OF THE Southern Literary Messenger.

T. W. WHITE, Editor and Proprietor.

This is a monthly Magazine, devoted chiefly to iterature, but occasionally finding room also for years old, in quarter pipes and barrels of 20 gallons; articles that fall within the scope of Science; and Holland Gin, superior quality; Claret of all qualities not professing an entire disdain of tasteful selections, not professi. g an entire disdain of tasteful selections, though its matter has been, as it will continue to be, in the main, original.

ble matter to which they adhere; but whenever that happens, they are incidental, only; not primary.—
They are dross, tolerated only because it cannot well be severed from the sterlidg ore wherewith it is incorporated.

Reviews, and Critical Notices, occupy thair due spree in the work: and it is the t ditor's aim that they should have a threefold tendency-to convey, in a condensed form, such valuable truths or interesting incidents as are embedied in the works reter, has been made against us by Powel that deserve to be read,—and-to warn him against wast ng tine and money upon that large number, wasting the c and morey upon that large number, which merit only to be burned. In this age, of publications that by their variety and a unitude, distract and overwhelm every undiscri inating student, impartial criticism, governed by the views just mentioned, it is one of the most inestinable and indispensable of auxilliaries, to him who does wish to iscriminate.

Essays, and Tales, having in view utility or amusement, or both Historical Sketches-and Reminiscences of events too minute for History, yet "God pity those who have no shelter for elucidating it, and heightening its interest,—may be regarded as forming the staple of the work. And of indigenous Peetry, enough is published—some-times of no mean strain—to manifest and to cultivate the growing poetical taste and taients of our pity shown to the houseless man."
