Notice.

THE subscriber returns his thanks to a generous public for the very liberal patronage he has received at his hands, during his residence in Columbia. He takes this opportunity of informing them, that from the first commencement of his business, to the present date, a term of ten years, he has never made a settlement with himself, although considerable time has elapsed since, nearly testing the necessity of it. In the year 1827, he is resolved on attempting the Heretitian task, and has made arrangements accordingly; via: On the first of January next, he will entirely withdraw from trade—his stock is already sold, and will on that day pass into other men's hands. To those who have favored him with their custom he begs leave, respectfully, to say, that whatever benefit has accrued to him, from having good manufacturers to supply his store, will likely be derived by his successors; as in disposing of his stock to them, he not only sells the property immediately on hand, but enables them to receive constant supplies from the same manufacturer, whom for many years he has been vending to the public.

MONTICELLO,

The seat of the late Thomas Jefferson is proposed to publish a pictorial view of Monticello House, from a drawing made on the spot by Mr. Smith, appointed to the post of one of the first artists of our country provided sufficient patronage is given, equal to meet the expenses incident to such an undertaking.
With a view to ascertain this, these proposals are had before the public.

The engraving, handsomely colored, will be furnished subscribers of three dollars a copy, payable on delivery. The size of the plate will be 20 inches long by 12 inches wide.

Particular attention has been paid, in the drawing, to the architectural character of this building, which distinguishes it from all others.

For every responsible subscriber, a handsome who will collect the name, will be entitled to receive one copy of this work gratis.

Subscriptions received by P. THOMAS, book seller of Washington, where the original drawing is deposited, and at the Book stores in this place.

Mrs. H. MARKS, Milliner and Mantua-maker.

WE the author of returning her thanks to her customers and the public in general, for the encouragement she has hitherto received, and still continues to receive, and inform you, she has just returned from Charleston with a first rate Milliner and Mantua-maker, and has also succeeded in procuring Cutters of the latest fashion, made by one of the best Dress Makers in Charleston. She pledges herself to offer every trust to her care either in the Military or Mantua-making line shall be done in the neatest and most fashionable manner.

The Faculty and Guardians of these young ladies placed at the respective academies of this place will have, if required, a liberal credit allowed them.

In consequence of another person having commenced business under the same name, and to prevent confusion, Mrs. H. Marks, informs her friends and particularly those at a distance, that she is to be found at her old stand, opposite Mr. John Fer-guson's Glass and Crockery Store.

New Saddlery Ware House.

Smith & Wright,

WE leave to inform their friends and the public, that they have again established themselves in the Saddlery business of their old stand, on the corner of King and George Streets Charleston, one door above Mr. C. Chisolm's Hotel, where they have constantly on hand a complete and general assortment of all kinds of saddles, bridles, harness, whips, and trunks; also girdle bridles and harness leather, morocco skins, sheep and calf do-together with a complete assortment of plated gilt and japanned saddle ware; coach lace and coach trimmings of all kinds. As they are connected with an extensive manufactory in the north, they feel confident in assuring the public that they can furnish goods in their line of a superior style, and on as good terms as can be procured at any similar establishment in the United States.

All orders will be thankfully received, and promptly attended to, they respectfully solicit a share of the public patronage.

E. L. ROCHE,

MAN'S MERCIER AND TAILOR,
No. 9 Broad-street, opposite the U. S. Bank, Charleston South Carolina.

RESPONSIBLY inform his country customers, that he has received from London an extensive supply of all kinds of GOODS in his line, together with a large assortment of FANCY ARTICLES, of all descriptions; it is now well understood and acknowledged by some of the most respectable gentlemen in this state, who undiately sent for their clothes to New York and Philadelphia, but who now deal with the subscriber, that he can accommodate them as reasonable and in as elegant style as any person in either of the above cities. Some gentlemen have been in the habit of sending their measures to the north. The subscriber, informs them, that if they send them to him, he will have them equally if not better fitted; his hands are all white and experienced workmen to whom he gives high wages.

N. B.—He will keep on hand a few sets of ready-made clothes, for the accommodation of such gentlemen, as may want them for immediate use.
