DE PALMA WON COBE CUP RACE

Broke All Former Records in 305 Mile Race at Elgin, Illinois

Elgin, Ill., August 21.—Ralph de Palma, hard pressed by Gill Anderson, won the Cobe cup race today, finishing the 305 miles in 4:05.00.3, an average of 73.6 miles an hour. Anderson finished forty four seconds later, followed by Mulford in 4:08.18 and Oldfield in 4:15.23. DePalma won the 1913 event when his average speed was 66.8 miles an hour. His fastest lap today was 6:05 an average of 82.6 miles an hour. Only nine of the twenty-two drivers who started finished. Spencer Wishart took the race early and led without accident until the 21st lap when he blew a tire. DePalma might have taken the lead then, but for a similar accident. With a seemingly safe lead in the twenty-fifth lap, Wishart's fuel tank started to leak and finally forced him from the race. Anderson had crept up on the leaders and shortly after Wishart's accident, passed dePalma. From then on it was a drivers' race. Anderson could not get the lead from his opponent, but his hard drive forced dePalma into a race that lowered records for many laps.

OLD PAPER FILED

Document Will Probably Take Place of a Valid Will.

Washington, Aug. 21.—A "testamentary paper" written sixteen years ago by the late Associate Justice Lurton, of the supreme court was presented today to the registrar of wills. The document bequeaths all of the late justice's estate, real and personal to his wife, Fannie Owen Lurton, and names her sole executrix. It was said a petition would be filed with the district court, asking that the document be declared a valid will. The paper, written in the form of a will, made no mention of the value of the justice's estate. He owned a residence and various other property in Washington.

COLLEGE EXPECTING SUCCESSFUL YEAR

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR LOCAL INSTITUTION

STRONG FACULTY Enrollment This Year Will Be Materially Increased Over That Of Last Session

Anderson people are anticipating a great session for Anderson college this year and there is no appreciable reason why they should be disappointed. The faculty of this institution will be as strong this year as that of any institution in the state and it is understood that the enrollment will be materially increased over that of last year.

The Columbia State yesterday issued an educational number and the following article concerning Anderson College appeared therein:

Anderson college will soon begin its third year. In this short period in the life of an educational institution it has accomplished much in its aim as a high grade college for women. The trustees and the officers realize that every year will bring them nearer this desired end if they build always with this high aim in view.

To give women the best of academic training and culture, and to do this in the atmosphere of genuine religious influence—that is the purpose of Anderson college. With this purpose in view, the people of Anderson—city and county—offered the institution to the Baptist convention of South Carolina. It was unanimously accepted, and is now under the fostering care of that denomination. The college, is, however, non-sectarian in teaching, and has already among its students many of other denominations.

Equipment is good. The equipment of the college is unusually good. The large main building contains offices, parlors, class rooms, laboratories, dining room and auditorium. On the east and west of the main building are the two dormitories, each well-arranged and handsomely furnished.

All the buildings are heated by steam and lighted by electricity. The domestic science and domestic arts departments are admirably equipped for the teaching of these subjects. The campus, 32 acres, is provided with courts for basketball and tennis. One of the aims of the college is to make a specialty of outdoor sports and games.

A handsome home for the president of the college is now nearing completion. This is the gift of C. S. Sullivan, of Anderson.

The Faculty. The faculty is now composed of 19 teachers and officers, four of whom are men. The new teachers are: Dr. James P. Kinard, president and professor of English; Miss Helen P. Smith, lady principal; Prof. John H. Williams, science; Miss Madeline DeVebre, history; Miss Mary Dodson Ransour, art, and Prof. Frederic A. Goode, director of music.

The college has passed through two very successful years of its existence. It closed its second year with an enrollment of 155 students. The prospects for a successful third year are bright. Most of the old students will return, and many new ones are sending in their applications.

This is the short story of a very young college—young, but throbbing with the vigor and energy of youth, and earnestly desiring to win as soon as it may an honorable place in the educational system of South Carolina.

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt, which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to open and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try it, and you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Bran's Pharmacy, Agent.

NEW INSTRUCTOR REACHED THE CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Goode, Who Are To Become Members of College Faculty Have Arrived

(From Saturday's Daily.) Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Goode, who are to have charge of the department of music at Anderson College during the coming session, arrived in the city yesterday and are already comfortably located at the college. Mr. and Mrs. Goode come to Anderson with the highest recommendations and it is said that they are both accomplished musicians. Mr. Goode, who is the director of music, was a pupil of W. H. Sherwood of Chicago and Jose Damotta of Berlin. Mrs. Goode, who will be associate in piano, is a graduate of Judson college and herself a wonderful musician.

ANOTHER FAILURE

Cotton Operator Files Petition in Voluntary Bankruptcy. New York, August 21.—Eugene Scates, the cotton operator, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, giving liabilities at $228,583 and assets of $200,250.

