The making up of tax returns has grown to such an extent under new taxing systems that it is a real burden to any business man, or firm, where their interests are of any size.

Misses Irma Lewis, Ernestine Little, Mildred Collins, and Bessie Dusenbury returned from Myrtle Beach last Thursday after spending a week with Miss Gene Wood Norton.

Fred Laurence of Oglethorpe University, spent last week with his mother. He and Baylis Spivey left by automobile for Washington where they attended the Harding funeral. They are now in Hendersonville, N. C.

The Roberts Clothing Company of Tabor, N. C. last week had a big order for large posters filled at the Herald office. This lot of circulars will be used in the big sale they are putting on the latter part of August.

The opening of the tobacco season has brought increased business to this entire section of the State. You can see it in the stores, in the machine shops, in the business offices of the towns of Horry County.

An agent from the tax commission of South Carolina visited Conway last week for the purpose of checking up merchants stock returns in Conway. He called on a number of business houses here and called on several new concerns in the county and obtained returns of their stock on hand.

J. J. King of Adrian, S. C., had an argument with a tobacco buyer last week, and in the course of it stated that he could show the buyers where there was no pay for the grower in the raising of low grades of tobacco, even if the tobacco leaves could actually be produced in the field without any expense or any labor or cultivation. He then said that you could take a low grade pile of tobacco and after doing nothing to it except cleaning it of dirt, grading it the best this could be done, and tying it into bunches, and for this labor alone the price received would not amount to adequate wages. He is just about right about this. It does not pay to raise a low grade of tobacco for any market.

DEATH OF LADY

Many friends of Allen Skipper sympathize with him in the death of his wife recently after she had suffered a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Skipper lives in the Wampee community.

FIRST COTTON

The first open cotton boll of the season comes to the Horry Herald office from the farm of S. W. Martin, who lives on an R. F. D. route leading out of Conway.

This first open boll was received at the office last Thursday morning and was nicked from the evening before. In spite of the boll weevil Mr. Martin will produce some high grade cotton for the market.

HAD MOONSHINE

Three men and a jug of moonshine had their turn along the national highway last Sunday.

As automobiles passed along these men acted as if they cared but little whether they got out of the way or not. They were all rich in their own estimation.

It is said that a rural policeman was out on the road and doubtless took the three men in before night unless their conduct changed.

GETS GOOD PRICE

R. M. Brown of Socastee township was in Conway last week to sell the sandlugs from his tobacco crop of two acres.

The lugs brought him the price of 34 cents, 19 cents and 13 cents, respectively for the three grades. This was considered a good sale for this quality of tobacco.

The two acres has produced some very fine tobacco for Mr. Brown and he is expecting a much higher price for the balance of his crop.

CAROLINA GOODS

A variety of Carolina products, made in North and South Carolina, ranging from canned goods to coat hangers, and from print cloths to peanut butter, taking in an assortment of manufactured goods that leave no room whatever for outside competition will be exhibited on the floor of the Made in Carolinas Exposition building, when the big show opens in Charlotte on September 24 to run through October 6, according to advance lists of goods to be exhibited by the manufacturers of the two states.

LOOK THIS UP

One thing that should be looked into carefully at all times by the retail merchants association is the matter of prices charged in Conway as compared to the prices charged for the same things in nearby towns. If it should be found that the price charged in Conway is higher than those charged in those other towns, then look into the matter of freight rates and see if the town is being treated unfairly by the railroads. It might be that a remedy could be found for correcting this if it should be found to exist. One good way to bring business here is to see that prices of retail goods are as low as they can be bought in other places in this section of the State.

DONE BY COUNTY

The work on the road to Myrtle Beach just beyond the steel bridge, and which was recently completed, was carried on under the direction of the County Road Commissioner, H. P. Little. A very good job was done and it promises to be as nearly permanent as could be under the circumstances.

The funds, however, for paying the expenses of this work were raised as follows:

County Road Fund	$1,000.00
State Highway Dept.	$2,000.00
Contributed by Citizens	$1,000.00
Total Cost	$4,000.00
