

DEATH CLAIMS "OLD DAN" MURPHY

Dan Murphy, aged prisoner of the penitentiary, who created considerable surprise early in his year when he announced that he would not accept a pardon if Governor Cooper should see fit to grant executive clemency to him, but who later asked Governor Harvey to grant him a pardon because life at the prison had become "too rough," died yesterday morning in his cell shortly after 3 o'clock from heart trouble.

"Old Dan," as he was known at the prison, was perhaps the oldest man in the penitentiary from the point of service, having been placed there in 1885. With his passing the prison lost a unique figure. His death was sudden, coming before medical attention could be summoned. He was over 65 years of age.

Early in the morning he had been let out of his cell to get a drink of water and again at 3 o'clock he was let out. He complained to his cellmate, James Faulkner, of a "terrible burning in his heart," but Faulkner did not suspect anything serious. A few moments later Faulkner told Dan his feet were cold and Dan replied that "he felt peculiar," a feeling that he had never experienced before. With a sigh Dan turned over and said, "God bless you, my boy," and passed to the other world.

Dr. R. T. Jennings, penitentiary physician, examined the body and pronounced death due to apoplexy. Coroner Scott was notified, but after a consultation decided that an inquest was not necessary.

Dan had served nearly a quarter of a century in the penitentiary and until the riot there some months ago had been happy. He ran a little store in the prison yard and had accumulated a good deal of money from his sales of soft drinks, tobacco and other articles. After the riot at the prison some of the "hard boiled" prisoners thought Dan had taken the side of the authorities and, according to his story, were "after" him. He expressed a desire to leave because the men were getting "too rough" for him.

Col. A. K. Sanders, superintendent of the penitentiary, has always been loved and worshiped by the men. He often said he would never leave as long as Colonel Sanders remained superintendent and when the pardon board recommended that the governor grant him full executive clemency he announced that he would not leave. Governor Cooper never offered the pardon, but the pardon board favored clemency for Dan.

It was only last year that Dan was brought up the street to a moving picture show, the first he had ever seen. Colonel Sanders brought the old man up town and gave him the treat of his life by riding him around the streets, carrying him to a show and riding him on an elevator. It was Dan's first "joy trip," the first time he had ever ridden in an automobile and an elevator and he was delighted at the sight on Main street. It was like a new world to Dan.

When Dan was thinking of the possibility of a pardon being offered him he said he was "away behind the times," having been behind the grim walls for many years. He did not think he could get out in the world again and keep progress with business. He was content to remain with his friend, Colonel Sanders.

Dan was convicted of killing Robert Copes, treasurer of Orangeburg county. The evidence against him was exceptionally strong, but there were no eyewitnesses. Dan always said he was innocent. Last year he expressed deep regret that he had not taken the stand during the trial and told his story, but it was too late.

Treasurer Copes was making the rounds of the county collecting taxes when he was slain. Evidence at the trial showed that the gun used belonged to Dan and it was also brought out that the tracks around the scene of the killing were made by shoes worn by Dan, certain tracks in the heel pointed conclusively to this. The killing occurred on May 6, 1895.

Dan was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged March 5, 1897. Governor Ellerbe granted him a respite until March 26, 1897, and on March 25 commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. On March 26, 1897, Dan entered the penitentiary to begin his life sentence.

On September 20, 1900, Dan escaped and went to the Philippine islands, where he joined the cavalry. He returned to the United States and, while working in Georgia, became involved with his landlord. He was sentenced to a term on the Georgia chain gang and while at work on the gang was discovered by the auditor of Orangeburg county, a close friend of the chain treasurer. He was brought back to the penitentiary on December 18, 1905, and there remained until he died yesterday morning.—The State.

NO AMERICANS HURT BY 'QUAKE

Washington, Nov. 16.—All Americans in the vicinity of Valparaiso and Coquimbo were reported "safe" and "well" in advices received today by the state department bearing upon the recent earthquake from Consul Carl F. Deichman at Valparaiso, Chile.

