Those Of Our Own Household

The declaration of Jesus the Christ that "a man's foes shall be they of his own household" was strikingly exhibited in two instances in connection with the primary here Tuesday.

In the first place, the self-styled "Dr." A. L. Peterson, pastor of Ebenezer Baptist church here and of Storm Branch Baptist church in Aiken county, distributed marked ballots all day Tuesday at Ward Nine, promoting the candidacy of S. Rhea Haskell and A. Fletcher Spigner, men who had made unprovoked attacks on NAACP, such attacks being well-known to Peterson.

Peterson unmistakably a Negro, who would have it believed by his hoodwinked fellowers that he is thoroughly civic-minded and working "for my race", and who is kept clothed and fattened by Negroes, condescended to work diligently as he misled unsuspecting voters to cast their ballots for men who had maliciously attacked the organization that has done more for South Carolina than any other organization save the church. We are prepared to defend that statement.

Peterson's strong support of a third candidate was fully excusable for without the help of that candidate, he might have been behind bars for a long time, if not until now Peterson's denial of assistance to the latter candidate would have stamped him an ingrate, something no rational man respects.

The support of direct enemies of his people places Peterson in the position of an enemy of his people a "foe of his own household." It is a pity that every one of his congregations does not have the foresight to stop shouting and singing, long enough to put him out of their churches and either let him starve or go and starve with his "Good white fokes" from election to election.

Peterson is an enemy to his children and grandchildren, and to every black child in South Carolina. He has placed himself in the position of an election day culture sniffer around for a few dollars for the birthright of his people.

It would not be so upsetting if Peterson were the only man of the cloth in Columbia who is guilty of such cheap, cunning and buffoonery. There is still another who talks out of both sides of his mouth as a "great race man" but boasts unashamedly that five and ten dollar bills feel so good to his hands on election day. It is hard to keep from pulling the cover off of such a cheap, grand rascal so that everyone can view his stark naked dishonesty.

The Voice Of Jacob

John H. McCray, South Carolina "roving reporter" and editor of the South Carolina edition of the Afro, so long renowned for his salient fight for Negro people, as editor of the Lighthouse and Informer, signed on Tuesday the distribution of "how to vote" ballots supporting the candidacy of S. Rhea Haskell, known for his malicious attacks on the NAACP, and scratching the name of H. D. Monteith, only Negro democrat candidate for a seat in the state legislature for several generations.

Haskell, who sought the Negro vote at the same time that he openly and repeatedly attacked the NAACP, was assured an election about a year ago by the support of the Negro electorate.

The ballots, delivered to McCray at Ward Nine by Nordert A. Theodor, Columbia attorney and former CPA executive were immediately put into distribution by McCray himself.

Negroes throughout South Carolina will find it hard to explain such behavior on the part of John H. McCray whom they have loved as a brother and supported and admired as a father. But like poor old Blind Isaac, if they follow the dead end down they will find that "The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau."

Hail! A New Governor!

Now, that a memorable June 8 is over and the tumult and shouting that stunk up the air have ceased, we can return to the normal routine of working for the best for the Palmetto State.

The Apostle Paul said that many can run a race, but only one can win. The spectators applaud the winner.

Whatever the designs and desires of Mr. Timmerman's constituency, it is our hope that he will strain every nerve to give South Carolina an illustrious administration of which no man can be ashamed with all the dross and bitterness cast aside and his eyes toward the shining light that will illumine his way to his duty as God would have him see it - a duty to mankind, the children of God.

Mr. Timmerman Blows A Fuse

George Bell Timmerman Jr., governor-elect of South Carolina, seasons every possible situation, it seems, with his burning desire to transplant and utilize a Negro's brain in the effort to say what the Negro thinks, wants, and needs.

As Timmerman attributes the decreased vote in Columbia's Ward Nine to the declining popularity of NAACP since "separate but equal" he was disqualified,

Whatever Mr. Timmerman's designs to circumvent the U. S. Supreme Court decision on school segregation, whatever his tendency to enter into a conspiracy against the laws of the United States so as to deprive little children of a sense of belonging and a wholesome conception of their God through the Godlike behavior of their fellowmen - even their Governor, let him beware, for

"Now I say unto you: Refrain from these men, and let them alone; for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to nought;

But if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God.

just how does he justify the shockingly marked decrease of voting throughout the State?

