there is 'a single vote in this section who favors the good roads bond issue, we have failed thus far to meet him and we try to make it a point to ask everyone we meet if they are in favor of the bonds. In conversation with a prominent former of the section who have a section who favore the section wh tion with a prominent farmer of the Roberts section in Anderson last Wednesday, we asked him if the people in his section were in favor of the bonds, and he stated that to his knowledge, there was only one man in his section that was in favor of them. Another from the Whitefield section said the same thing. W. L. Casey claims that the Five Fork section is opposed to them. Are these communities not among the most progressive in Anderson county and does not some of the county's best citizens live in these sections. Have they not brains enough to know what is best for them? Do they have to sit idly by them? Do they have to sit idly by and let a few who are under the control of corporations dictate to control of corporations dictate to them what they must do, and if they do not be dubbed as non-progressive; and of poor judgment. Are the tax payers of Anderson county not already paying taxes to support several offices that is not worth a whoop to them? We name several, and one in particular that is of no more benefit to the people of the county than the chief of some African jungle tribe. Like the turtle, the taxpayer has already got too many leeches sucking their living from them. It is not a question as to whether or not good roads as to whether or not good roads.

Just a little comparison, please, as to who bears the burden of the taxes. This is true and the of the taxes. This is true and the parties are alive today to bear witness to the facts. A, is a man living on rented land. He made his return at $40.00, including everything he owned. The assessors raised his assessment to $60.00. He pay a poll and road tax. The tax was 19 mills, making his taxes $3.14 B, is a man who owns 180 acres of land, four head of horses, two cows and three dwellings with necessary outbuildings, beside house furnishings that could not be replaced for $1,000. His taxes, everything included, was a little over $28.00. Now where did the burden fall?

It has been said that good roads

.It has been said that good roads would increase the value of land from $10 to $20 per acre. If that be the case we think that a large be the case we think that a large part of the money for the road work should be raised by an abutting property tax, thereby making it heaviest on those who receive the greatest benefit. It does seem strange that with the bend issue there is created enough offices to take a nice sum from the total amount. The taxpayers should have been given to understand in pour amount. The taxpayers should have been given to understand in no uncertain way that the bonds were to be used for road work and not go to pay fancy salaries to road engineers, extra commissioners, boards and other grafters, as was the case in Tennessee. The writer has never in thirty-six years seen the roads as bad as they have been the roads as bad as they have been they will not be as bad again in the next thirty-six, and at the end of that time many of us will not be