Consul General Deichman also said Consular Agents Edwin Salz at Coquimbo and James C. Frederick at Cruz Grande, about whom inquiry had been made, were safe and uninjured.

Newspaper dispatches received at Santiago from the distressed regions were referred to by Consul Deichman, who said these showed Americans arriving at Coquimbo from Valparaiso had reported that employees of an American settler company at Tofo and Cruz Grande also were in good health.

Other advices from Consul Stewart McMillan at Antofagasta said there had been no damage to American property and none had been harmed in Antofagasta or Chuquibambuta. Similar reports were received from American consuls at Arica and Iquique. These said the shock was mild in Iquique and presumably not perceptible in Arica.

Santiago said that at 6 p. m. yesterday total deaths in the devastated region numbered between 750 and 1,000 with about 1,500 injured. Property damage was estimated at about 50,000,000 pesos, nearly all being in Valparaiso, Coquimbo, Copiapo, Chanao and vicinity. The steel company's loss at Coquimbo, the dispatch said, was 800,000 pesos. Many thousands were homeless and food, clothing and medical supplies especially were very scarce. Ambassador Collier said, adding that President Alessandri left Santiago yesterday for the devastated region, carrying supplies.

Subscriptions for the victims of the earthquake have been started in all parts of Chile and Argentina, the ambassador reported, resulting in the organization of a national relief fund under the presidency of Ismail Bernal, who would guarantee efficient administration of relief.

Grateful comment was made on the part of the American people. Cross to aid earthquake sufferers in Chile, the dispatch concluded, had appeared in Santiago newspapers. Mention also was made of John Barton Payne's interviews with the Chilean ambassador at Washington on the relief situation.

Proceedings of the African Methodist Conference (Contributed)

Yesterday was a busy day at Bethel church with the African Methodist conference reading and hearing reports. Bishop Chappelle spoke words of appreciation of the work done by the ministers and church members. Dr. Sandy Simmons, candidate for the bishopric, delivered an address. Hundreds of visitors are here from all parts of South Carolina attending the conference.

Bishop Chappelle said the administration building at Allen University was near completion, at a cost of $125,000. When completed it will be the best negro school in the South.

The conference went wild with applause when the committee reported that under Bishop Chappelle's administration the debt on Allen University has been reduced from $60,000 to $16,000. All the teachers are being paid each month and the contractor will be paid next week.

Last night a thoughtful missionary sermon was preached by Rev. L. F. Vance, acting presiding elder of the Winnsboro district.

Today is educational day. President R. W. Mance of Allen University will be the principal speaker. The conference is well pleased with Union hospitality. The pastor, Rev. L. D. Gamble, and his officials are pleased beyond expression.

Saturday is missionary day. Mrs. R. C. Chappelle, wife of the bishop, will be the principal speaker.

It is planned to arrive in Union at 7 o'clock and there march in a body to the tabernacle, where 100 reserved seats will be held for them. As they march into the tabernacle the club members will sing one of the Billy Sunday hymns.

WEEVIL FIGHTERS MEET TOMORROW

Leading farmers of the state will gather in Columbia at the call of Governor Harvey at noon Saturday to discuss boll weevil control and in the hopes of arriving at some definite plan to fight the pest, this plan to be carried back to the leaders of their respective communities. The conference will be in the state library.

More than a score of leading farmers and agricultural scientists have been invited by the chief magistrate and urged to be present as the conference means much to the people of the state. Some brief and simple plan of war, to be waged during the winter months, will, it is hoped, be mapped out.

While the meeting has been confined to a group of representative farmers, together with the government experimental forces, it is believed the benefits will reach to all the farmers, as it is planned for each person attending to disseminate the information in his community.

Prosperity in South Carolina hinges on the control of the boll weevil, at least for the immediate future, the governor points out in his letter of invitation, and the need for cooperative protection by the farmers is most urgent at this time. The governor hopes to gain the attention of every farmer in the state in the efforts to combat the weevil.