It would seem that the type of campaign employed would have greatly increased rather than markedly decreased the turnout at the polls.

The low voter turnout could be interpreted as evidence that South Carolina is gored on the type of belly-wash

"The Answer Of The Supreme Court"

Humility Is Not Old Fashioned

By Rev. Lawrence J. Riley

ON A MOUNTAIN SIDE in Galilee, Christ answered a modern problem. "Blessed are the poor in spirit." It was not a panegyric of pauperism. Rather, it was a castigation of pride and a canonization of humility. The fundamental viciousness of pride lies in the fact that the proud man makes himself his first beginning and his last end. He refuses to acknowledge his dependence upon God. He enshrines himself as an idol to be venerated, and burns before himself the incense of worship.

THE PROUD MAN attributes to himself his talents and his endowments. In his self-sufficiency and conceit, he cries out, "I will live my own life." This is but a discordant echoing of Lucifer's blasphemy, "I will not serve."

Modern man so often disregards God, and doubts God, and denies God, and rejects God because he dreams of substituting himself for God. This pride is decaying, modern society. By placing his trust solely in the things of time, by feeding upon material husks a man starves his spiritual nature. And so he becomes more and more unlike God. He stains and defiles the image of God within himself.

WE KNOW THAT GOD does not simply desert the proud, or forsake the proud, or abandon the proud. Rather, as Holy Scripture says, "God resists the proud." For, "I am the Lord, this is My name; I will not give My glory to another." "Opposed to pride is humility. Humility is not weakness and falsehood, but power and truth. It is not self-abasement, but rather self-forgetfulness. It is not prying into our souls to analyze how mean we are, but rather a gazing upon God to discover how Divine-like we can become.

MANY CONSIDER humility to be cowardice and timidity - the instability of pallid and colorless personalities. Yet, if all the virtues practiced by Jesus Christ, the one He singled out for our imitation was humility. "Learn of me, for I am meek and humble of heart."

For the individual and for society there is but one hope - return to God. And strangely enough what God promises is this, that if a man serves Him in humility of heart and poverty of spirit he will become like God. As St. Peter said, "He has granted us the very best and precious promises so that though they may become more precious to us, they are not precious to Him. He is not

SEPARATE AND EQUAL?

The "separate but equal" system of education in the state of South Carolina is being challenged by the Federal Government in a suit filed in the U. S. District Court at Columbia, S. C. The suit is brought by the NAACP and is aimed at the state's public schools. The NAACP claims that the state's public schools are segregated and that the "separate but equal" doctrine is being used to justify this segregation. The suit seeks to have the state's public schools declared unconstitutional and to have the state ordered to desegregate its schools.

The Federal Government is bringing this suit because it believes that the state's public schools are segregated and that the "separate but equal" doctrine is being used to justify this segregation. The suit seeks to have the state's public schools declared unconstitutional and to have the state ordered to desegregate its schools.

CONGRATS, TRUSTEES

Congratulations to the men and women who were elected last week to the boards of trustees of the public schools in the state of South Carolina. These men and women are to be commended for their courage and wisdom in accepting this responsibility. They are the ones who will be responsible for the future of our state's education.

These men and women are to be commended for their courage and wisdom in accepting this responsibility. They are the ones who will be responsible for the future of our state's education.

THE CHIPS ARE DOWN

The chips are down for the NAACP in the state of South Carolina. The NAACP has lost its bid to have the state's public schools declared unconstitutional. This is a major setback for the NAACP and a victory for the state's public schools.

WISDOM

By Dr. Thomas R. Gaines. To make all things work together for good should be a self-imposed task. It is not the business of life to hold us or to inspire us. That is our own special job. To work, think, serve and love so effectively that actually all things favor us, is true perfection of living. The sincere desire to bring the light of truth into the mind of every person you meet is the most beautiful of all human desires. That alone will actually make all things work together for good.

