Most men act as if they value time

The certainty of punishment is the best assurance against the commission of crime.

This county is just now in position to go forward with greater stride than it ever has in its history. It is the equal of any in the enterprise of its people, once they understand what is in view.

Even in the hardest times this country ever saw since the civil war a portion of the people have been wasteful. This war will teach a lesson to all such if they will but learn it.

Germany's hope was that the United States was unprepared for war and therefore not to be feared. They forgot that we knew how to get ready and in the quickest time known in history. Uncle Sam is due to be there, and when he gets there, it will be on to Berlin.

When the United States is plunged into the world conflict, it is the time when men must cast aside spite and ill will engendered by past politics and fight in the common cause against the common foe. The American people are practically unified now in this and they will remain so.

Now is the time when a man will show whether he is really a good citizen or not. If he joins the movements put forward by the patriotic majority of the American people to help the Government win this war, he shows that he is a true American and a good citizen of America. If he acts indifferently, he proves that he is not fit to live in this great free country.

The small element in this country made some signs at the beginning of what they meant to do against the efforts of America to prosecute this war. It was only a short time before their noise became noticeably smaller, and now they hardly make a noise at all. This proves that the people of the United States are together almost as one man to stand behind our great government in this conflict of freedom against one man rule.

Every day you hear the question asked as to how long the war will last. Realize the fact that we have to contend with a country ruled by one man, an autocrat, and wherein nothing was done for many years but to prepare for world domination. The Germans were prepared and will hold out a long time, and it is useless to hope that the war will speedily come to an end. It cannot end quickly in the nature of things. While it is fully believed, and while there is strong evidence for such belief, that Germany is weakening day by day as the war goes on; yet her armies are not defeated and it will take large sums of money, hard work, and human lives to accomplish that result.

ARMY "Y" BIG AID TO SOLDIERS

(Above) Boys write letters and enjoy refreshments from Y. M. C. A. tent during rest period on practice hike.
(Below) Standard War Work building; 450 constructed or authorized.

"It's always on the job."

That's what the soldiers and sailors of Uncle Sam say about the War Work of the Y. M. C. A.

Athletics are organized, recreational games are fostered, educational classes are maintained, social times are arranged with entertainers and moving pictures, Bible classes are conducted and a strong program of religious work developed.

Building 198 at Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C., was crowded the night Dr. G. R. Starr gave his famous sermon on "The Potter's Clay." The invitation had been given and men were signing the War Roll and were being presented with the customary soldiers' pocket Testament. One young man approached by Physical Director Arthur E. Bagley upon the question of making a decision, responded affirmatively at once. When the Testament was handed to him he said: "I am doing something for you that I refused to do for my mother. When I left home in Idaho a month ago, she asked me to take a pocket Testament with me, but I thought it was no part of a soldier's life. This old Y. M. C. A. has surely made me change my mind. I'm going to sit down and write to her not to worry any more."

To keep up this work in America, to follow the soldiers and sailors across the seas and to extend the same services to our allies, the Y. M. C. A. is conducting a great nationwide campaign for $35,000,000 from November 11 to 19. The states of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, North and South Carolina and Tennessee have been asked to contribute $1,500,000 of this. Checks may be sent to the local committee or to C. K. Calhoun, Department Campaign Director, at Atlanta, Ga.

"Say," bawled the drill sergeant, "what do you think you are trying to do to that dummy?"

"I'm trying to stick my bayonet into it," answered the frightened recruit.

"Well, don't tickle it. Put some snap into your work. Act as if you were about to spear a sausage with a fork on a cold morning when your appetite's good."

New York.—Tammany Hall returned to power as the result of yesterday's majority reelection. Not only was Judge John F. Those elected with Judge Hyland were Charles L. Craig, controller; Alfred E. Smith, president of the board of aldermen, and the presidents of the five boroughs of the city.

"ARE YOU FIT TO DO YOUR BIT?"

If you are fit

To do your bit—

You must do it!

Don't sit

Waiting for the war to quit—

But get your kit

And do your bit.

If you are incapacitated

Or otherwise emaciated—

If you really are unfit,

You still have chance to do your bit

Make the hoe your gun,

Hoe the roe as you can run,

And to every mother's son

You will prove you're not a Hun.

If you find you can not arm,

And you find you can not farm—

Don't idle 'round the town,

Be a wheel and roll around—

Try your hand at knitting socks,

Or get a mule and haul rocks—

Any thing, if it's a bit

Will prove you not a misfit.

If a Liberty Bond you could not buy

(Worry not—neither could I)

But if you're worth a tinker's damn

You'll heed the call of Uncle Sam—

You'll shoulder a gun and run the Hun

In his hole beyond Belgium—

You'll free the seas of German fleas

And sustain Old Glory in Liberty's breeze.

AMERICAN MISSION

LANDS IN ENGLAND

Washington.—An American girl landed in England today on the eve of the opening of the first great war conference in which the United States will participate. Ed. Edward M. House, President Wilson's personal friend and adviser is the official designated representative of the United States. He is accompanied by a staff representing every war agency in the United States, including Admiral Benson, chief of naval operations, and General Bliss, chief of staff of the army.

Announcement by Secretary Lansing tonight of the arrival of the party "at a British port" released American newspapers from a pledge of silence as to the personnel of the mission and its movements. The departure of this group of the most distinguished men in the government's war councils was a carefully guarded secret until they were safely through the submarine zone. Even many army and navy officials were not aware that their chiefs had sailed.

Only War Conference.

In a statement accompanying his announcement Secretary Lansing emphasized that this gathering is to be a war conference and nothing else, charged with mapping out a plan of campaign against Germany to "bring the conflict to a speedy and satisfactory end."
