All members are urged to be present. By order of Presiding Elder.

—If you are hunting for cheap work, gloss finish photographs, do not ask up-to-date photographers for it; but if you are wanting the very best work that is turned out, and on the very best mater[illegible] that is used by the photographic profession, call on N. D. Taylor, on any day he is in Pickens and you will be pleased with the work he givee you.

—The Bethell Bros., Minstrel Co., gave a creditable performance in the court house Saturday night and played a return date here Tuesday night; Monday night they filled an engagement in Easley and Wednesday night they played at Liberty. Theirs is a nice, clean show and worthy of patronage. Should they ever return to Pickens they would get a crowded house. Their slight-of-hand performer is a good one. Don't fail to see their performance should the opportunity present itself.

—At the election held yesterday (Wednesday) evening, for a trustee to fill the vacancy caused by W. T. McFall being barred from serving, on account of being Mayor of the town, much interest was manifested. Only two names were suggested, that of R. E. Yongue, who was voted for before, being the fourth man in that race, and Mr. J. P. Carey. There were sixty seven votes polled, of which Mr. Yongue received twenty-four votes and Mr. Carey received forty-three votes.

—There is always something doing; this world is not at a standstill, and business interests are pushed up or they go down. It is human nature to be where something is going on; the merchant that advertises facts and hands out over his counters what he advertises and as he represents it to be always does the business. In this connection N. D. Taylor keeps busy during his stay in Pickens, because he uses the best material that can be procured and all of his work is as represented. He and Mrs. Taylor were both in the Pickens studio Wednesday. If you want good and lasting likenesses of your loved ones let him make the pictures for you. See his specimens and ask his customers about the work.

$50.00 Contributed.

Last Friday Capt. J. T. Taylor presented to the citizens of Pickens and vicinity, as he happened to see them, a petition to contribute to the Gainesville storm sufferers, and in two hours' time he had raised $50.00, which was sent to them. This is an act of liberality that we feel proud of, more so because it is ahead of anything yet done. Think of it! In a town of 460 population fifty dollars is raised in two hours—and several persons, who would have given them, were not seen, for want of time. Below we publish the petition and amounts given by each person, also the letter of thanks from the relief association:

The undersigned people of the town of Pickens donate the amount opposite our names for the benefit of the storm sufferers at Gainesville, Ga:

W. T. McFall $5.00, B. E. Grandy $2 50, Folger & Thornley $2.50, G. R. Hendricks 25c, F. E. Cox 25c, J. E. Bridges 25c, J. F. Harris 10c, Jerry Clements $1.00, J. E Cox 50c, R. R. Roark 50c, A. M. HEADQUARTERS RELIEF ASSOCIATION.
Gainesville, Ga., June 5, 1903.

To our Many Sympathizing Friends:

Like Niobe of old, Gainesville, Georgia's Queen City, sits weeping, for her children. Clouds of sorrow, scenes of desolation, hearts burdened with grief, are everywhere about us. As though sorrowful for the destruction they have wrought, the elements seem to weep with us. Scarcely a ray of sunshine has pierced the leaden skies since that fateful Monday, June 1, and our beautiful city is constantly drenched with "tears from the skies." Out of the clouds of gloom and sadness with which we are surrounded, however, a voice has come, bidding us be of good cheer. Georgia's great heart has responded nobly to our call for aid and from city and hamlet letters of sympathy, bearing evidences of the brotherhood of man, in the shape of checks and drafts have come to feed the hungry, relieve the suffering and bury the dead. To every one who has contributed of money, stores or provisions, sympathy or words of encouragement, Gainesville returns her heartfelt thanks and prays God's richest blessings upon the giver thereof.

To citizens of Pickens, S. C., we hereby acknowledge the receipt of Fifty Dollars.

Gratefully yours,
Z. T. Castleberry,
Treasurer Relief Fund.

Pickens did nobly in her contribution to the Gainesville sufferers from the storm, her contribution being $50.00.

But a call more urgent within the bounds of our own State at Pacolet, must be answered, and answered quickly. Governor Heyward has issued a proclamation to the people of the State setting forth the needs of the people in distress. Pickens can, and will do her part cheerfully. Let us start the good work. Leave your contribution at the Pickens Bank. The subscription list will remain open until Friday or Saturday. Don't forget, for the need is imperative.

The K. of P. Ball Game.

A full amount of the interesting proceedings of Wednesday last will be found elsewhere in our columns.

But the account of the day would be incomplete without at least a running account of the baseball game between nines made up from K. of P's. from Pickens and Easley lodges.

An immense crowd witnessed the game, which was intensely interesting.

