THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1922.

We are making preparation to place our mailing list on a cash basis. Before doing this we will make every effort to get all those in arrears to pay up. To this end we have put out two collectors—giving to each a half of the territory of the county. Mr. DeAubrey Gregory will have the territory east of the Southern Railway and Mr. C. D. Mitchell the territory west of the Southern Railway. They will seek for new subscribers as well as collect from those in arrears. We commend these men to the subscribers as worthy of confidence. We feel safe in their hands. We have a desire to make our mail list as clean as a hound's tooth. It will not only help us but will also help the feelings of the subscriber.

BOTH JOHN D.'S HELPING.

The rank and file of that 7,000,000 plurality party, or at least the part of it which is still standing on the burning deck, will doubtless thrill to note that the Republican sinews of war are still coming in in blocks of $10,000. We have not seen the complete list of the donors who heaped the shekels up to a paltry total of $721,359 peak, but the press associations inform us that R. B. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, a brother of the secretary of the treasury in Mr. Harding's cabinet, headed the list with a check of $25,000.

But John D. Rockefeller was second with a check for $15,000, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., figuratively stood right behind his father with $10,000 more. The Rockefellers, father and son, then apparently pooled their bait and contributed, we are assured, $750 more, through the Republican congressional committee. This approximately large amount of money was given to help keep the home fires of the party now in power at Washington burning.

We take it that the people will never charge John D. either the older or the younger, with spending money foolishly. They generally know enough not to purchase any pigs in pokes. They get value received for their coin, we presume, and in fact we have been told no less by these great Sunday school teachers time and again. Therefore it stands to reason that the Rockefellers are getting their benefits from Republican legislation, and all the vast army of 7,000,000 who are doing likewise should thrill with enthusiasm.

As we said before we are not kicking. It takes money as a general thing, to carry on elections, particularly when the odds are against an aspirant for office. Nobody will think for a minute that the Republican candidates are not carrying a handicap in this 1922 political struggle for office, hence who can blame the Mellons and the Rockefellers for feeding the kitty? But even with this splendid response on the part of the ultra rich, the total amount contributed was not anywhere as large as it was in 1920.

The "poor" Mellons and Rockefellers probably gave as liberally as the occasion seemed to demand, but they realize that there is the 1924 battle—the getting plainer and plainer, and feel free to predict that the tens of thousands contributed by the John D.'s will be stretched into millions on that occasion. We hazard this guess on the basis that when one makes a billion in a poker game, one doesn't mind feeding the kitty a thousand or so. And the present tariff law obviously pleases some of the big rich brethren tremendously.—Columbia Record.

The Cherokee Times As a Daily

The issue of The Cherokee Times as a daily during conference week which begins November 8, will give our subscribers an opportunity to keep in touch with the proceedings as they occur. Our advertisers will have an opportunity of placing before the public daily any goods and wares which they may have for sale, and will in this way, assist us in defraying the expense of getting out the daily issue. That this will be profitable to the merchants goes without saying as the paper will be read by hundreds of people during the conference session, who do not ordinarily see the paper, as it is our purpose to distribute a large number of free copies during the conference.—Cherokee Times.

Rev. E. A. Miller is Expelled From Ministry

York, S. C., Oct. 31.—Rev. A. E. Miller, former pastor of the Liberty Hill Presbyterian church in Kershaw county today was expelled from the ministry by the Bethel Presbytery in special session here. The Presbytery met today to hear the report of a special committee to investigate charges of immorality against the minister.

Charges were filed against Reverend Miller, who has been without a pastorate for some time, several months ago, before the Presbytery. The recommendation of the committee, which made its report today was followed by a vote of the Presbytery finding him guilty of "disgrace and heinous conduct."

A Sad, Sad Tale

The poet of the Richmond (Va.) Advertiser's club sings this song of a sheriff's sale:

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise.
He swore, it was his policy,
He would not advertise.
But one sad day he advertised,
And thereby hangs a tale.
The ad was set in quite small type,
And headed "Sheriff's Sale."

A Cure for Faultfinding

It is so easy to find fault, so easy to stand by and criticize what others do, to imagine what might have been accomplished and to set it up as a fatal standard for what has been accomplished! To slip into the habit of thinking such things is dangerously easy, and when we think them it is difficult to refrain from saying them. Perhaps the best cure is to say little or nothing; but for the most part humanity is not contrived that way.

A help to preserving a better attitude in the matter is to consider not so much what people have actually done as what they tried to do. Once understand what they were aiming at and you will understand something of their difficulties, and perhaps in the end you may be astonished, not that they have accomplished so much.

Also, that understanding will be vastly facilitated if you go farther and consider whether in their place you would have done exactly the same, or even less well. You are human as they are, your means and capacity are limited as theirs are, perhaps even more limited. When you estimate the complication of circumstances and put yourself, your own blundering "mistaking," regretting ever-recommending self, right into them, your tolerance for the failures of others will be immensely increased.

For this is the best cure of all; instead of dwelling upon the faults of others, to give a little attention, or even a good deal of attention to your own mistakes than with theirs. The trouble is that it is much less agreeable. This little unkindness, that little social awkwardness, the sharp, harsh word you uttered yesterday when a small matter went wrong—it is much more unpleasant to remember those than to point out a friend's shortcomings. It is, however, much more profitable. Those were wise words of Orlando's the good wrestler, the good lover, and the good friend; "I will chide no breather in the world but myself, against whom I know most faults."—Youth's Companion.

In the Interest of the Gypsy Smith Meeting

We are asking the officers and members of every fraternal order in and around Union, if you will not devote a few moments either of silent or oral prayer during each session or gathering you may hold before and during the Gypsy Smith meetings, to the end that a great spiritual blessing may come upon our city and county as the result of these meetings.

This is one of the most frequent and fruitful opportunities for men to come together, and we believe the entire membership will be glad that some man or men will be found in each such gathering who will be glad to publicly invoke the blessings of God and the guidance of the Holy Spirit upon the meeting, the people, and the city and community, and we will esteem it as an act of sympathy and cooperation to have you indicate to us that you have or will and so respond to this request as often as you meet or have the opportunity. L. L. Wagner, Chairman for the Men's Prayer Meeting Committee. 1522-5f

Dug Up Pot of Coins

David Jones, 40 years old, of near Somerset, Ky., a mountaineer who has been poor all his life, now is classed as a rich man by hill country standards.

While digging a pit for a saw mill site the Mount Victory section of Pulaski County, Ky., Jones drove his pick into the top of a pot. There arranged in orderly rows, was a great mass of gold coins.

The money was in ancient English pieces, all more than 100 years old, and Jones could not determine the value of his find. He called on an expert from the state banking department, who assured Jones that the gold was worth about $48,000.

Then arose the question of ownership. Finally Jones was informed that if he kept the money 12 months and no one could prove ownership the fortune would be his.

It is believed by some that the money was buried by robbers at least 100 years ago. The section is declared at that time to have been the lair of a gang which preyed upon a large part of the state and used Pulaski county as a place for hiding their loot.

Certain species of turtles are often found at high altitudes far away from water.
