BIENNIAL SESSION.
 We note with interest the remarks of our contemporary, The State, as to the recent vote for, or against biennial sessions of the Legislature. Our position on this matter is fairly well known. We have made the editorial remarks in our paper that the chief advantage of having biennial sessions consisted in the fact that the legal fraternity would through the medium of this innovation secure a period of eighteen months in which to learn the law, instead of, as now, six months. The question of the possible saving of money did not enter into our calculations at all.

We think that the writer of the editorial in The State has gone off half-cocked in his deductions on the effects of the biennial session amendment. Ordinary calculation will teach any man of ordinary intelligence that a Governor elected in the election of 1906 must be inaugurated at the ensuing session of the Legislature. This would ordinarily cause some confusion, but in this case it happens that the Governor has the power to call an extra session for the purpose of inaugurating officers. This will have all the force and effect of action at a regular session, and the expense attached to it will be too small to mention. These remarks refer to Article 4, Section 2 of the Constitution, which provides for the election of Governor. The following is the section referred to:

He shall be installed during the first session of the general assembly after his election on such day as shall be provided by law. The other State officers-elect shall at the same time enter upon the performance of their duties.

Merely casual reading of this section of the constitution will convince anyone that it does not specify a regular session of the General Assembly, so it stands to reason that the Governor is vested with full power to call a special session for any specific purpose.

The other salient features in the State editorial referred to bear directly upon the same subject, and can be dealt with in the same manner. It is well for an editor to give a little thought to the subject he wants to discuss before assuring his readers that this will be, or that that will not be.

THE AARON WILLIAMS CASE.
 We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. W. C. Cauthen, Treasurer of Lancaster County on the Aaron Williams case accompanied with request to publish. While we are always ready, and almost too ready to oblige any of our friends, whether subscribers or not, we cannot bring ourselves to the point of publishing anything that goes directly against our opinion or knowledge of the facts concerned in any communication sent to us.

In this instance, it happens that our information, derived from various sources, directly combats the remarks of Mr. Cauthen. No man living would sooner resent a slander on a woman than would we, but as we profess to possess a level head and a certain degree of cool judgement, we must also confess to the entertaining of a grave doubt as to the guilt of Aaron Williams. This doubt in our minds we expressed in person to Gov. Heyward on Wednesday of Fair week, and secured his direct promise to let us hear from him by Friday morning following. It may, or may not be needless to say that we did not hear from him on Friday morning. Instead, we received a letter from Secretary Norment on Saturday night, in which he remarked that "replying to your telegram of 28th inst, I beg to state that Governor Heyward has no statement to make in the Aaron Williams case. It struck us as rather peculiar that Mr. Norment did not say "By direction of Governor Heyward, I beg to inform you that he has no statement to make, &c., &c." Concerning Mr. Coffey's letter, we can only excuse it on the ground that the gentlemen did not quite know what he was talking about. We have been in the same boat, and naturally have a fellow feeling.

We want to say in conclusion, that the publication of any matter of this character is extremely distasteful, but when it is brought directly up to us, we will not shrink the issue.

To Cure a Cough.
 The coughs so prevalent these days usually develop before you realize what has happened. Note the best thing to do is to take the most reliable cough cure you can get. Some better than Murray's Horehound Mullen and Bar. It is made of the purest ingredients and can be given to infants as well as grown people. Above all else IF CURABLE, you will find it at all druggists. See a bottle—extra large bottle.

Wanted Quick.
 Two Printers of approved capacity wanted quick at this point. One A Job Printer who knows his business, and both Good compositors. Moderate wages paid at the beginning, with advance, or raise given as the occasion warrants. Address, W. A. Schrock, Pub'r. Camden, S. C.

Our exchanges will please copy the above. We will reciprocate.

An Old Time Remedy.
 Murray's Horehound Mullen and Bar. It is a combination of the best of all cough cures. It is a most reliable cure and all cases of coughs, croup, whooping cough, etc., are cured by it. It is a most reliable cure and all cases of coughs, croup, whooping cough, etc., are cured by it. It is a most reliable cure and all cases of coughs, croup, whooping cough, etc., are cured by it.

Camden Historical Society.
 In spite of the unjust request for all members to attend the Historical Association meeting at the High School on Monday night Nov. 7th, or to send a written proxy, only fifteen members responded to what developed into one of the most interesting meetings ever held. The President, Mr. Kirkland called the meeting to order and the minutes of the last assemblage were read and approved.

The Programme was then carried out. Mr. Shannon read a most interesting account of the few relics that the association has on hand and was followed by Miss Sadie Kennedy who has been assigned the task of collecting a list of such relics as are to be found in the community and the fact that almost a hundred were enumerated proves that no place in America is richer in historic interest than our old town.

Doctor Corbett then read a report on the old Cannon around Camden and their history and such renewed interest has generated by his able paper that a committee was appointed to investigate the chances of the Association for acquiring one or more of the cannon.

The election of members was the next business conducted and the association was glad to enroll Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ancrum and Mr. Bethea among its workers.

As a majority could not be attained the changes in the Constitution had to be foregone until the next meeting the 2nd Monday in December when a committee will be responsible for the written proxies of those members who can not or will not attend.

A programme was made out and the meeting adjourned.

Danger of a Cough.
 Pneumonia, grip, cold, bronchitis and nearly every other dangerous sickness of this kind is usually the development of a slight cough. For many people are usually laid up and too many die from disease while they could so easily knock that first cough in the head. Murray's Horehound Mullen and Bar cures colds, croup, whooping cough, etc. Every druggist has it for you. Remember "Murray's" and no other. See our ad. size.