Mrs. James Smith Is Called Home

(Gaffney Ledger)

Mrs. James W. Smith, 828 North Limestone street, died Tuesday morning after an illness of several months. Last July Mrs. Smith had the misfortune to fall, sustaining a fracture of the right shoulder, from which injury she never recovered.

Her relatives and friends have been very anxious about her for some time. Mrs. Smith died at 5:30 a. m. just with the awaking life of a new day. She went to sleep like a tired child. It was just at the coming of the dawn. Surely a most fitting time for a pure spirit to take its flight heavenward. After a long and hard life she was loved.

She reared her own monument in the hearts of those who knew her while in the flesh. Her life was completed if work all done and well done constitutes completion. Today a bank of autumn flowers hides from our sight all that is mortal of a true and noble woman.

Mrs. Smith was the daughter of Martin and Elizabeth Bishop. She was born in Union county July 16th, 1849, and was, therefore, 73 years of age. In 1869 she was wedded to James W. Smith, and resided near Mt. Tabor until 1884 when the couple moved to Gaffney, where they have since resided. Two children were born to this union, viz., Charles M. and J. Henry.

Mrs. Smith was a quiet, unassuming woman, noted principally for her devotion to her family and her attention to her home. She was a member of the Baptist church, having first joined Providence and later transferring to the First Baptist church of this city.

She was a faithful wife, a devoted mother and a generous and kind neighbor. Mrs. Smith is survived by her husband, two sons, Charles M. and J. Henry Smith; a sister, Mrs. Julia A. Jenkins, all of Gaffney.

The funeral took place from the residence, 928 N. Limestone street yesterday at 1 o'clock, Rev. R. C. Granberry officiating. The interment was at Oakland cemetery. The pall bearers were: J. K. Wood, L. V. Gaffney, Dr. W. K. Gunter, W. F. Smith, J. N. Lipscomb, A. L. Hallman, W. E. Poeler, C. D. Meadows and W. H. Rose.

Children Are Quaint

It is funny the way children hear things and the funny twist they give our own words. A little girl in this city was having a tea party and when the cakes and hot chocolate had been placed on the table she told the other children she was going to say grace like father did and this is what she said: "Father, we thank Thee for this food and we thank Thee for clothes and health, and, oh, Father, we thank Thee that we are not as crazy as other people." She thought that was what her father said every day and the rest of the family are trying to figure out what he did say that sounded like her version.

Children are quaint and funny little things.

HALL-MILLS CASE COMES UP MONDAY

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 17.—Final plans for the presentation of the Hall-Mills case to the grand jury next Monday were made at the conference of the prosecuting officials at Somerville today. The jury will get the letters that passed between the Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills who were slain September 14th.

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 16.—Original letters, said to have been written by the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall to Mrs. Eleanor Harburt Mills, who was murdered on September 14, are to be turned over to the authorities tomorrow by Miss Florence North, attorney for Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain woman, it was announced tonight by Special Detective Mason.

James Mills, widow of the choir leader, today received $600 of the $1,000 which Miss North is said to have obtained through the sale of the publication rights of the letters. These letters are expected to figure prominently in the case in connection with the prosecution of Mrs. Frances Noel Stevens Hall, widow of the rector, had knowledge before the murders of the intimacies that existed between her husband and his choir leader.

Mr. Mason also announced that the prosecution would present to the grand jury testimony of two more witnesses whose stories have never been made public. The stories of these witnesses, he said, were considered "trump cards" in the case, which would almost surely result in the returning of indictments.

The story of Mrs. James Gibson, the state's alleged eyewitness of the two killings, has been checked up in every way, Detective Mason said, and all attempts to find flaws in it have failed. Her story was strengthened further today by the announcement of the authorities that they had found the driver of the rambling wagon, which Mrs. Gibson said she followed to the scene of the murders when she was searching for corn cobs.

James L. Hendrickson, aged 29 years, died at the home of his brother in Inman Tuesday night at 11 o'clock after a lingering illness that had been on him to Asheville, N. C., where he was making an attempt to regain his health. It was on the way from Asheville that he, being unable to continue the journey back to Spartanburg, stopped by the home of his brother and died.

