

NORTHERN HOSPITALITY.—Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, who has returned from her recent Northern trip, writes a card to-day in reply to comments from the Southern press upon her accepting the hospitality of Governor Ben. Butler. She says: "While in Boston we were entertained at a hotel and did not cross the threshold of Gov. Butler. Justice compels me to say that he was wanting in no courtesy to the guests of his State. The people of Boston and of every point we visited in the North certainly gave evidence that my husband's name was held in such honor and reverence that my heart could not but be touched with tender and grateful emotion. I was told that they admired him for this, his moral grandeur, his exalted piety, that he was the bravest man the war produced on either side, and that they were proud of him as an American citizen, &c. Surely, there must be enough of chivalry and right feeling on the part of all true Southerners to cast no blame upon me for having been the means of evoking such sentiments as these, and while every instinct of my nature is loyalty and devotion to the South I can testify that there are many excellent Christians at the North who are anxious to blot out all the sectional differences and extend to us the love and kindness which make a nation that happy people whose God is love."—Philadelphia (Pa.) Times.

FURMAN'S FARMING IN CAROLINA.—A good deal has been said in our columns lately about the extensive system of farming pursued by Mr. Farish Furman, of Georgia, and on a trip to Cabarrus County the first part of this week this writer saw a practical demonstration of its wonderful results. Mr. Ervin Harris, a young farmer of Poplar Tent, became interested in the accounts of Furman's extensive system and concluded to try it. He selected an acre of ground which he planted in cotton after Furman's plan. He put on this acre of ground 1,200 pounds of compost. The early season was bad and the cotton did not get a good stand, but, this fact to the contrary notwithstanding, he will make fully three bales from this one acre. The cotton is neck high to a man and there are from fifty to seventy-five bolls to the stalk. Mr. Harris never hoed the cotton, but ran a plow through to cultivate it. He is so well pleased with the result that next year he will, he says, cultivate as much land as his means will allow under this intensive system. It is simply wonderful and with these practical results before their eyes, it will not be long until all our farmers are pursuing Furman's method.—Charlotte Observer.

—Colonel T. M. R. Talcott, general superintendent and manager of the Richmond and Danville Railroad, has resigned. He will be succeeded by Col. A. L. Rives, first vice president. The change is owing to the new management of the road.

CONSCIENTIOUS.—A revolutionary soldier was running for congress, and his opponent was a young man who had "never been to the wars," and it was the custom of old Revolutionary to tell of the hardships he had endured. Said he:

"Fellow citizens, I have fought and bled for my country. I helped to whip the British and the Indians. I have slept on the field of battle with no other covering than the canopy of heaven. I have walked over the frozen ground till every footstep was marked with blood."

Just about this time, one of the sovereigns, who had become greatly interested in his tale of suffering walked up in front of the speaker, wiped the tears from his eyes with the extremity of his coat tail, and interrupted him with:

"Did you say you had fought the British and the Injuns?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you say you had slept on the ground while serving your country, without any kiver?"

"I did."

"Did you say your feet kivered the ground you walked over with blood?"

"Yes," replied the speaker exultantly.

"Well, then," said the tearful sovereign, as he gave a sigh of fearful emotion, "I guess I'll vote for the tother fellow, for I be blamed if you ain't done enough for your country."

THE YOUNG MAN WASN'T CONSULTED.—"You should learn some trade, my son," said an Austin gentleman to his young hopeful. "Brick-layers are getting $6.50 a day, while lawyers can't afford to ride on street cars."

"Pa why-didn't you learn a trade when you were a boy?"

"That's not only a silly, but also an impertinent question. I didn't learn a trade when I was a boy out of regard for your feelings. I wanted to give you an opportunity to say that your father was a gentleman."

"It can't be helped now," replied the boy moodily, "but I wish you had consulted me, for if we had arranged for you to be the bricklayer, I could have been the gentleman myself."—Texas Sitfings.

RANDALL IN CLEVELAND.—Cleveland, O., October 6.—Hon. Samuel J. Randall, addressing a democratic meeting to-night, said the tendency of the republican party is a consolidation of the government approaching a monarchy. The democrats favor the distribution of power and oppose centralization because it is dangerous and imperils the right of the people. As a democrat I favor the total abolition of the Internal Revenue. There is no occasion for the existing Internal taxation. We do not need the money. The surplus each year about equal the amount collected that way.
