

Such might be said upon this subject, but I am willing to stop here, with wishing the greatest success to the North Yarn & Milling Co. and all who are engaged in so profitable an undertaking.

THE GREEKS.

Paris, March 19.—The affairs of Greece present a more and more favorable aspect every day; their success is confirmed by letters from all quarters. The Captain Pasha, and his army, are now in a position which will enable him to cut with greater promptitude and vigor, and prevent the other chiefs from dividing into parties.

The naval victory of the Greeks before Missolonghi, is confirmed by the way of Smyrna, and also the following facts: The Turkish fleet was put to flight by 27 Greek vessels, and all the Turkish vessels were captured and destroyed.

The Greeks are desirous of giving to their empire, as shall enable him to act with greater promptitude and vigor, and prevent the other chiefs from dividing into parties.

We learn from the Philadelphia Gazette, that the New Steam Boat Line between Philadelphia and Norfolk, will commence running in the middle of May. Both the boats destined for this line are launched, and are now fitting up in superior style.

The documents communicated to the House of Representatives, by the President of the United States, on Saturday last, disclose the fact, that the Government of Brazil is to be represented at the Assembly of American Nations, at Panama.

It is intended that this line shall open a communication by the direct route between Philadelphia and the towns on the whole line of coast, as low down as Wilmington, N. C.

The President then interrupted the Count's speech by declaring that there was nothing personal in the remarks of the Minister, and that he would suspend the discussion.

The Telegraph of Bordeaux, has transmitted the following news of an accident which has befallen the Archbishop of that city, who is above 60 years of age.

Paris, March 6.—The young Breton Chief, whose name is Teoularon, visited the Archbishop of Paris this morning, accompanied by the respectable missionary who acts as his interpreter.

The following conclusions are drawn from the report of the Board of Engineers, upon the subject of the three routes explored for the purpose of laying out a road from Washington, to New-Orleans.

Routes.—The middle route and the western route are about equally provided with materials in this respect they have the advantage over the Eastern route.

Soil.—The soil along the western route is generally better than that along the middle route. On the eastern route it is inferior to the other two.

Distance.—The length of the road will be less in the direction of the middle than in that either of the eastern or western routes.

Expense.—The expense of material for a solid and durable construction will be about the same for the middle and western routes, but much greater for the eastern.

The price of labor will generally be the same along the middle and western direction, though less for some sections along the latter; but it will be higher along the eastern.

Commerce.—The eastern route will enjoy the exclusive advantage of facilitating the commercial correspondence between our inland importing and exporting marts.

Accommodation of population.—The eastern and middle routes will accommodate directly more states than the western; but, taking into view, and by anticipation, the increase of population, perhaps the routes ought to be placed on the same footing.

A young quaker from a distant country, came to London a few years ago, and being struck with the gaudy fashions of the times, commenced being a Quaker.

books of a state situated in the midst of enlightened and liberal republics, such a relic of the darker ages?

Literary Sketches.—The fraternity of shoemakers have unquestionably given rise to some characters of worth and genius. The late Mr. Holcroft was originally an indigent shoemaker.

New Orleans, March 16, 1855.—Yesterday, a case of rather a novel nature, was brought before the Criminal Court. During the trial of a criminal, on Wednesday last, or, more properly, in passing sentence upon him, the Judge had occasion to make some severe observations on the conduct of two members of the bar, in regard to the prisoner before his trial.

Lower Canada.—The Legislature of Lower Canada closed a long and a busy session on the 29th ult. The jealousy and collision which have existed for some time between the Legislative Body and the Royal Governor General, and which appeared to be increasing, make the proceedings interesting to their neighbors.

When I met you at the opening of this session, I stated to you in general terms the prosperous circumstances of the Province, and the evident necessity that existed for measures to encourage the disposition of the people to industry and public improvements, to secure and to increase the value of property, and to facilitate the administration of Justice in this fast increasing population.

He informs them that he was instructed from England not to subvert the acts objected to, and adds, that he shall adhere to those instructions until they are recalled. He therefore refuses his assent to several bills of appropriation, until the Governor shall withdraw his assent to a bill to continue and amend certain acts for regulating intercourse with the United States, upon a basis of greater freedom than established by the late imperial acts.

France.—A Paris Journal of March 11, says it is affirmed that M. de Chateaubriand has sold the property of his complete works to a company of publishers for 700,000 francs, ($28,000).

The French Chamber of Deputies on the 11th of the month of St. Domingo was again discussed. A M. de Bourdonnaye opened the debate by a speech in favor of the law, and was followed by Schastiani. The first sentence of the General's speech will show the nature of his discourse.

M. de Bourdonnaye, and M. de Berthier rising at the same time: "I demand the right of speaking."

M. de Bourdonnaye.—I wish to speak to fact. The President.—I cannot allow you to speak to a fact; the regulation forbids it.

M. de Berthier.—If the Minister utters a false fact, it is necessary that he should be corrected. (Great agitation.) Members of the Ministerial.—Close the debate—divide.

The President.—If the Minister has uttered an incorrect fact, you can contradict it, when you come to speak on the discussion of the articles.

RAVING OF RED RIVER. On the 12th of March, Captain Birch and Lieut. Lee, with a detachment of men from the 1st Cavalry, were by order of government, have been up Red River examining the great raft, returned a few days ago, after an absence, on that duty, of about two months.

After examining the old bed of the river as well as they could, they crossed over an island, hauling their light skiffs to the Bayou Pierre, or western branch or division of the river, which they found very different from which a canal of less than half a mile, through a level alluvial soil, would open a communication into Lake St. Louis.

The lake is about 100 miles long, and five or six broad; it has a channel in it, in which they found ten feet water, and the high water mark at least fifteen feet above the level surface. The lake stretches along with an indented shore nearly parallel with the river; there is a communication between the lake and the river already, about twenty-five miles above the head of the raft; and one might easily be opened many miles higher up.

The amateurs at the head of the basin were this morning suddenly called to witness a scene of great novelty. A well-fed, fat and merry winged man was found floating in the water, apparently alive, but making no exertions to get out.

Some said they saw him, a few minutes before, run down the street and plunge into the water, others supposed that he had fallen accidentally; but it appeared impossible to ascertain correctly whether accident or design had placed him in that situation.

He informed them that he was instructed from England not to subvert the acts objected to, and adds, that he shall adhere to those instructions until they are recalled. He therefore refuses his assent to several bills of appropriation, until the Governor shall withdraw his assent to a bill to continue and amend certain acts for regulating intercourse with the United States, upon a basis of greater freedom than established by the late imperial acts.

How Printers live.—The editor of a paper in Warren county, Pa. says he has not received two dollars in five months. Many may doubt this, but those who do so, give evidence that they know but little of "the trade."

FROM THE NEW-YORK NATIONAL ADVOCATE. ORIENTAL HARP. Mr. Editor.—I wish, through the medium of the National Advocate, to inform my friends, that I've my intention to publish, as soon as practicable, a select and revised volume of my best poems, under the title of the "ORIENTAL HARP," to be embellished with a neat vignette of the Boston Bazaar, taken from a painting executed in Philadelphia, in the year 1851, at the age of twenty-three years.

Horrid Crime—Awful Verdict.—Mr. Hunter, the celebrated Equestrian and performer on the rope, well known to our readers for his extraordinary feats at the Baltimore Circus, has been tried in Hartford, Connecticut—the land of blue laws, under a law that states which prohibits certain feats performed in the Circus.
