THE PEOPLE PROTEST

The snowing under of the bridge act, passed at the last session of the General Assembly, providing for the building of three bridges at important points in this county, has worried the minds of many men and women who have wanted to see the development and improvements continued in that way. They thought that the people would vote for the issue of these bonds.

The people would not vote to issue the bonds and the reasons are not very far to find. With money already secured for the building of road from Conway to Port Harrelson the location of that road was managed in such a way that great dissatisfaction was expressed and threats were made then that the bond issue would be fought.

First there was the Greenwood route. This proposal to go by way of Greenwood was held out for a time and then withdrawn and this took place in such a manner that the people of the Greenwood section of Busks township openly stated that the Greenwood route was opposed at first only for the purpose of a blind to conceal the real intention as to the location in Conway over fourth avenue instead of third avenue where it would do the town the most good.

After a time when the Greenwood route was abandoned and it came down to the location in Conway, the wishes and intentions of the boards having this matter in hand whipped about from the sand ridge where it was first surveyed in a crooked line, down to the very edge of the swamps where heavy expense was undergone to finally put the road there. This was noticed by the people and they saw and understood at last that the road would be located so as to favor private interests the most instead of trying to do the most good to the greatest number of the people who pay the taxes.

Here are some reasons then for the failure of the people to vote for the issuing of bonds to build three bridges that would have done a whole lot of good in the county. The people cannot be kept in the dark all the time. They often resist and in confidence while great moves are being made by those in authority, and then at the last minute rise in their might and say the word that stops it all.

With different management of the national highway project the people would have voted for the issuing of the bonds and the progress of Horry would not have been held back as it is being held back. There is the wrong way and the right way to go about the location of a road. In this case the wrong way was chosen and the people found it out. They protested by means of their vote cast on August 29th.

Now let this be a warning to those who would carry things their way regardless of the rights of others in the matter.

HORRY HERALDING

One man's success always brings a crop of others who want to try to do the same thing.

You can make men believe almost anything in cases where they are not well informed.

Take a man who has robbed his neighbor and gone to the pen. Pardon him and he does the same thing over again.

One of the things that astonished well informed people was the belief in the minds of some of the qualified voters that a Governor can reduce taxes.

In the course of the next five years the boll weevil will be about forgotten in the enjoyment of new prosperity that will have come to this section by diversified farming.

Meanness is mixed up in some way in the very nature of some people, and they cannot live without practicing it so long as they think they cannot be caught.

Good management on the part of the men who have the control of the Tobacco Marketing Association, will bring it to success by the time another tobacco season has come around.

It has been said that competition is the life of trade. It is indeed so in the case of unimportant things. In larger matters the word now used is cooperation, and not competition.

The attention and skill given to a tobacco crop in the planting, the cultivating, the harvesting and then marketing varies in proportion to the ability and experience of the men who are raising the tobacco crops. On this depends the price received for the crop.

You may talk about showing mercy to murderers and rapists, but to pardon them means to turn them out for them to commit the same crimes over again. The condition which caused them to do a criminal act the first time will cause them to do the same things again and the rest of the people are the sufferers.

There is one thing certain, and that is, that the better class of the people do not wish to live in the midst of murderers and thieves; and it is for that reason that the law has provided a place for safe keeping of convicts. There are many arguments to show that men are not responsible for the criminal acts they commit but that their acts are produced by some diseased condition that could be remedied. That may indeed be so, but still there must be a place to keep them away from the rest of society.

WASHINGTON COMMENT

"A General Strike!" Do you remember grown-up-man-who-reads-this, when you climbed up the long, long stairs to the dark and mysterious attic? And the other, older children, told you to watch out for the "bogy man?" And you jumped and shivered and shook with terrified delight?

There wasn't any "bogy" man really. It was just a dear figment of childish imagination.

Nor is there any real grown-up "bogy man," not even when he masquerades by the name of "General Strike." There are those hot-headed and under-educated members of society who would like to frighten the rest of us with his name. But they forget, these agitators, that this is America, where all have some, and many have much opportunity to learn; where standards of living are high; where men are safe and secure in their homes; where each man's house is his castle, and each man's wife and children his to protect and love and keep, and never a man or a Government to say him nay.

The American—the true, red blooded, patriotic, flag-loving, land-loving, home-loving American—can no more be led into making himself a part of a Bolshevik bogey man than he can be led into mass murder for the establishment of a soviet, a la Russia.

The indignation, the revolt, the emphatic negatives to talk of a general strike, came first of all from American workmen, who are Americans first, and members of a union, sect, order, or organization only after they have expressed their Americanism and their belief in, and adherence to, American principles and the American Government.

Our childish tormentors could never produce their "bogy man." As long as Americans are Americans first, no agitator can produce the General Strike!—Contributed.

THE HAT YOU WEAR

The relationship between a woman's hat and her face is often thought of as identical with the relationship between a frame and a picture. There are two reasons for this. First, the frame and the hat are considered for their real usefulness, and second, for the proper emphasis which they place upon points of special interest.

NEW PUBLICATIONS

Clemson College.—Four little publications of timely interest just issued by the Extension Service, of Clemson College, two on feeding dairy animals and two on crop rotations, are ready for distribution to those who desire them. These are Information Card 23, "Feeding Dairy Cattle;" Information Card-24, "Feeding Dairy Calves;" Extension Circular 39, "Crop Rotations for Piedmont Counties," and Extension Circular 40, "Crop Rotations for Eastern and Southern Counties."