With James A. Patten of Chicago and others Scates was indicted by the federal grand jury in 1912, in connection with a conspiracy to corner the raw cotton crop of 1910. After long litigation the defendants were fined $4,000 each.

Scates recently had been conducting his operations alone on the bull side. To the sensational decline in cotton price following the opening of the European war, is attributed his bankruptcy. Much of his trading was done through the firm of S. H. P. Pell & Company, which ruled the morning the New York exchange suspended operations.

According to William W. Blatchford, Jr., Scates attorney, it was found necessary to file the petition in bankruptcy because of the tangled condition of Scates' accounts, brought about by the Pell failure.

MARETT FAMILY REUNION

Held at Beavordam Baptist Church At Fair Play.

Tugalo, Tribune. In response to the announcements published in the newspapers two weeks ago, and the generous invitations sent out, about 300 relatives and friends gathered at the historic Beavordam Baptist church, in the beautiful town of Fair Play, near the dividing line of Anderson and Oconee counties, on last Friday for the Marrett family reunion. The family connection came from several counties in this state and the adjoining counties on the Georgia side and passed a most happy day in strengthening family ties and renewing covenants of friendship and love. There were hearty handshakes and friendly greetings among the descendants of the original settlers of the Marrett family, who came to this section from the Old North State many years ago.

The day was an ideal one and before nine o'clock the autos, whistles, etc., began to arrive bringing in the guests, who occupied seats in the church, strolled under the shades of the ancient oaks around the church, mingling with relatives and friends, while others walked through the cemetery looking at the graves and tombs of their departed friends.

This was the first reunion of the Marrett family ever held since the family first came into this country. A large number of the connection was not there.

The first settler was Benjamin Marrett, who came from Hillsboro, N. C., and who located around Fair Play. He is buried in the old Beavordam cemetery. He raised a large family of girls and boys. His boys were Stephen, Isam, Benjamin, Jr., John. His girls were Nancy, who married William Ray, and went North; Betsy, who never married; John, Benjamin and Stephen Marrett lived around Fair Play, until their death, and are buried there. Isam Marrett moved over to Shoal Creek, Ga., and is a branch from which the Georgia Marretts are from in and around Lavonia, Ga. Ben McGee and wife, it is thought, are buried on their home place north of Fair Play, known as the Tip Lindsay place.

The name is a French name, and the old original settler, it is thought, came from France, about the close of the 17th century. He, and what is supposed to be some of his brothers, bought and traded on land around Hillsboro, N. C. moved out with his family and located around Fair Play, and it is now estimated that the Marrett connection in this country will reach up around the 400 mark.

DEATH OF POPE IS DESCRIBED

Physician Tells of the Last Moments of His Holiness In Touching Way

Rome, Aug. 4.—The Corriere Italia today published an interview containing the Pope's last hours in which the pontiff's physician sets down some of his conversations with his patient, and dwells upon the European war now upon the Pope's death.

Dr. Marchisava declares the Pope's condition became grave on August 19. On that day he was depressed, his pulse was rapid, and his temperature rose to 102 degrees. There was trepidation of the lungs, but mentally, he was alert.

"He said to me," Doctor Marchisava continued, "doctor, today I will get up and go to work." On my vehement remonstrance he answered resignedly: "All right of you wish it, I will remain in bed, but I obey only out of regard for you, my good old friend."

"After half past ten the collapse occurred. Oxygen was administered and the patient was cupped. He revived, his vigor returned and Wednesday afternoon he seemed better. He began to speak again—"doctor, won't you give me some coffee and milk? Why don't you come near me?"

"These words deceived some of those present into hope, but soon the prostration resulted. Replying to my question, he said he felt better.

"But he rapidly grew worse until evening, when his temperature rose to 104 degrees. The albuminuria increased and the other symptoms all were grave, while the nephritic complications indicated the patient could live only a few hours.

Before midnight his consciousness had almost entirely disappeared. I put the crucifix in his hands. He muttered a few words slowly. He ardently kissed the little ivory crucifix. Once more he turned his dull glance around the room and then expired. Never have I seen a more serene death."

Speaking of the administration of the last sacraments to the pontiff, Dr. Marchisava says: "The patient received them with joy. He was tranquil and his intellect was so keen that to his secretary, Monsignor Bressan, who was overcome by emotion, the pope prompted the words of absolute faith. The pontiff shed a few tears; while with his tired hand he slowly made the sign of the cross."

"His venerable white head rested on his pillow, his eyes were bright and his face bore the smile which lighted it throughout his life. It was an example of the most perfect calm in the face of death."

