

SUING GERRALD ON A CONTRACT

Last week another suit for injunction and damages was brought in this county by the Tri-State Tobacco Co-operative Marketing Association against P. A. (Patrick) Gerrald, alleging a breach of the cooperative marketing contract made by Gerrald with the association some time ago, and probably prior to the selling of the crop last season.

Last week the Herald contained an account of the first suit in this county brought against W. I. Hill. It appears that this suit against Gerrald is similar in all respects to the one filed against Hill.

The summons and other papers were served on Gerrald by the sheriff of Horry County on July 31st. His office was attending to the matter of his return and making entry of the summons on the sheriff's books.

The defendant, it is said, was much incensed when the papers were served on him in the case. It appears that word had gone out that he would violate the contract and this came to the knowledge of those who are looking after the members who breach the contract in this county. The papers served by the sheriff resulted.

When asked about the matter and his attitude regarding the contract, Mr. Gerrald said that he will go to jail before he will sell any more tobacco under the contract. He claims that misrepresentations were made to him to induce him to sign the contract by the representative or agent of the association. Mrs. Gerrald suggested to him at this juncture that he could put up his tobacco and keep it awaiting a decision of the case which the association has brought against him. Before he would do this he said that he would put it in the stalls and make fertilizer out of it. He did not mention anything about the five cents per pound damage provided for in the contract, nor the three hundred dollars attorney's fees which he says the papers demand to come out of him in the event of a termination of the action in favor of the association.

The defendant lives in Floyds township. He owns a total of between thirteen hundred and two thousand acres of land, making him easily the wealthiest land owner in the whole of Floyds township. He has been getting along well, owns many fertile acres, and runs many tenants on these lands.

Mr. Gerrald has been a very industrious and thrifty man. Unfortunately, about two years ago, he suffered a stroke of paralysis from which, however, he has partially recovered. His power to work and attend to the every day affairs of his large farms is not what it was before his illness.

He has a wife and large family of children. It could not be learned whether the defendant will engage lawyers to act in his defense, but judging by the way he talked about the suit, he will fight the case to the bitter end. He had intended, it appears to sell his entire crop on the auction floors. In view of the injunction served with the summons and complaint, he will have to make a change in his plans. He will doubtless either store his tobacco awaiting a decision by the courts or turn the leaves into fertilizer as he has threatened to do.

FINE FOUR ACRES

Noah Johnson sold tobacco on the Conway market last Thursday, bringing a part of his sandlugs from the four acre crop he planted this year.

He says that his crop this year has been as fine as he ever raised in all his long experience.

FIRST SALES

The sales made on the opening day of the season at the auction warehouses of Conway aggregated about fifty thousand pounds of leaf tobacco.

The average prices received for this, which consisted almost entirely of primings and sandlugs, was between sixteen and nineteen cents as the figures made up on last Thursday seemed to show.

The sales were going ahead last Thursday and on about the same basis.

HAS FINE CROP

I. A. Bell of Bayboro has five acres planted in tobacco this year and it is said that he has one of the finest crops he has ever produced.

It was reported last week that it was taking two sixteen foot barns to cure the tobacco as it was ripening rapidly and had to be gathered and cured to keep it from drying too much in the fields.

He thinks that he has produced at least eighteen hundred pounds of tobacco per acre this year.
