Crops are flourishing in this section of the county. The beautiful valley of Oolenoy presents an entrancing panorama to the beholder just at this time. With the excep tion of a few places along the banks of the river, to corn is excellent. Some of our farmers claim that their cotton crops are unusually fine-the best they have ever raised.

The valley of the Colenoy was formerly known as "Egypt," and farmers came in numbers from Greenville and Anderson to buy corn. This famed valley may not be "the granery of the world" as was ancient Egypt, but it is certainly the granery of Pickens county.
