THIS IS A LAND OF MEMORIES SAID MR. CLARK IN ADDRESS

In Response to the Wel come Extended to the Veterans—These Reunions are Oases of Happiness To the Veterans

Mr. W. A. Clark, member of Camp Hampton, U. C. V., in response to the address of welcome delivered by the mayor of Anderson, spoke as follows:

Commander, and comrades, Mr. Mayor and citizens of Anderson, ladies and gentlemen of Anderson,

I esteem it a pleasure and privilege on behalf of the S. C. Division U. C. V. to give expression of our grateful acknowledgement for the cordial welcome to Anderson. In this busy and commercial age when each community is vying one with the other for advancement in all branches of industry; when each man, as well as each community is engrossed in business and attracted only by that which produces wealth and now that a half century has intervened since the Confederate cause suffered defeat, communities are seldom found eager to join the Confederate soldier in celebrating his past history. Such diversion means sacrifice; sacrifice of time and sacrifice of money. For such service we should be grateful.

Like oases in the desert which serve to revive and refresh the weary traveler, so these annual reunions revive in the memory of Confederate soldiers recollections of the past; furnishes the principles for which they fought and for which so many died; and render still more sacred the cause which was lost. It has become a fashion to call it the "Lost Cause," but I resent the idea. The battle was indeed lost but the principles for which we fought can never die. They were principles upon which the structure of our government was builded and must survive so long as our government be maintained. Truth is mighty and shall prevail; if, therefore, the principles for which we fought were indeed true, then they must live forever. "Truth when elicited, never dies, as it descends through time it may be transmitted from state to state, from monarch to commonwealth, but its life is never extinguished and never permitted to fall to the ground. A great truth, if no existing nation would assume its guardianship, has power, such is God's Providence to call a nation into being and life by the life which it imparts." So the principles for which you fought are imperishable, and you are the heroes of a cause that should live so long as truth and justice shall triumph. Tribute paid to those who gave their lives a sacrifice and which adorns the monument both at home and abroad. To alter one word would mar the whole. Forgive me, therefore, to read of those who perpetuate the memory of the tribute as it appears.

"This monument True to the instincts of their birth Faithful to the teachings of their Fathers Constant in their love for the State, Died in the performance of their duty, Who Have glorified a fallen cause By the simple manhood of their lives, the patient endurance of suffering, and the heroism of death, and who in the dark hours of imprisonment, in the hopelessness of the hospital, in the short, sharp agony of the field, found support and consolation in the belief that at home they would not be forgotten.

But what tribute should be paid to those of us who have survived the "Dark Hours of Imprisonment" the "Hopelessness of the Hospital" and the "Short, Sharp Agony of the Field"? Shall we prove less worthy than they?

By some it has been said that the sequences were even more trying than the hardships of the war. The humiliation of surrender; the return to the deplorable and in many instances degrading home; the rigid military rule and the reconstruction period were trials more severe than the weary march, the battlefield or even the hospital. By these were tested not only physical courage, but the moral fibre of the individuals.

In all of these the Confederate veteran performed his duty and discharged faithfully the trust imposed upon him. From this devastation and ruin we have survived and now after the lapse of well nigh a half a century, are permitted to witness a reunited country; our states enjoying full representation in the halls of congress, the south prominent in the administration of national affairs, and above all a prosperous, progressive and happy south. But more than all these we are no longer branded as "traitors" and "rebels" but are now honored even by those against whom we fought, as "self-sacrificing patriots," who will take our places by the side of Washington, Hampton, and Sidney.

Amidst ruins, bereft of fortunes and estates, as well as liberty, with nothing left remaining to us but a good name and public character unassailed, and untarnished, we will in the common misfortunes, will cling in our affections to the "land of memories" and find expression for our sentiment when surveying the past as well as our distant hopes when looking to the future, in the grand words of Father Ryan, one of our most eminent divines, and one of America's best poets:

"A land without ruins is a land without memories, a land without memories is a land without liberty. A land that wears a laurel crown, may be fair to see, but with a few cypress leaves around the brow of any man and he stands the brow of a hero. It becomes lovely in its consecrated corridors of sorrow and it wins the sympathy of the heart and history. Crowns of roses fade, crowns of thorns endure, Calvaries and crucifixes take deepest hold of humanity—the triumphs of might are transient, they pass away and are forgotten, the sufferings of right are graven deepest on the chronicles of nations."

