When

...One lady says of another:—"She dresses well," or "she dresses badly," she is really criticizing the corset the woman in question has on.

It is impossible, unless a woman happens to have a figure that is corset shaped by nature to have a fashionable silhouette unless the corset worn has been chosen with the utmost care—the same care that one reserves usually to some part of wearing apparel that really shows.

The Redfern is "First Aid to being Well Dressed."
