Indigestion

Is often the result of poor blood. The glands that secrete the gastric juices cannot get the right chemicals from poisoned blood, and undigested food gets into the intestines causing fermentation, flatulency, constipation, neuralgia and rheumatism, with a whole train of attendant disorders. These disorders make the blood worse. Until it is cleaned of poisons there can be no relief. Clean the blood and most of its ailments are cured.

ANDERSON PEOPLE TO ATTEND CELEBRATION

PLANNING FOR TRIP TO HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.

THE NEW HIGHWAY

Festivities To Be Held, Marking Opening of a New Road From Here to the Mountains

Anderson county is not ashamed of her roads but is not exactly proud of them, although the highways are in better shape than ever before. However, it must be admitted that the roads could be better and there are many "good roads" enthusiasts in this section yearning for the coming of the better roads era. The news that a big celebration will be held at Hendersonville, N. C., on July 27, has therefore awakened considerable interest in Anderson and yesterday a number of the local motorists were planning to make the trip from this city to be present for the affair. The occasion is the opening of the new Asheville-Hendersonville-Spartanburg highway.

If present plans do not miscarry it will be the biggest road celebration ever held in Western North Carolina. Features of the day will be the parade of students of the government military camp at Asheville and those of surrounding military camps in Western North Carolina, cavalry drill by the cavalrymen of the instruction camps at Asheville, automobile parade, a military ball and field and water athletics.

Col. Sanford H. Cohen, manager of the Greater Western North Carolina Association, has been working on the plans for the celebration for some time and was the guest of the Greater Hendersonville club at a meeting held there Saturday to work out the details of the celebration. The event has been extensively advertised not only in Western North Carolina but in the adjoining southern states and owing to the extensiveness and importance of the occasion it is believed that there will be a record-breaking attendance in the city to witness features never before given in Hendersonville.

The military band of the government camp in Asheville will come over on the train to make music for the occasion, while students and regulars will march through the country the distance of 22 miles, according to a week on the trip from Asheville and return. French Broad and Sapphire camps of Brevard have been invited and will participate in the parade to be given on Main street.

RAILROADS MUST SHOW RECORDS

Separate Accounts of Freight and Passenger Service Accounts Demanded

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, July 21.—Railroads after June 30, 1915, will be compelled to keep their accounts to show separately the costs of freight and passenger service, according to an order today by the interstate commerce commission. The information will be used not only for rate making but to keep the commission more closely informed on how the railroads actually conduct their business.

NEW HIGHWAY

Has Many Advantages in Addition to Being an Excellent Road.

The new highway to the North Carolina Highlands, recently built between Highlands, N. C., at a cost of about 25,000 paid jointly by the states of North and South Carolina and private citizens of North Carolina and South Carolina and Georgia, which is called the Trans-Montane Route, the Latin term for mountain being used because of similarity of the new route with the Trans-Montane Highway across the Alps was officially opened for traffic and motor truck service, daily, on July 13th, last.

There are five different features connected with the new route, which will undoubtedly make it the most used highway to the North Carolina highlands and resorts. They may be enumerated as follows:

1. It is the shortest route from all Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana; shorter than any other route for all of South Carolina except that part of the state lying within Spartanburg and York counties; and equally as short as any other route from Washington and the east by connection with the New York Herd-Atlanta Journal National Highway at Williamson, S. C.
2. It is the best constructed highway, with the best grades, between the foothills and the highlands, parts of it costing $1,500.00 per mile, or a mile of that part of it traversing Rabun county, Georgia.
3. Snow will not interfere with traffic in the winter but rains at any time during the year, it being so graded to prevent water soaking.
4. Motor truck service, passenger

Writes of the Things He Sees—Among Other Things Is Claude Derrick

Editor The Intelligencer: Inclosed you will find a picture of a man quite well known in Anderson, C. Derrick. It made me feel very much at home to see this and to know that Anderson is not so far from Chicago after all, and that a great many of the old players in our league have made a place for themselves in the big leagues.

Chicago is still as windy as ever. She has celebrated my visit by having two big storms since my arrival and added insult to injury by some very rainy weather, but most of the time the weather has been pleasant and even cool.

The University has quite a number of southern teachers during this summer session—a great many coming from Georgia, Tennessee and North Carolina. Then one meets people from everywhere, one Anderson girl is here, Miss Ruth Strickland and men and women from all parts of the southern states.

The work is hard but very interesting. Most of the educational men are working on the problem of school efficiency and surveys for determining the efficiency of a school system. One of the best of these men is Dr. Courts of Detroit, who is making a special study of efficiency tests in mathematics, another is Mr. Thompson, working along the same lines; another, Dr. Judd of the University, who is about the "livest wire" in the profession. We have also Dr. Meek of Boise, Idaho, who made the first efficiency survey in the United States in 1911.

