CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.—There will be no day trains on Sundays hereafter, but the night trains will be substituted instead.

—An unsuccessful effort was made, as it is supposed, to burn the new dwelling house of Mr. J. W. Patrick on [illegible] built by some one [illegible] which formerly [illegible] but will now [illegible] settling [illegible]

—A debating club was organized at Fort Motte on Oct. 15th. The question, "Be it resolved that women should have the right to vote," was ably discussed by S. L. Duncan, chief on the affirmative, and Geo. W. Brown, chief on the negative, followed by other disputants. By a vote of the society the question was decided in favor of the affirmative.

—A boy about sixteen years old, who was stealing a ride on the cars, was severely injured on Thursday night at the depot. He was riding upon the bumper between the freight cars and fell upon the track. As the cars were running very slowly he was rolled off the track without the wheels passing over his legs, but one of them was fearfully lacerated. He is now at the poor house and doing as well as could be expected.

—An old employee of the S. C. R. R., named Robert Winter, was killed by the cars at Jamison's last Monday night. A bottle of whiskey, near where the body was found, indicated that Winter had been drinking and probably had laid down on the track to sleep off his drunken stupor. The body was fearfully mangled. Thomas Vaughn, section master at Jamisons has the effects of the deceased in his possession.

THE FAIR.—It was very generally known that the present week was to be the great exhibition of our county Agricultural and Mechanical Association. This, with other exhibitions too numerous to mention, has made the present week one of unusual interest in our thriving burg. The committe deserve great credit for the excellent arrangement made for the exhibition of the association, and the people for their energy and industry under difficulties in contributing such a pleasing and excellent variety in all departments. No one would infer on attending this exhibition our county had been [illegible] terous drought during the past summer. We never saw finer potatoes, corn, wheat, rice and cotton than were [illegible] ladies, especially [illegible] display. Busy hands guided by skill and care, gave us a fine showing of the useful and ornamental. Life's necessities, comforts and luxuries had all been duly considered, and wonderfully supplied by woman's taste and woman's work. Taking the collection as a whole, there were blended in this exhibition more that grows by careful culture and is manufactured by skillful labor, than any one could have reasonably anticipated under the circumstances in which these contributions have been placed.

We were glad to notice the great improvement in stock, compared with the exhibition of last year. There was such a showing of swine, sheep and cattle as to indicate that the improvement in blooded stock had not been entirely overlooked. It indicated, however, but slightly, what is possible with the facilities within the reach of our farmers here for stock raising.

We hope this valuable association will take courage from the success they have already achieved in this good work. Skilled labor is what is greatly needed to develop our ample resources. Such innocent competition as is here encouraged will have a tendency to produce this. Our agricultural products and cherished industries must be thrown out of the old ruts in which they have so long been suffered to wear the beaten track. We can, to a great extent, raise and make what we need, and have something to spare for the rest of mankind. As we have the means of being so extensively independent

—The match game at the Fair for the championship of the county, resulted in favor of the Oranges, to whom has been awarded the diploma. Their opponents were styled the "Favorites" and were composed of a picked nine from Orangeburg, Branchville and Fort Motte, but the Oranges were either the favorites of fortune, or, which is more probable, their superior playing won the game in defiance of the smiles of the fickle goddess. The following was the score:
