DAVID HOOVER DOUGLAS, D. D., Pres. CLINTON, S. C.

OH! SHAW, SHAW.
Oh! you Blaiseite, whoever you may be,
I read your poem and you surprised me.
You have misquoted things from the top on down,
But the Smithites are still on the finest ground.
You ask if I can think of any invention
That is half as rotten as the State Convention.
That question is so absurd it makes me smile,
For Blaise's record is so rotten I smell it a mile.

Then you have the audacity to write more and say
The Convention passed a rule to keep the poor man away.
To make such a remark is certainly a shame.
For their marks are legal if they can't write their name.

That is a good rule and you must agree it is fair
For when you sign your name you know it is there
And no one can tell you on election day
You haven't enrolled and you must stay away.

Blaise has a right to sweep the state I know,
For he is the one that has dirtied it so.
But he can't use the broom now as he is unable
And he must get his job back in the livery stable.

If that was a Smith mule I wrote about,
I would go to the stable and turn it out,
For I wouldn't let Blaise feed a cat of mine
Much less a mule as they are too fine.

Now, Mr. Shaw, I know why you are a Blaiseite,
You never read the papers neither day nor night
Or else you would now the candidates that are out
And not be writing something you know nothing about.

You are not the man I supposed you to be
As you have tried to make this personal with me,
But there wasn't any truth in a thing you said
And Ananias will be living until you are dead.

You say "THEY" tell you I have thrown my hat in the ring,
Well I want you to understand I have done no such thing
I am not a candidate now and I never have been
Its Preston running for office and he is going to win.

I hope you know more about your Bible than you do politics
For if you don't you sure are in an awful fix
And you mustn't believe everything "THEY" say
Or the Lord won't know you on the Judgment Day.

Now if I were you and couldn't do any better
I would put down my pen and not write another letter
And when election day comes I would go pick pens
And not disgrace myself by voting for Blaise.

On Board the Blaise Ship,
In this senatorial harbor,
There are some flower ships making ready to sail;
But on the twenty-fifth of August,
They will be caught in a gale.

Now somebody is going to get drowned,
There is three ships going to get lost;
They are going down in deep waters chilly,
They can't stand to be tempest tossed.

Now, boys, while boarding these vessels,
If you want to ride over in ease,
Board the vessel whose Captain is Coley
And the name on her banner is Blaise.

Two years ago she rode the same waters,
And passed through storm after storm,
But she landed with over seventy-seven thousand,
Without the least fear of any harm.

Now don't her record make us feel happy,
Just think of that wonderful throng
But she is going to carry ninety thousand
and this time,
For they know what ship to get on.

Yes, we know and Jennings can't fool us,
Neither can Pollock or Smith,
Blaise is the man that stands by us,
And Blaise is the man we are with.

Blaise is the man that showed mercy,
When the children for bread they cried,
Give them back their father to feed them,
Before the little ones hungered and died.

Blaise has seen wives and mothers,
Weeping for husband or son,
Who has already been punished,
Too severe for some crime they had done.

This weeping aroused his sympathy,
But his duty is all that was won;
He has pardoned a few poor sinners

That the governors before him should have done.
You remember he was tried by a dictograph,
But you know that machine wouldn't lie,
It said you cannot buy the governor,
And it tin't no use to try.

Now, boys, you remember Tom Feider,
You remember how he talked about Blaise;
You remember when he failed to prove it,
He went away over in Europe to find ease.

But we don't believe he found it.
One reason you may want us to tell,
Well, you know that guilty conscience
Followed him down into hell.

Then you know they called in a detective,
That great man, William J. Burns,
And on the twenty-fifth of August,
They will still see the signs of his ruin.

Then the bridge incident you remember,
So black, so foul and so infamous,
Until a lot of their followers deserted
When they heaped it on a decent man's name.

Now their last resort they made to Tillman,
Like a weasel they slipped Ben in,
And he robbed fully seventy-five thousand
Of all the confidence they had in him.

Boys, after all this you remember,
We went to the polls like men,
What it took to elect Blaise we had it,
And I believe we have got it again.
Now, boys, we don't want you to get drowned,
And you won't if you take our advice.

Get your ticket and board the Blaise vessel,
And we guarantee your voyage will be nice.
Now, boys, we want to give you our opinion,
You may spend it from mountain to sea,
We believe Jennings and Pollock
Has ensured us the election of Blaise.

Now, boys, God knows we all love you,
We want to ask you one time more,
Be sure you get on the Blaise vessel;
Or you'll never reach that Washington shore.

I TOLD YOU SO

The manufacturers of Coca-Cola, the popular soda fountain beverage, have had an excellent chance in recent years to taunt the public with the old gibe, "I told you so." When the product was first put on the market the manufacturer frankly told the public its composition and explained that it was composed of syrup (sugar), caramel and caffeine with fruit flavors.

It seems, however, that some people preferred to believe the slanderous reports rather than the actual facts; and as slanders travel fast they soon came to the attention of the government. In order to ascertain the exact character of the product, the government seized a shipment of coca-cola at Chattanooga, Tenn., and brought suit against the company in the federal court. Expert scientists were summoned from all parts of the country and labored on the case for nearly four weeks at a cost to the government which has been estimated at approximately $100,000.

It was another case of the "mountain laboring and bringing forth a mouse." They found the sugar and the caramel and the caffeine and the fruit flavoring. That's all.—Adv.

CANAL NOW OPEN FOR COMMERCE

First Boat Through Made Record Time. Builder Was Much Pleased

Panama, Aug. 15.—The Panama canal is open to the commerce of the world. Henceforth ships may pass to and fro through the great waterway which establishes a new ocean highway for trade.

The steamship Ancon, owned by the United States war department, with many notable people on board today made the official passage which signaled the canal's opening. She left Cristobal at 7 o'clock this morning and reached Balboa on the Pacific and at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Ancon will remain at the Balboa docks for some time, discharging her cargo, this being the first commercial voyage made through the canal.

The canal will be used tomorrow for the training of four cargo ships and a yacht.

The Ancon's trip was the fastest yet made by a large ocean steamer. The steamer went through the Gatun locks in seventy minutes, a speed never before equalled. The other lockages were equally rapid.

OATS AND WHEAT FOR THE SOUTH

We can never stop the millions of waste from soil erosion or the millions spent in the West for foodstuffs until every man child of us plants grain in the Fall. The demand in the West for grains grown in the West is increasing annually and soon their demand will prevent them supplying us.

The South is a natural grain country. All we need is a little more knowledge and a little more zeal for farm improvement. If we knew half as much about Oats as we know about Cotton we would double our Oats crop this Fall and not reduce our Cotton crop a pound next summer. The up-to-date farmers already know, but the great rank and file are not yet on the Oats and Wheat band wagon with the enthusiasm they will be in a year or two. The new knowledge on Wheat and Oats cultivation and fertilization is spreading rapidly.

Our Committee will gladly furnish free to every Farmer who writes for it a new bulletin on the HOW and WHY for GRAIN CROPS in the New South that will add wealth to every Farmer who reads it and follows its instructions.