It was a friendly contest from beginning to end, and if there were any "scraps" we never heard of them. It may be that there was a strong desire for a "kicking machine" by the Easley team at the conclusion of the game—a sort of automatic self kicker after the model of a "Schnapps" machine.

The Easley team came up on the 2:40 train, arrayed in their uniforms, and were a formidable looking team to go up against, and they had every appearance of being the "eat 'em up" kind. In fact it has been hinted that the Pickens "sluggers" became a little shaky in the knees at first sight of the Easley team.

But the game is called. Umpire, LaBoon. Battery for Easley, Callaham and Davis; for Pickens, Ashmore and Bivins. Scorer, Chess Smith. Time, limited to dark. Umpire LaBoon gave command to "play ball!" Pickens, a little dubious, comes to the bat. Callaham, Easley's pitcher, was wild and easily batted. In this inning, Magistrate John F. Harris, the Pickens heavy weight batter, knocked the ball out of sight literally into the woods. Four rounds were scored in this inning, and the Easley pennant began to trail in the dust.

Easley to the bat. Ashmore pitched hard, speedy ball. An Easley man standing fifty feet from the pitcher declared he could hear the ball whizzing, and that he saw something like a blue streak in the trail of every ball.

We cannot go into detail of every inning. Callaham, Davis, Johnson and Gentry starred for Easley; Ashmore, Bivins, Harris, Folger and Alexander for Pickens. Bivins rolled up the biggest score of any individual player on the field, having four rounds to his credit. It is said that Folger, who is usually very indifferent about a game of baseball at any time, positively "suffered enjoyment" on this occasion.

Competent judges say the game was won by Ashmore's swift pitching, and lost to Easley by Callaham's weak pitching. It is positively asserted by eye-witnesses that many of the balls pitched by Callaham actually had whiskers before they reached the batter, and thus retarded the speed of what might otherwise have been a swift ball.

Score—10 to 4, in favor of Pickens.

To say the least of it, the game was intensely interesting, and the young men of Easley and Pickens were thoughtful in arranging the game for the entertainment of the large crowd of people in town on that day.

Pickens is awaiting a challenge from the Easley team for a second game of a series to be played during the summer. It is rumored that Easley will be thoughtful enough next game to provide themselves with solid bats, nine hamper baskets of varying sizes, and an equal number of tar buckets.

Old Soldiers' Day.

When the bright summer sunshine of last Wednesday (a perfect summer day) broke over the hills and a little later the people began to come from every quarter to do tribute to the grandest soldiery that ever marched against enemy, the people of Pickens realized that the biggest day of the year was upon them.

And well did these people respond to every call made upon them to give substantial expression to their innate hospitality, for they had been aroused to the immense proportions of the day and they left nothing undone to make the day a success

But it is to the ladies of the Daughters of the Confederacy that is due the grand success of this memorial day. They worked and stinted not, and the day closed a revelation to every thinking man in Pickens.

The crowd was so large, so much greater than was expected, that there was some unavoidable delay in starting the program, but at about 10 o'clock the procession formed at the depot headed by the Liberty Band and followed by the school children and the assembled veterans and a large crowd of spectators, and proceeded to the court house where the veterans were comfortably seated, and as many others as could crowd in were accommodated.

Barring a slight delay, the exercises commenced as fixed by program.

Rev. J. E. Foster opened the day's program with a touching and impressive prayer asking God's mercy upon the veterans and invoking God's aid in that greater cause that will never be lost to the soldiers enlisted under the leadership of Christ—the Captain of our Salvation. He prayed for the success of the day and moved the people by his earnest appeal for the continued guidance of the Holy Spirit.

Col. J. A. Hoyt, of Greenville, was the honored guest of the Veterans and his speech was a masterly presentation of the soldierly qualities of the Confederate Soldier—the private soldier—as well as a plain statement of the facts of history showing that from that galaxy of distinguished generals of the Confederate army, South Carolina furnished her quota, and in this connection he paid a glowing tribute to the peerless Hampton that elicited that applause that carried the thoughts of men back to the time when some of them followed that intrepid leader in war and recalled his lasting services through the days of reconstruction and as the representative of his people in the highest councils of the nation.

Col. Hoyt's speech was a chaste and eloquent one, and it reached the heart of every old veteran and made the younger people appreciate and understand how and why, in some measure, their fathers fought so well, and their mothers endured, without complaining, the hardships of war.

