To the Public.
THE Committee to whom was entrusted the investigation into the conduct of John Coyle, formerly Engineer of the State, had a meeting early in the season, and the subject was called up. It was suggested by the acting Chairman, that application had been made to him for a summons to command the attendance of certain witnesses. These witnesses were to rebut the testimony of James H. Hill to sustain the charge against Coyle. The Chairman stated that he had delayed acting upon this application until the sense of the committee should be taken upon a proposition he should now submit to them, to wit: to ask leave of the house to be discharged from the further consideration of the case, upon the ground that Coyle was not now an officer of the State, nor engaged in its service, and that the state had no interest in pursuing the investigation. This proposition was carried—and, accordingly, the committee subsequently asked leave to be discharged from the further investigation of the charges; and leave was granted by the house.
The Editors of the Yorkville Pioneer, Augusta Chronicle, and Milldegeville Recorder will give the above four insertions, and send their accounts to the office of the Telescope for payment.

To the Public.
A PUBLICATION having appeared in the Telescope, furnished, though not subscribed, by Mr. Robert Leekie, on the subject of his charges against Mr. John Coyle, which had lately been in a course of investigation before a committee of the House of Representatives, it may not be improper, in the absence of my brother, to remark:
1st. That those charges rested upon the unimpeached testimony of Mr. Leekie.
2d. That Mr. Jamieson's testimony went to prove that Leekie was not a credible witness.
3d. That Leekie's charges against my brother, were not, from his own choosing, susceptible of proof, by any witnesses but himself, he having cautiously laid the scene in the presence only of persons who are dead.
4th. The committee asked to be discharged from the further consideration of the affair, contrary to the wishes of my brother, as urged by his counsel.
5th. Mr. Leekie's conduct in this matter, is now the subject of judicial investigation, in spite of the industry with which he has sought to escape from such a tribunal.
JAMES COYLE.

The Misses B. are particularly gratified, by the patronage so liberally extended towards them, having avoided the ordinary means pursued on such occasions; that of exciting public attention by ostentatious display; and they feel a satisfaction, in the full conviction, that their real and indefatigable exertions for the improvement of their pupils, have been the duly means by which they have so far succeeded.
The Institution, is at this period so flourishing, as to induce the Misses B. to enlarge their school hours, and make other arrangements essential to the accommodation of those who may be considered to their care as boarders.