The Information Cards are intended as practical feeding guides and contain each sixteen general suggestions, besides recommended rations for calves and cows. They should be of special benefit to farmers who are new in the dairy industry, which is making such rapid gains in this State.

The rotation circulars are published in the interest of the present cover crop and soil building campaign being conducted by the Extension Service. Circular 39 contains crop rotations for the upper Piedmont counties, including Oconee, Pickens, Greenville, Spartanburg, Cherokee, and York, and for the lower Piedmont counties, including Anderson, Abbeville, McCormick, Greenwood, Laurens, Newberry, Fairfield, Chester, Union, northern Lancaster, upper Lexington, Saluda, and Edgefield. Circular 40 contains rotations suggested for the Pee Dee counties, including Sumter, Lee, Darlington, Marlboro, Dillon, Florence, Clarendon, Williamsburg, Marion, Horry, and Georgetown, for the Sand Hill counties, including Kershaw, Chesterfield, lower Lancaster, Richland, Lexington, and Aiken, and for the southern counties, including Calhoun, Orangeburg, Barnwell, Allendale, Bamberg, Dorchester, Colleton, Hampton, Jasper, Beaufort, Charleston and Berkeley.

Copies of these publications may be had from county agents or from the Extension Service, Clemson College, South Carolina.

REQUIREMENTS FOR STATE AID

censed (certified) teacher or teachers, eight mill levy, at least 25 enrollment, not over 50, average attendance nor less than 15 for each month per teacher, and a term of seven months.

It is the policy of the County Board this year to recommend no permits whatever, until all certificated teachers are placed. That is to say, if there are enough licensed teachers to supply the schools of the County, no application will be recommended for a permit. The permit law is only intended to take care of an emergency situation when there is a shortage of teachers. Therefore, all prospective teachers who desire to teach this year and who do not now have certificate are urged to take the teacher's examination in October.

All those who teach, or commence to teach, without a certificate do so at the risk of getting no pay for their work. And all trustees who employ those to teach who have no certificates may cause their schools to lose State aid. This is true because certificated teachers are strict requirements of the State equalizing law.

Trustees are requested to please revise the list of children in their districts. A complete new list must be made on the cards mailed to you, and this may be done by copying the names from the old cards, or the list of last year, and making all necessary changes, by adding to or striking out, caused by the moving in or out of the district of pupils, and other changes caused by new pupils arriving at the school, age, etc. Remember that a complete list on new cards is necessary.

It is hoped that every Board of Trustees will co-operate with their teachers in the organization of a live, active and permanent School Improvement Association. Every School in the County should organize at once. There should be at least twelve meetings in the year, one in each month. This will entitle the Association to a Five Dollar prize Also, Forty Dollar prizes are offered to a limited number of such Associations which make certain improvements for their schools. Two forty dollar prizes were awarded last year.

Any school in Horry County desiring a term of adult or night school this year, will please make application to my office at once, or as soon as practicable, and have the application signed by teachers, trustees and as many patrons as possible.

tees and as many patrons as possible.

You are asked to remember that the compulsory school attendance law must be advertised for 30 days before going into effect. Please bear this in mind that there may be no misunderstanding.

I also desire to remind teachers of the necessity of regular schedules and of their complete record on daily program blanks, and that two copies of these program blanks be filled out. The blanks will be mailed out within the next few days.

If there is anything that you do not understand about these matters, or if I can serve you in any way, do not hesitate to write or call to see me.

Let us all work together and make this the best school year our County has ever had.

Yours respectfully,
ENOCH C. ALLEN,
County Superintendent of Education.

COUNTY BOARD RECOMMENDATIONS

The State Board of Education has changed the text books for the schools of the State. This change effects 48 per cent of the books used in schools all over the State.

In making the change the State Board of Education adopted a basal text and in most cases, an optional basal, leaving the County Board of Education to choose whether the basal texts or the optional basal texts shall be used in the schools of Horry County.

The County Board has adopted the basal all the way through in preference of the optional basal, except in the matter of the third, fourth and fifth grades the optional basal is taken instead of the basal.

The new school Register has the list of books adopted by the State Board printed in the back. Just remember that the basal is the one in every case except that the optional in language is to be used and not the basal. The Live Language lessons are used in the third, fourth and fifth grades.

TAX EXTENSION AGAIN GRANTED

Walter E. Duncan, the comptroller general, yesterday extended the time for the payment of 1921 state and county taxes from September 15 to October 1st. The extension was approved by the governor and orders were sent out to all the counties this morning.

Recently the comptroller general extended the time from September 1 to September 15th, and the last extension has been so great that Mr. Duncan decided to make October 1st the date rather than September 15th.

The extension effects executions largely, the time for the payment of taxes having expired June 1st. Executions will go in the hands of the sheriffs on the morning of October 1st under the new extension, Mr. Duncan said yesterday.

No further time will be granted, the comptroller general declared. Mr. Duncan said he had received many letters and telegrams from all sections of the state urging him to grant more time on account of the slowness in moving the crops of the state. He said he hoped the people would take advantage of this 15 days as it will be impossible to make further extension.

LESS CORN

According to report of the Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture, the production of corn in South Carolina will be about 600,000 bushels less than last year, while the production for the entire United States will be approximately 100,000,000 bushels less than in 1921.
