THE ALBION

IS PUBLISHED IN NEW YORK, BY JOHN S. BARTLETT, M. D.
Editor and Proprietor,
EVERY SATURDAY.
In the Quarto Form, on prime Imperial Paper, and forwarded South by that day's mail.
TERMS:—Six dollars per annum, or volume of sixty two numbers, payable in advance.
To the natives of Great Britain the Albion must recommend itself by furnishing news from home, it being composed chiefly of extracts from the most interesting English, Scotch and Irish papers of all parties, with editorial comments on the news of the week. The debates of both Houses of the British Parliament, always form a prominent feature of the Albion; and when of a great national interest, are given entire.
Columns are always set apart for Irish and Scottish news; for provincial occurrences, and for intelligence from all the foreign possessions of Great Britain.
A table of the packets sailing between New York, London, Liverpool and Havre, containing their names, masters, and days of sailing from each port, for the whole year, is also given.
To the literary and scientific, the Albion furnishes weekly, a selection of the most valuable articles, from the British periodical, and occasionally, extracts from the most approved works, issuing from the press.
It has been the constant aim of the conductors of the Albion, to avoid in engaging in party politics, and to make the selection of that diversified character, which will suit the taste of the general reader in every part of the globe.
Ladies will find in the Albion, every week, a selection of Poetry, from the best and most popular writers of the day; and occasionally, the melody of a new tune, as early as received; and to give this, the Editor has been compelled to relinquish a considerable advertising patronage, and rely solely on the subscriptions, for the support of the paper.
The leading articles of Bell's Weekly Messenger, which have for twenty years, given that paper such just celebrity, and generally copied entire; and a copious summary, composed of the little items of news, and on divis, so common and agreeable in the English Journals, is given in almost every paper. In fact, it is conceded, that no single weekly paper in England, contains the same quantity and variety of reading matter, as that now offered to your patronage; the object being to supply a cheap and valuable substitute for the Journals generally; and so successful has the plan proved, that the Albion already boasts of a circulation of near 2000 copies distributed almost exclusively among the better classes of society; and circulating in almost every part of the continent of North and South America, and the East and West Indies.
To enable the Editor faithfully to execute his department the following publications are regularly received at the office, by every packet:— London Courier, Morning Chronicle, Times, Herald, British Press, Atlas, Bell's Weekly Messenger, John Bull, Literary Gazette, Literary Chronicle, Quarterly and Edinburgh Review, Blackwood's Magazine, New Monthly, London, European, Sporting and other Magazines, with a copious supply of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Liverpool, and other provincial papers.
If Application may be made for subscription