Last week I had the honor (mostly hard work) of being called on for two special reports. These reports are given to various members of a class and count for credit toward a degree. These reports with daily lectures and visits of inspection to the various schools take up all our time.

Yesterday we visited the Andrew Jackson school in the ghetto. All the children were foreigners, most of the teachers, too; the work was mainly industrial, with practical woodwork, typewriting, sewing, cooking and basketry for the various grades. These summer classes are for the benefit of the workers who can not attend in winter and there is no tuition fee. What struck me most was the singing in English (such as it was) of the patriotic hymns. This school is certainly making American citizens out of a mixed population.

But on this subject one could write for quite a while. With regards to all the Anderson friends, I am

TELEPHONE BLOCK SERVICE

To Be Installed by the Southern on Its Macon Division.

Atlanta, July 20.—Southern Railway is preparing to install a telephone block system to take the place of the telegraph system now in use on the Atlanta division between Macon, Ga., and Ooltewah, Tenn., a distance of 225 miles and part of the route of the Southern Railway through trains between the West and Florida. The present telegraph block system consists of two wires and each office with its equipment will be one bell of the north block and one bell of the south block with the telegraph system installed that it can be operated with either.

The lines will be so arranged at the offices, that when a block office is closed the line can be cut through it. The wires used for the telephone block will be also used for a telegraph circuit from Atlanta to Macon and for another circuit from Atlanta to Ooltewah into Chattanooga. In order to take care of the heavy Florida traffic last winter telephone block was not in operation between Macon and Jessup and was found so satisfactory that it has now been decided to extend the system over the line between Ooltewah and Jessup. The new system will be put in effect as soon as the change can be made.

MR. AIKEN WORKS FOR HAIL RELIEF

Resolution Presented in Congress—Names of Some of Those Who Lost Crops

The Intelligencer has received from Congressman Wyatt Aiken a copy of the resolution which he introduced in congress with reference to the sufferers from the hail storms in the third congressional district. The resolution is as follows:

"That for the relief of the sufferers from the hail and wind storms in Anderson county, South Carolina, in July 1914, there is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $25,000; Provided, That all expenditures under this joint resolution shall be made under the direction of the Secretary of War."

Mr. Aiken says that he is doing everything that he possibly can for favorable consideration of this joint resolution. In this connection, the following letter received at this office Tuesday will be of interest:

As there seems to be a mistaken idea among some as to where the heaviest hail fell, which visited this section, July 9th, and as it has been reported that the greatest loss was in the Friendship, Gluck Mills and Mt. Taboy sections, now those who wish to know the facts can learn them by making a visit to this section around Fant's Grove. Below we give the names of some of the heaviest losers:

Mrs. F. G. Brown, J. A. Price, Raymond Stewart, T. M. McGarity, Arthur Alexander, W. W. Swaney, George Swaney, A. S. Ladd, P. J. Durham, W. F. Durham, J. R. Seliger, W. J. Gillespie, B. T. Seliger, James Duncan, J. T. Ward, N. C. Brock, T. T. Bryant, N. K. Bryant, M. B. Duncan, R. O. Brock, B. R. Bryant, W. A. Mullikin, M. R. Brock, D. O. Elrod, F. E. Pace, J. P. Brock, J. T. Chapman, James Meredith and others, who were more or less damaged. Many of these crops are almost a total loss.

Some have quit their farms and will try to get all they can from them. Although it has been 11 days since the storm very little improvement has been made in any of the crops especially the young cotton of which the largest portion of the crops consisted. R. O. Brock, Fant's Grove, July 20, 1914.

FIRE OPENING GUN LAST NIGHT

Fred H. Dominick, Candidate For Congress Spoke to Voters At Mill—Others Speak

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
Fred H. Dominick, of Newberry, candidate for congress from the third congressional district, fired his opening gun in the Anderson county campaign last night when he spoke to an audience of about 150 people at the Orr Mill. Mr. Dominick was well received and he had the closest attention of his hearers during his 20 minute speech.

Before Mr. Dominick began to speak H. Clint Summers, Jr., a candidate for the state senate from Anderson county, was introduced to the audience. Mr. Summers made only a few remarks. T. P. Dickson, a candidate for the lower house from Anderson, was also present and spoke a few words, by way of introducing himself.

Mr. Dominick began his address with a review of his career, both as a lawyer and in politics. He served for eight years as chairman of the county democratic executive committee of his county, which was a longer term than any other man has ever held. He referred to his relations with the governor, both in the practice of law and in politics. He said that he did not care to criticize Mr. Aiken's record but would reserve that until next Monday, when the campaign is to open at Newberry and at which time Mr. Aiken will be present.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Orla Romine on Saturday evening at 10 o'clock, when Miss Grace Holt, the beautiful and only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Holt, became the bride of Mr. Charles Howell, of Anderson, South Carolina.