"Yes, give me a land where the ruins are spread, And the living tread light on the hearts of the dead."

Yes, give me a land that is blest by the dust, And bright with the deeds of the down-trodden just

Yes, give me the land that hath legends and lays Enshrining the memories of long-vanished days;

Yes, give me a land that hath story and song, To tell of the strife of the Right with the Wrong;

Yes, give me the land with a grave in each spot, And names in the graves that shall not be forgot

Yes, give me the land of the wreck and the tomb, There's grandeur in graves—there's a glory in gloom!

For out of the gloom future brightness is born;

As after the night looms the sunrise of morn;

And the graves of the dead, with the grass overgrown,

May yet form the footstool of Liberty's throne,

And each single wreck in the warpath of night, Shall yet be a rock in the Temple of Right.

For the privilege now accorded as by the good people of this beautiful city to recount these past recollections and revive past experiences, we should be grateful. When the invitation was extended one year ago, we accepted with hearty thanks. When now the welcome is extended with "the eye, the hand and the tongue," we render to you, Mr. Mayor and through you to the good people of this city, our grateful acknowledgement and trust that when we shall bid you adieu the pleasure shall be none the less yours.

PLEASE TALKED ABOUT THE ROLLS

Urged the People To Get Their Names on Club Rolls in Time For Democratic Primaries

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Upon invitation of friends, Gov. Blaine yesterday agreed to make two speeches in the city last night, one being in the Riverside-Tosaway mill village and the other in the Anderson mill village. The first speech was scheduled for 7 o'clock at Riverside, and more than 300 persons gathered to hear what he had to say. He was well received and his utterances were loudly cheered.

The crowd in the Anderson mill village was much larger than the crowd he had addressed earlier in the evening, numbering probably 1,000 or more. At the Riverside mill the governor was well received and it was apparent that the crowd was in sympathy with him and was composed of ardent supporters.

The main plea in the governor's address last night was to the voters to see that their names are placed on the club rolls. He explained that the rules adopted at the recent state democratic convention had abolished all former rolls and ordered rolls anew. He advised those who could not write to carry witnesses with them when they go to the secretary to enroll so that there could be no mistake; so that the secretary would be certain to enroll the name properly.

The governor stated that he was confident of victory over Senator Smith and predicted his majority would be 20,000 to 30,000. He declared that if he was defeated, and if the people elected a governor who was not satisfactory to his hearers, that he would enter the race two years hence and would surely "come back."

The governor paid his respects to St. Pearman, referring sarcastically to his days in the legislature, and then he paid special attention to Gen. M. L. Bonham, Leon L. Rice and S. Dean Pearman; for their stands and work during the recent state democratic convention. He did not mince any words, and his utterances, especially at this time, were received with vociferous applause. He touched upon his pardon record in the usual manner.

In conclusion he said that he will return this summer when he is campaigning for United States senator, and he declared he would have something to say that would be really warm. He stated, too, that he understood his opponent had something up his sleeve which promised to be equally as warm. He predicts a highly interesting time.

The last word was in the shape of a warning to his hearers to be sure to get their names on the club rolls "if the secretary should die and cannot get the name on the roll for you, hunt up somebody else, and see that your name is enrolled. It is mighty important—especially after the rules adopted by the state convention."

HOW FRENCH PEOPLE CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

A household remedy of the French peasantry, consisting of pure vegetable oil, and said to possess wonderful merit in the treatment of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles, has been introduced in this country by George J. Mayr, who for twenty years has been one of the leading down town druggists of Chicago and who himself was cured by its use. So quick and effective is its action that a single dose is usually enough to bring pronounced relief in the most stubborn cases, and many people who have tried it declare they never heard of anything to produce such remarkable results in so short a time. It is known as Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and can now be had at almost any drug store. It is now sold here by

EVANS' PHARMACY Three Stores.

Indigestion

is often the result of poor blood. The glands that secrete the gastric juices cannot get the right chemicals from the blood, and undigested food gets into the intestine, causing fermentation, headache, constipation, neuralgia and rheumatism, with a whole train of attendant disorders. These disorders make the blood worse. Until it is cleaned of poison there can be no relief. Clean the blood and most all its troubles.

Rheumatism

has disappeared after the use of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy for the blood. The stomach has regained its strength, and the whole digestive tract has been toned up to do its work well. Give Nature the chance she wants. She will repair the damage.
