Equity between Men
The undersigned having failed and laboring under the greatest distress in the power of man for the last six years, to protect and promote the interest of all his creditors, in business of some magnitude and importance, the like not recorded in history, he is resolved to bring the whole of his business to a final close, and to resign his stewardship.
A man who has property and owes money, is the more agent of his creditors.
A man may pay his debts as well with property as with paper, called money.
Assignments made by men who fall in trade, are said to be made for the general benefit of all their creditors, and such assignments are commonly made to one or two of their particular creditors, who are called assignees, they resigning the remainder of their effects into the pocket of their assignees, and their creditors get nothing.
He will, on Tuesday the 21st of March next, at 10 o'clock, A. M. offer for sale, at Public Auction, for cash, all his property, viz: Two hundred Lots, or upwards, (among which there are some Water Lots) in the town of Hamburg, in fee simple, improved and unimproved. He has also three hundred Lots and Houses, built in January 1828, and his interest in one fourth of the fee simple of the same after that time. One thousand Acres of Land, near the town, in fee simple, several likely Negroes—his claim or interest in the Bridge across Savannah river, between Hamburg and Augusta, that is two thirds of the landing, on which the South Carolina end of the Bridge stands, from now until January 1829, and one fourth of the landing, in fee simple, after that time—his interest in a bond for titles, given by Edward Lowell and Walter Leigh to Henry Shultz and Lewis Cooper, in 1813, for $8,000, (standing for the redemption of the Bridge, and not performed—his claim or interest in an attachment levied on the Bridge on 21st March, 1821, for $4,100—his claim or interest in another attachment levied on the Bridge on 21st March, 1821, for $7,100—his claim or interest in the sum for which the Bridge sold, say $70,000, paid and received on deposit by the Branch of the Bank of the State of Georgia, at Augusta in their own bills, and for tolls of Bridge, received legally or illegally, by said Bank amounting to about $34,000, and both of which is now in suit, between Shultz and Breithaupt and the Bank of the State of Georgia, in the Supreme Court of the United States—his claim or right, of crossing the Bridge on foot, free of toll, for near eighteen years to come, or the money paid for it, acquired by purchase from the legatees of Walter Leigh, deceased, which right is in these words, viz: "reserving to himself the right of crossing the said Bridge or Ferry, for thirty years, free of toll, for himself and family, white and black, with their carriages of pleasure and profit, and all persons in his employment; and if sold by executors, the purchaser to enjoy the said right for the balance of the term." His claim or interest in the Bridge Company's Banking House, in the city of Augusta—his claim or interest in the Steam Boat Hamburg—his claim or interest in the property of David McKinnon, now in suit, between the assignees of the said McKinnon, and himself, in this State—his claim, right and title to Two Hundred and thirty two Lots in the Town of Brunswick, Georgia, and many other items of property, too tedious to mention.
For the whole of which property, he will receive in payment the bill of the Bank of Hamburg—the bill of the Bridge Company Bank, Augusta—his individual Notes, due or not due—his endorsements, bonds, mortgages, and any other just claims against him, in a matter in what shape, or of what kind, or on what title, Bridge Company Bills, or Notes on South Carolina or Georgia, or whether the Notes or Bills themselves, only, whether the same be written across the face of them, or not.
In short, any thing that bears his name, if it has not already been paid, will be received in payment.
As there is property abundantly to pay all claims against him, whatsoever, and it, in fact, belonging to his creditors, and he having resolved to give up all, if necessary, to pay the whole, should they give any thing like a fair price for it, all of them can be paid.
It is now for his creditors to say, whether they will receive payment in full, in part, or nothing, as from and after the sale, he shall consider himself discharged, legally and morally, from all claims whatsoever against him, individually or jointly, with John McKinnon, or any other person.
What property I may acquire by my talents and industry after that time, shall be "mine and not thine."
HENRY SHULTZ.
The sale will continue from day to day, until the whole is disposed of.
All persons having unsettled accounts against him, will please to present them for settlement before the day of sale.

Twenty Dollars Reward
WILL be paid for the apprehension and delivery of a mulatto man named BILL, who absconded from the subscriber on the 1st instant.
BILL is about built middle aged, about twenty three years of age, five feet ten inches high, reads and writes, and he may have a pass, or free papers of his own making. He makes much fuss about religion, sings spiritual songs often, and a talking plausible fellow, something drabbling, and using affectation in his conversations. BILL had on when he went away, a black fur hat about half worn, and a light blue coat of cassimere, homespun clouded overalls, rest of his wardrobe not recollected. The above reward will be paid for his delivery to me with all reasonable expenses, or the reward for his confinement in a jail so that I may obtain him. He will most likely make for the neighborhood of King's Mountain where he was raised, and from which place I purchased him from Mr. Cayener. BILL is by trade a Stone Cutter, and pretends to be a Black Smith and Carpenter.