General M. L. Bonham, of Anderson, was the representative on this occasion of the Daughters of the Confederacy. It is impossible to do justice to his eloquent address which came, as he took occasion to say himself, from the very fulness of his heart. General Bonham is a most earnest and impressive speaker, and warming up to the full appreciation of his theme, he spoke words of truth, picturing the works of the soldiers of the Southern army saying that their achievements will live because they fought for living principles—they were men of our own country and not the hired minions of a government with unlimited resources backed by the nations of the world. General Bonham's address will be remembered by all who had the pleasure of hearing it.

It is a matter to be regretted that the other speakers on the program were not present. We do not know the causes of their absence but know that it was a disappointment that they were not here—a disappointment shared especially by the Daughters who planned and carried these exercises through as an addition to the plans of the veterans themselves.

Two features of the exercises, not printed in the program were the address of welcome by Mr. W. T. McFall, Intendant of Pickens, attended by the waving of white flags by two little girls, indicating that the town had surrendered to the veterans and the visitors, and the reading of some original verses by a lady of Pickens, entitled "The Old Canteen," which were most appropriate to the occasion:

"Awake, awake, the old canteen,
From its long and quiet sleep;
We want it to mingle with the scene
While Memorial Day we keep.

The hands may be forever still,
That once filled it to the brim;
From some far away spring or rill,
Before the battle did begin

To the old canteen we hold
Though rusty, worn and bent;
It tells of a life brave and bold
When mother's boy dreamed beneath a tent.

This old, ugly, knotty string
Tells of a shoulder true and strong,
Upon which the old canteen could swing
When the march was hard and long.

When the smoke of battle had fled,
The old canteen held the crystal tide,
That bathed the brows of our noble dead
Scattered over the field far and wide.

Now, shot and shell have ceased to fly,
The roar of musket and cannon passed away—
Upon the old canteen heap rose high,
Willing hands this Memorial Day.

While the old canteen is covered with roses sweet,
We gather lilies for the Blue and Gray,
Putting envy and strife beneath our feet
With spirit as gentle as zephyrs of May."

Professor W. E Dendy read these lines bringing to accent their salient thoughts with touching effect, and the great crowd appreciated the sentiments so beautifully expressed and evinced its approval in generous applause at the conclusion of the reading.

The packed house gave the very best of attention—all were interested—and at the conclusion of the exercises, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. O. M. Abney.

The benediction was not said, however, before the announcement was made that, at the tap of the drum, every veteran was expected to come to The Sentinel Journal building where the ladies had prepared a bountiful dinner. The old soldiers were not only expected but urged to come, and they were fed as best they could be attended to by loving hands who sought, by these intentions, to honor them.

During these exercises, the Liberty Band, under the most efficient leadership of Mr. James E. Parsons, discoursed sweet music which added to the pleasure of the occasion, and gave to the program an air of recreation and enjoyment.

In the afternoon the local K. of P's. played the Easley K. of P's. in a game of baseball which resulted in a score of 10 to 4 in favor of Pickens. The game was witnessed by an immense crowd of people.

It was a big day in Pickens and the ladies deserve and receive the credit for it all.

There was no boisterous conduct, no disorderly conduct and a spirit of good feeling pervaded the entire crowd.

Pickens is glad to have had the veterans and the people with her on that day, and all are looking forward to the time when it will be the privilege of this community to entertain the old veterans and their families and friends again.

We want you—we want to show our appreciation of your sacrifices, and every year the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will expect you as their guests.

FLORENCE, S. C., Nov. 26, 1900.—I was first advised by our family physician in Charleston to use TEETHINA with our baby when he was but a very young infant, as a preventive of colic and to warm and sweeten the stomach. Later it was useful in teething troubles, and its effect has been found to be so very beneficial and so free from dangers that are consequent upon the use of drugs and soothing syrups, that we have come to regard it, after use with three children, as one of the necessities when there is a new baby in the house and until the teething troubles are over, and we take pleasure in recommending it to our friends instead of the horrid stuff that so many people use to keep their baby quiet. Great Bargains in Laces!

and embroidery with insertions to match! A man who makes it his business to scrape up bargains in goods sent me a lot of fine laces, embroideries and insertions with instructions "to sell"; that means as long as this lot lasts you can buy it for less than half the usual price; along with the lot is some extra fine lawns; were it not for the rediculously low price he made on this I would ship it back. Several pieces organdies and other up to date dress goods; you will be interested in the prices on this stuff. A few pairs very nice oxfords, hardly enough to mention, 45c. for your choice. Last year a house shipped me about 10 times as many cotton hoes as I bought; it is a good thing I kept them as they are much higher. I can sell you cotton hoes for less than they can be bought at wholesale, and still make a little profit, and I am willing to do it.
Produce always wanted.