GOV. BLEASE AND THE MILL MAN

Greenville News. Governor Blease claims to be the staunch and true friend of the mill workers, but when it comes to the pardon and parole business the wish and pleas of the mill man can look no better than anybody else's. Witness the following letter from W. A. Mooney, a cotton mill operative, which was printed in last week's issue of the Greer News-Leader: "I would like to ask you for space in your paper to give one of the many instances where Governor Blease has used the pardoning power without any just cause. The case to which I refer is the one in which Ambrose Scruggs was pardoned for the murder of my son, Clarence Mooney, in the year 1911. The facts, briefly stated, are these: Scruggs and two other men in need of money to go with them on a fishing trip, they foully murdered him, according to the evidence given at the trial and Scruggs was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to five years in the pen. He appealed but lost his case. After I moved to Victor mill I heard of an effort being made to secure a pardon for him and had Mr. J. E. Blanton, who was at that time a close friend of Governor Blease, to call him up over the phone, and ask what steps we should take to keep Scruggs from being pardoned. The governor told Mr. Blanton to get up a petition in opposition to theirs and get the jury to sign it. I did this, and not only secured the name of every juror, but the name of his wife, and many said it was the largest petition they had ever seen. The governor assured Mr. Blanton that if he would get this kind of a petition that Scruggs would never be pardoned as long as he was governor.

"I accepted his assurances and went back to work in the mill. After a lapse of two or three weeks I was approached in the mill by a representative of Scruggs offering a nice sum of money to sign his petition to the governor for the release of Scruggs. But alas, to the disgrace of South Carolina and the honor of the present governor, Blease, Scruggs was turned out in a very short time, after having served only eleven months of his five-year sentence and another criminal encouraged in his lawlessness. Gentlemen and friends, these are the actual facts and I am at home at Victor mill, Greer, S. C., to substantiate them."

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Tonic" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by merrily the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Bran's Pharmacy, Agents.

Armageddon---Where and When

By W. B.

Where is Armageddon? This question has been asked thousands of times in recent months. Col. Roosevelt brought the word prominently before the people when he said, "We will meet at Armageddon and battle for the Lord."

Armageddon is the final battlefield of the Apocalypse, or Revelations of St. John, on which the final struggle between good and evil will be fought. Of course it is related that the forces of good will prevail. Therefore in likening the recent presidential election to Armageddon, Col. Roosevelt rather proved himself to be the devil of a fellow. That's the logic of it.

The Armageddon of the Apocalypse is a figurative battlefield. As to locally it has been conjectured—from a passage of the 1st Epistle of St. Paul to the Thessalonians—that we shall be caught up in the clouds on that great day.

But, as a matter of fact, there was an Armageddon of ancient history, a place of actual, physical warfare, and it was not so far from the seat of the recent war in the Balkan States less than the distance from Anderson to New York. In fact the old battlefield is in Palestine, now a part of Turkey, between Mt. Carmel on the Mediterranean and Mt. Tabor on the Jordan and 10 miles north of Nazareth.

Armageddon was the great battlefield of the old testament, where the chief conflicts took place between the Israelites and their enemies—the table land of Esdrason in Galilee and Samaria, now the province of Belrut, Syria. The ancient town of Megiddo gave the plain its name.

In fact, Armageddon in all ancient history has been a famous battlefield from the time of the wars between Assyria and Egypt even on down to Napoleon's campaign in the east. The plain of Esdrason was famed for two great defeats and two great victories for the Israelites. The first victory was that of Barak over the Canaanites, when Deborah, the prophetess, the prototype of Joan d'Arc, led the Israelites, Sisera, the leader of the Canaanites, was assassinated by another woman, Jael, who drove a nail through her temples as she slept. The next great victory was that of Gideon over the Midianites, about 100 years later.

The Midianites and the Amalekites and all the children of the east lay along in the valley like grasshoppers for multitude; and their camels were without number as the sand by the sea.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Government war risk insurance for vessels of American registry during the European war seemed assured tonight after the senate had passed a bill to create a bureau of risk insurance in the treasury department and appropriate $5,000,000 to cover losses. The measure passed the senate after a short debate and is expected to encounter no serious opposition when it is urged in the house tomorrow by Chairman Alexander F. Marchant, of the marine committee.

The senate changed the bill slightly. One amendment would make it mandatory upon the president to terminate the insurance bureau when necessary to its disappearance. Another would provide that the rate of insurance for ships and cargoes should be made on the basis of the war risk of neutral rather than of belligerents. Senator Lane's amendment to have the government insurance officers and seamen of the ships against risks of war defeated, as was done by Senator Lewis to extend to the crews of American merchant men the benefits of the act of the navy.

Senator Clark, of the commerce committee and Representative Alexander conferred again today over the proposed plan of the government to organize a corporation for the purchase of ships to aid in the restriction of foreign commerce. The suggestions for carrying out this idea have not been embodied into a bill, but Senator Clark has in preparation a tentative draft which he may submit to the commerce committee tomorrow.

Representative Alexander also is preparing to submit the plan to his committee as soon as it is in a tangible form. Opposition to the plan is based on the belief that private capital will come forth in sufficient amounts to take care of the shipping emergency. The government plan, however, is to be ready in case private capital fails.
