrs. Sallie McAllister Allen, were shot and instantly killed this morning by Walter Allen, husband of the daughter, at Orr mill. After shooting the two women, mother-in-law and wife, Allen turned the revolver on himself and fired a shot into his own body, dying this afternoon from his self-inflicted wounds. The two women were shot as they sat at the breakfast table in the home of Mrs. McAllister, mother of the wife of Allen.

Walter Allen came here from Greenville last night, leaving there at midnight, and being driven home by G. O. Scruggs, a taxi driver, who stated that they arrived here about 11:30 p. m.

As he walked into the room he asked his wife where the gun was hidden upon being told that she did not know, he pulled out a revolver and said, "Well, what are you going to do about it?"

He fired first at the mother of his wife, and then at the wife, both being fatally wounded, and then turned the gun on himself. He died at a little after 12 o'clock, physicians being surprised that he lived this long as the bullet went straight through from temple to temple.

From accounts, it seems that Mrs. Allen had come home to her mother for protection from her husband as he is alleged to have abused and ill-treated her. She had been home about five weeks. The brother of Mrs. Allen, James McAllister, stated that Allen had always "treated my sister mean," but that this was the first time that she had left him.

Revival at Green Street

Dr. Starke preached a fine sermon last night to a large and appreciative audience.

The altar service was unusually encouraging. Many came forward for prayer, and quite a number of those who came professed faith in Christ.

One of the features of the meeting is the splendid work being done by the young people, especially the young men. As veterans they work among their friends and the congregations at the altar.

Tonight, the evangelist will deliver one of his most powerful messages on "Repentance and Confession."

The public cordially invited. J. B. Chick, Pastor.
