PRESIDENT HAYES.

We think there are good grounds for the belief that the inauguration of Mr. Haves will put an end to misrule and the danger of any such misgovernment in this State as has existed since reconstruction.

We think that the intelligent citizens are aware that the supporters of the president-elect during the last campaign while using the most strenuous efforts in behalf of their candidate, admitted that in the event of Mr. Hayes election a gen erous policy would be adopted towards Fouth Carelina, and that his administration would give the weight of Federa influence against the continuance in pow- dies hereby decide that the votes of Wim er of the plun lerers who have Li herto Pitt Kellogg, O. The northern supporters of Mr. Hayes honesty prevail and they desire their southern brethren to enjoy, the same blessings. They assure us that although in this State they have not been attainable in the past few years, the day for a new order of things has dawned. In a few weeks, the inaugural message and the formation of his cabinet will add confirmation to the views we have here advanced and a new era of peace and prosperity will be heralded by the entrance o Rutherford B. Haves into the White

The settlement of the presidential question must speedily lead to the solu tion of the gubnernatorial muddle in this State. Indeed, of such vital importance had a change for the better become to the people of this State, that the success of Mr. Tilden became a matter of secondary consideration to the Democrats within its limits and the securing an honest and efficient local government is still their great aim and end. It is impossible to come to any other conclusion than that they will attain what they have la bored for so hard.

Such enthusiastic devotion to a good cause we cannot believe will have been paid in vain, and the truimph of ingten's bir hday by the rifle clubs disright, decency, economy and good govern- banded by the President's order: ment will soon be so firmly established in South Carolina that the past ten years of anarcy, corruption and misru'e will seem like the disturbing fancies of a hideous dream.

Railroads to Port Royal,

During a discu-sion in the House of Repesentatives a few days ago on the subest of internal improvements Hon. W. S. Hammond appeared as the advocate of the Central Railroad. In speaking of the report of the Navai Committee that visited Port Royal a short time ago he

"This report is in consonance with all others, both of a public and private nature, in reference to the superior merits of Port Royal harbor.

It has remained neglected and una preciated for the sole reason of its limted connections with the grain-raising regions of the Mississippi Valley. It offers greater inducements and advanages as a shipping port than any port on the coast mentioned, and these must soon be duly appreciated. An attempt is now being made, with fair prospects of success, by a company chartered by the Legislature of South Carolina, to build docks, warehouses, and supply the port with shipring and transportation facilities on an extended scale. With may lead to very important results. The construction simultaneously of the projected United States Central Railway from Lake Michigan to this port, via and population to Port Royal. As soon as this railway is completed Port Royal will become an important port of entry and her commercial relations, with a'l parts of the world accessible to merchant and trading vesse's, will be established

The proposed railway will start at Chicago and run in an air-line direction to Indianapolis; thence to Lexington or Frankfort, Kentucky; thence to Cumberland Gap; thence in a southeast direction to Charleston and Port Royal, South Carolina. An attempt was made several years ago to build a similar road from Charleston, via Knoxville, Tennossee, to the West, with Cincinnati as its bjective point. South Carolina was then but little behind other States in the progressive spirit of the day, and sought to accomplish a great purpose of Giacomo Russi, the Austrain Consular Agent at Alexandria, has found a new cotton plant which is wonderfully prolific. He says that about two years ago he accidentally came across the new plant on the property of a captain in the Menatia District, who collected the seed and sold it to his neighborhood at twelve cents in gold, the price he could obtain for the ordinary kind. The plant has a ong stem, and being without branches. jan.11-tf. much space is saved. It lears an average of fifty pods on each bush, while the usual yield of the plant is about thirty. It yie'ds from 375 to 675 lbs per feddan thus doubling the crop. A smaller quan tity of seed is wanted, but the great drawback in Egypt is that it requires much more water, which necessitates the concentrating of crops with grain and vegetables. In the Sea Island districts of the Atlantic coast or along the lower Mississippi it would prove wonderfully

The soldiers of all arms are well clothed, the infantry and artillery are provided with sheepskins and good boots and each man has an extra pair of boots in his knapsack. The cavalry, however. feels the loss of its former excellent Polish officers, and lacks celerity of movement. On the whole, it is asserted that Russia never before has had so fine an army in line of battle, and that provisions and munitions of war are in good supply.