He was a former employee of the South Carolina Gas and Electric company and was considered a valued employee by the company. He is survived by his wife and several small children and by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hendrickson of the city; by three brothers: W. L. Hendrickson of Inman, R. J. Hendrickson of the city; by two sisters, biary Hendrickson and Mrs. Christine Taylor of the city.

The funeral services were held at Inman yesterday afternoon and interment followed in the Cannon's Camp Ground cemetery. Services were conducted by the Rev. Brabson. Employees of the S. C. Gas and Electric company acted as pall bearers.—Spartanburg Journal.

Turkish Sultan Has Fled From Constantinople

Constantinople, Nov. 17 (By the Associated Press).—Mohammed VI, the Turkish sultan, has fled from Constantinople on the British warship for Malta and declared upon embarking that he was not abdicating but merely removing himself from immediate danger. The sultan on Wednesday wrote General Harrington, the British commander, asking protection and said he believed his life was endangered.

The sultan has been greatly worried over his status since the Angora assembly voted to deprive him of civil authority and declared hereafter the religious head of Islam would be selected from the imperial household by the assembly. The bulk of his guards went over to the Nationalists and dispatches said he was virtually at the mercy of the Kemalists. There have been rumors that he had abdicated or would do so. Political motives may be read into the flight on British warship. The British have strong motives in seeking his safety, owing to the millions of Mohammedans in the British empire, many of whom dispute the right of Turkey alone to decide the head of the church.

Constantinople, Nov. 17 (By the Associated Press).—The Kemalists attempted to run the interned Turkish destroyer Akissar out of the Golden Horn disguised as a merchantman. The Allies frustrated the attempt.

CLARA PHILLIPS SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16.—Mrs. Clara Phillips, convicted today of second degree murder for beating Mrs. Alberta Meadows to death with a hammer, will seek a new trial and if that is denied, will appeal from the verdict, it was announced by Bertram A. Harrington, her attorney.

"There is a fatal error in the record and finally Clara Phillips will be freed," Harrington said. "I will not quit the fight until she is."

The motion for a new trial will be made when Mrs. Phillips is sentenced Monday. The verdict, which was a compromise one from a jury of nine men and three women, carries a penalty of from ten years to life imprisonment.

"I expected to be acquitted," Mrs. Phillips said in commenting on the verdict. "They didn't give me a fair trial. I am going to ask my attorney to appeal and believe with another trial I can be acquitted. I don't think I will go to the penitentiary. But if I have to go there I could face life in that place with the same poise I have here. It would not make much difference to me. All my hopes are crushed anyway."

The three women members of the jury voted for the death penalty until the final compromise of second degree murder was reached, it was said. In the early balloting there were four who voted to acquit. The jury reached an agreement late last night after the judge, the attorneys and court attaches had gone home, but the verdict was not returned until this morning. According to members of the jury, they did not consider the insanity condition set up by the defense.

Mrs. Peggy Caffee, the state's star witness, whom Mrs. Phillips testified killed the hammer that killed Mrs. Meadows, was released from technical custody today. Since October 29, when the trial commenced, she had been in a hotel near the court house in charge of a matron of the district attorney's office.

We Sleep too Little

Not enough time is given to the necessary physical repairs which this most strenuous modern pace demands.

The vitality lowered and we are subject to all the ills that otherwise would be averted. Old age is encouraged and our personality affected. It is claimed that as a race we sleep too little. An infant's life is nearly all sleep. Gradually, as the child grows older, the hours of sleep are shortened to half the day or about eight hours.

Youth, until the age of 20 is reached, requires fully 10 hours' sleep. Although nature demands less hours of sleep in summer than in winter, it has proved that eight hours of sleep is required for the average male adult in good health.

By this is meant not simply eight hours in bed, but that amount of good, sound, restful sleep night after night. Our power to work is intimately related to our ability to sleep, and there is no more reliable indication of sound health than the capacity to sleep naturally.—Baltimore Sun.