The wedding march was beautifully played by an aunt of the bride, Mrs. John Mayrick. The decorations were green and pink. The Rev. McNeal, officiating in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

FISHING TALES

Rainel Fishing Party couldn't come in from Portman and had to stay overnight. Frank Reed kicked like a steer. He insisted on coming home. About daybreak, seemed about middle of night, bell rang. Blair Crayton called out to Bond Anderson to answer the phone. Frank Reed greatly excited. "Is there a phone here? Let me get to it." "No, phone alarm clock. Tableau."

"No other fishing trip. Panther Tribble leaping against a tree sound asleep. Line dangling in water. Suddenly bell tapped. Panther awoke, yanked the pole and out of the water came line with snapper fish. Very simple. Every fish that took the bait pulled line, rang bell, bell awakened F. V. Every fish in the river rang the bell. Story on asleep."

Guy Compton, Son of Anderson Man Killed in Toccoa, Ga., When Thrown From Auto

H. T. Compton has returned to his home in this city after going to Toccoa, Ga., to attend the funeral of his son, Guy Compton, who was killed last Tuesday when he was thrown from an automobile.

The young man was an engineer in the employ of the Southern Railway and was held in the highest esteem by the Toccoa people.

Tuesday night a party set out for a ride, a one armed man driving the machine. Some street work was done on at the time and as the driver approached the place where the street was torn up, he turned the machine to one side. When he did this he struck an iron post which had been driven into the road and Mr. Compton was hurled from the machine, striking the ground. Some terrible wounds were inflicted on his body and death came soon afterwards.

AN APPEAL TO CONGRESS

Made by Interstate Railroad Commission

Washington, July 20.—Further discussion of private business from railroads was recommended to congress today by the interstate commerce commission as a result of an investigation of transportation of coal and oil, in response to a resolution of congress.

The commission recommended that the commodities clause of the Hepburn rate law be extended to all traffic. This clause now makes it unlawful for any railroad to transport any article produced by it or in which it has any interest, except lumber, coal and such other articles as may be necessary for its own use.

to declare that the documents referred to in yesterday's testimony are only pretended copies of documents which do not exist.

"We consider the incident closed," Lalord then said.

Charles Henu, the lawyer representing the Figaro and Calmette's heirs, remarked, sarcastically:

"I regard the incident as only an enjoyable diversion. It has pleased M. Caillaux to transform a criminal trial into a political one. He intends to go from here with a certificate of loyalty to France. Much good it will do him."

Damaging Testimony.
Yves Delbos, editor-in-chief of Le Radical, related that he had met Mme. Caillaux on the day of the shooting. He said "she seemed depressed and aged and was like a beaten, hunted thing."

Mme. Louise Mordane-Estradere formerly society editor of the Figaro, testified she had dined in company with Mme. Caillaux about two months before the shooting.

She said Mm. Caillaux told her Mme. Gueyden, the former wife of M. Caillaux, was trying to sell letters against her. Mme. Mordane-Estradere said she told Mme. Caillaux she understood Mme. Gueyden had refused to sell the letters to Calmette for 6,000.

Mme. Sylvie Chartrau, the wife of an artist, said Mme. Caillaux had confided her apprehensions to her, two days before she killed Calmette.

Isidore de Lara, a musical composer testified to lunching with the Princess of Monaco, Mme. Caillaux and Mme. Mesange-Estradere on the day "The Joo" letter was published. Mme. Caillaux in talking with him about the Figaro, said:

"They will end in killing my husband."
"Eugene Morand," a writer, who was also at the luncheon, swore that Mme. Mesange-Estradere had spoken a great deal at the table about the "The Joo" letter. He continued:

"I thought she talked too much. Mme. Caillaux seemed greatly distressed."
The radical leader followed the case with the closest attention. Occasionally he would look tenderly in the direction of his wife with an encouraging smile or frown.

SIXTH INFECTED RAT IS CAPTURED

No New Cases of Plague Reported—All Market Keepers Must Install Garbage Receptacles

New Orleans, July 22.—Dr. Ortega, director of public health and Dr. Lizarraide, inspector general of public health of Nicaragua, arrived here today to study methods for the prevention of bubonic plague. The visitors were placed in the care of Dr. French Simpson, one of the federal experts here, who will instruct them in modern methods of plague prevention and eradication.

Announcement was made today by Dr. William C. Tucker, assistant surgeon general, that notice had been served on all market stall keepers to clean up their places of business and install proper garbage receptacles within the next five days.

The sixth infected rat was found today.