GLOBAL JOTTINGS

By Ruby Tennyson. NEW YORK, (GLOBAL) - St. Louis, Missouri missed Pearl Schwartz White last week-end when she spent the time here in New York with her sister, Lou LaTour, and her cousins, Rosa and Rosa Mae Johnson, who are visiting here from St. Paul, Minnesota.

ed for the season on Memorial Day with its most charming hostess, Mrs. Alida C. Daily making everything pleasant for her guests. Take a little time and go see the place for yourself. It is at 375 Atlantic Avenue in Long Branch, and a truly lovely vacation spot.

Harlem is contest conscious. John Young is handling a "Miss Harlem" contest for the Elks, and Bill Keno is working with a group to find a "Miss Trans-Sit". Harlem, apparently, is also beauty conscious. Donald "Don" Johnson took time out from his studies to run up to his home town in St. Paul, Minnesota to catch up on news. Don is studying to be a veterinarian in Jefferson City, Mo.

More than 700,000 turned out to see Haile Selassie when he went through Harlem during his visit here. Many Harlemites complained however, that after standing around for hours, they whizzed the Emperor through Harlem so fast, (and in a closed car at that) that they didn't even get a look at the Lion of Judah. It was too bad, too, because many of the people had camped out on the streets and brought their lunches, sitting around for hours in the hot sun, just to get a look at him.

GETTING ALONG

By Lauren White. NEW YORK, (GLOBAL) - Emperor Haile Selassie came to our country on May 25th aboard the liner SS United States. This ship is the newest and most modern ever built by this great nation. However its claim to fame is its service to the passengers.

age aboard. The path was swept again before Haile Selassie and the party were allowed to go to their suite. After the royal party was aboard every effort was extended to make them comfortable.

I have talked to many passengers who have crossed the Atlantic on the SS United States and all of them have highly praised the latest addition to our Atlantic fleet. Whether you travel tourist, cabin, or first class you can be assured of service deluxe. Even those traveling tourist have only to press one of the conveniently located buttons in their rooms to have a steward at their side in a matter of seconds. Whether it is to bring food, move luggage, open a bag, or give information the steward is always on call. Every passenger is given every possible attention.

Like most modern liners the SS United States afforded motion picture theatres, recreation centers, swimming pools, restaurants, and about every thing else including barber shops and beauty parlors. And beauty parlors bring me to the point of this release. Princess Sybel Desta, granddaughter of the Emperor, decided she wanted her hair fixed American style and expressed her wish. Now there were beauty parlors on ship but whether they were prepared to properly care for Princess Sybel Desta's hair is another thing. Could the great SS United States with its service deluxe for a all allow Princess Desta's coiffure be uncared for? Oh no! The crew knew exactly what to do. On board were two expert colored beauticians, Mrs. Elosia McClain of Kansas City, Kansas and Mrs. Evelyn Allen of Chicago. They had with them every conceivable device to care for every conceivable type of hair. So, while Mrs. McClain did the princess' hair, Mrs. Allen cared for her nails.

Since infinite care is taken to please the most humble passenger you can imagine the consideration shown the great. They are surfeited. According to my informant, before the Emperor came aboard the entire crew was utterly as new boots at inspection time. All over the ship were whispers "The king is coming aboard."

Princess Sybel Desta entered New York with the latest American hair-do and an expert manicure. The SS United States can still boast of service for all.

CHARM

By Lou LuTour. NEW YORK, (GLOBAL) - May we pass on a piece of good advice from the "Homemaker's Dispatch" of Cornell University College of Agriculture:

self soldier-straight in front of those revealing three-way mirrors, and didn't find out how the dress would look in action. Try pulling that chair in the fitting room up to the mirror and setting down before it. Does the skirt hug your knees in an unbecoming manner? Does the shoulder line slip to one side? Does the front of the dress bag? If so the dress isn't for you.

Often you will buy a dress that looked wonderful in the fitting room mirror, and then find out at home that it really doesn't fit too well. This is probably because you held your-

Walk around the room in the dress - does it let you walk comfortably or do you hobble? - If your dress can pass this "action" test, you'll be able to wear it in comfort.
