

SOUTH AND WEST.

It is gratifying to observe that the doctrine of the alliance are being rooted in the hearts of the people, and the principles of the order are being applied in the solution of the great civil questions...

With all the parade of tariff reform fresh in the minds of the people, the first act of the administration was an admission that the position of the alliance was right.

It had been unusually forward spring. How many of the farmers have seen the result of the experiment of detaching corn on the Clemson College farm last year?

Corn made one or two bushels more to the acre where the fodder was not pulled. Is it not a pity that we can not top all the corn, since we would have more time by commencing so early to work at it...

Can not some one give us something about the drainage law? Would not some more legislation be beneficial on this line? Some fine farms in this and the adjoining counties are worthless that have been very valuable.

THE REFORM MOVEMENT.

Our anti friends have expressed themselves on divers occasions, being pleased with the prospect of an early dissolution of the reform movement in this State. They use their opinion on the fact, that the leaders are wrangling among themselves for the best seats in the synagogue.

It is true that some in their zeal have said harsh words about their competitors and will doubtless repent in due time, but as long as they will be obedient to will of majority to harm can result from a rivalry among leaders.

The Jury in the Pollard-Brockbridge case, decided in favor of Miss Pollard. They gave her $15,000. Col. Brockbridge, has given office of appeal.

The following is a portion of the report of the Military court of enquiry appointed under Governor Tillman's orders to sit with the jury of inquest.

"We concluded from the evidence that Frank E. Norment came to his death in Darlington, S. C., on the 30th day of March, 1894, from the effect of a gun shot wound inflicted by one J. D. McLendon, and that the said killing was felonious murder, and that W. P. Galliard, C. B. McDowell, J. C. Murphy, J. L. Nunnemaker, E. M. Gardner, John Felder, J. M. Scott, L. H. McCants, William Livingston, O. C. Cain, E. C. Black, J. W. Holloway, W. H. Bryson, Jack Holling and Wash Owens are accessories.

"We concluded that R. H. Pepper came to his death at the same time and place from the effect of a gun-shot wound inflicted by one Lewis Redmond and that the said Lewis Redmond came to his death at the hands of O. C. Cain and that said killing was felonious murder. Redmond was running from the constables and Cain shot him in the back with a Winchester rifle. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Some Random Thoughts.

Who of the old people can tell us if it was the 15th of April or the 15th of May (Sunday) in 1849, when the snow fell? I think it was April. The next morning there was a heavy frost and killed the wheat, at least bit it down.

It had been unusually forward spring. How many of the farmers have seen the result of the experiment of detaching corn on the Clemson College farm last year? By topping alternate rows just as the tassels appeared, the yield of the topped rows was 18 or 19 bushels per acre, while the untopped was only 13 bushels?

Corn made one or two bushels more to the acre where the fodder was not pulled. Is it not a pity that we can not top all the corn, since we would have more time by commencing so early to work at it, and we would save the damage from the August and September gales, as the corn would not blow down? I think we ought to notice these experiments, especially since cotton is getting so low.

Can not some one give us something about the drainage law? Would not some more legislation be beneficial on this line? Some fine farms in this and the adjoining counties are worthless that have been very valuable. It is stated in the History of the State, gotten up and published by the Agricultural department, that there is 600,000 acres of land below Columbia, that was once cultivated and yielded 50 per cent more than the whole State now produces, i. e. in corn.

From Liberty.

April 14, 1894. One of the weightiest questions just now in politics is, "where are we at?" and the two old time parties as represented the "Demo-Republican by Grover Cleveland and Tom Reed, better known as Cleveland, Carlisle, Wall and Lombard streets, John Sherman & Co. have left the people. When we vote again for a President, we had better try to elect a statesman, (not a sportsman) with the pluck of a Jackson or the backbone of a Tillman—better still, a combination of this style, all the pluck, energy and ambition of the two, with the statesmanship of Jefferson added, and all concentrated into one, and then fill the halls of the White House with men who are with the people, first, last, and all the time. We are happy to be able to say, when every other State does their part as well as South Carolina has in this direction, there will soon be a very great change in the financial affairs of this government at least.