TEXAS TOWN QUIET DESPITE THREATS

Breckenridge, Texas, Nov. 17.—Breckenridge was quiet today following the exodus yesterday of scores of Mexicans and negroes who left town because of alleged threats and intimidations made by a crowd of men who paraded through the negro and Mexican sections Tuesday night. No disturbances or disorders have been reported.

City and county officials have promised all protection possible.

A message signed by District Judge C. O. Hamlin and others was sent to Governor Neff saying the situation was not so bad as reports indicated but suggested that one or two rangers be sent to Breckenridge for the "moral effect of their presence."

Mayor C. H. Fulwiler also informed Consul General Ruiz at San Antonio, that he had promised Mexicans all protection possible when a delegation called on him following the parade and alleged threats. He denied reports that protection had been refused the Mexicans, pointing out that Consul Ruiz's message to Governor Neff yesterday was "a great injustice" to him, in view of the steps taken to protect the Mexicans.

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 16.—Direct appeal to the United States government will be made hereafter when the lives and property of Mexican nationals are threatened, Consul General Enrique Ruiz said today. This decision was made, Mr. Ruiz said, after repeated attempts to punish persons believed responsible for the murder of Mexican citizens along the border had failed. "For some time the consul general of Mexico has been receiving notices from almost every consulate in the state of Texas under its jurisdiction advising this office of crimes committed on Mexican citizens," said Mr. Ruiz. "Most of the reports have come from Hidalgo county, the latest of these being the lynching of Elias Villarreal ZaZrate, at Weslaco by a group of 15 men."

"There have been in this state many cases of murder of defenseless citizens of Mexico under the most abhorrent circumstances, which have never been given publicity," Consul Ruiz said in a written statement. "I feel sure that if the people of Texas knew of the details of these crimes, they would raise a strong protest against the perpetrators. They are an insult to the principles of righteousness and the spirit of true democracy and 100 per cent Americanism, for which this state has always stood."

"The consul at Weslaco reports that Zarate was taken by a mob and killed after he had been taken into custody by the local authorities. The consul reports that Zarate was arrested because he had struck a man in self defense, having been attacked by a man who was attempting to beat him on the head with a club."

"Another case of lynching reported from Hidalgo county recently was a Mexican citizen who had also been arrested for some small offense. His body was found in the open with several bullet holes through it."

The local officials of the town claim they had no knowledge of the affair until attention was called to it by the man who found the body.

BIGHAM APPEAL BEFORE COURT

The appeal of Edmund D. Bigham, convicted murderer of his brother, L. Smiley Bigham, will in all probability be argued before the supreme court shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. A. L. King, chief counsel for Bigham, arrived yesterday and he announced that he expected Solicitor Lonnie M. Gasque to call the case this morning.

Bigham has already been before the supreme court three times, once under an application for habeas corpus, once in a regular appeal from the death sentence against him and once under a motion of Solicitor Gasque to dismiss his appeal from the refusal of Circuit Judge S. W. G. Shipp to grant a new trial. Today will be the fourth time the case has been before the court.

When Bigham was refused a new trial by the court and was carried to Florence to be resented he moved for a new trial. Judge Shipp refused to grant the motion and he appealed. This is the appeal that will be argued this morning. Last September Solicitor Gasque moved to dismiss the appeal under Rule 30, claiming that it contained no merit, but the court denied the motion of the solicitor and will hear the appeal on its merits.

Bigham is charged with the murder of his brother, L. Smiley Bigham; his mother, Mrs. L. S. Bigham; his sister, Mrs. Margie Black; and his sister's two adopted children, Leo and John McCracken. He has never been tried for the alleged murder of the last named four. He was convicted of the murder of his brother and sentenced to die in the electric chair in April, 1921, but has been appealing ever since.

The appeal today is based largely on a plea of after-discovered evidence, consisting mainly of alleged letters of Smiley Bigham that were found after the murders. According to these letters Smiley, writing to Edmund, declared that he was going to kill all the family and then "end it all." The letters are typewritten and when Bigham moved for a new trial before Judge Shipp on the strength of these letters the judge denied the motion.—The State.