Now the time has come for us to stand every candidate up and compel him, or them, to show their position on certain financial issues, while the dispensary is no doubt worthy of a place on the list of subjects for discussion, it can not be allowed to be made of paramount importance especially in the National part of the campaign, as finance, transportation, and tariff, (somewhat in the order named,) must not be lost sight of and the man who attempts to pass lightly over these, deserve to be passed lightly by, by all parties who desire to vote for the best interest of the country regardless of what he has done or promised to do, in the past, no matter how dear to the people, we cannot, yet, will not longer follow any man who is not with us in principle, and has the manhood to say so.

The two dominant parties now in power have become as thoroughly united as were the Siamese Twins, therefore they were conscious of the facts as were the twins themselves, that they will both die together, one of them is drinking very heavily just now, and both have become very decrepid, have long since outlived their usefulness—so the children of necessity must soon force their way to the front to save the nation, to steer the old ship of State safely past the great whirl-pool of financial destruction, we can already feel her tremble and hear the ominous creaking of the timbers, and we see the danger signals are flying at full mast, and the engineer and pilot both tarrying long at the wine, and have ceased to heed the warning call and earnest entreaties of the frightened passengers above many of whom are already conscious of the fact that the old ship abandoned to her fate by the leaders of the crew in charge, and only a few of them are trying to do anything to avoid the threatened wreck. Senator Walsh of Georgia, on April 14, introduced his first bill. It is amendatory of Section 719 of the Revised Statutes relating to the United States Circuit Courts and is intended to bring the courts to the people instead of compelling the people to travel about after the court. The kick of a cow is not the most acceptable form of milk punch.

Senator Zeb Vance Dead.

Washington, April 14.—Senator Rebulon Vance of North Carolina died at his residence, 1627 Massachusetts avenue, at 10:45 o'clock to-night. The Senator had not been in good health for the past year and in the early part of the session of Congress was compelled to abandon his Senatorial duties and take a trip to Florida in the hope of recuperating. His trip proved beneficial and on his return to Washington he was able for a while to partially resume his official duties. His improvement, however, did not continue long and for the last few weeks he has been confined to his home. He was practically and invalid, but lately has been able to receive a few intimate friends and superintend the looking after the interests of his constituents. During the past week he has been reported as doing as well as could be expected and the serious change for the worse to-day was wholly unexpected.

Shortly before 11 o'clock to-day he had an attack of apoplexy and became unconscious, regaining consciousness only a few minutes before his death. His wife, Thomas Allison, Harry Hartin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vance, Judge and Mrs. Houke and Rev. Dr. Pitzer and Drs. W. W. Johnson and Ruffin were at his bedside when he died.

General Kershaw Dead.

News reached here yesterday of the death on Thursday night at 10:30 o'clock, at Camden, his home, of Gen. J. B. Kershaw. His death was not unexpected, as he had been in ill health for some time.

The news caused sadness in the city and at the State House, and all the State officers decided to go to Camden in a body this morning to attend the funeral to be held in the Episcopal Church.

Chief Justice McIver, of the Supreme Court, telegraphed a message of condolence to the family of the distinguished son of South Carolina. Other messages were also sent.

In memory of the man who had adorned the bench of South Carolina for many years, emblems of mourning were placed in the Court House, the Court of Common Pleas being in session.

General Kershaw was the postmaster at Camden and was also engaged in completing the records of the South Carolina soldiers in the late war—Columbia Register.

It seems the policy of many Reform candidates to attempt to elect themselves on what the Reform party has accomplished already—making its record the sole reason for its existence. They, by confining their speeches to such subjects as the Coosaw case, the establishment of an Agriculture College and such like subjects, only argue that the mission of the party has come to an end. Such is not the case as this is a party of progress and a party that fulfills its promises. There is plenty of work for the Reformers to do in the future and what we want to know is what definite plans those candidates have for the relief of the people and how they proposed to carry them out.

A general pledge to the support of the Alliance demand won't fill the bill as the people have long since learned not to trust glittering generalities. The reforms accomplished in the State have not helped the financial distress of the people—and will not—so let us turn our attention awhile to national affairs and make a little progress in getting something effective done. The people must make the candidates understand this—Cotton Plant.

The secretary of the Elkhart Carriage and Harness Mfg. Co., of Elkhart, Ind., informs us that their prices will be lower for 1894 than ever. He wishes us to send our readers not to purchase anything in the line of carriages, wagons, bicycles or harness until they have sent 4 cents in stamps to pay postage on their 112 page catalogue. We advise the readers of this paper to remember his suggestion.
