NEWS OF THE DAY IN OUR LIVE NEIGHBOR

Immediately following the election of the city council, a meeting was held for the purpose of organizing and getting down to business. Mayor Mitchell and all the members of the council were present and much routine business was transacted. The ordinance regulating licenses for the year was passed, and the report of the clerk and treasurer was read and adopted.

W. F. Acker was re-elected a clerk and treasurer. This makes Mr. Acker's fourth year, and is evidence of his popularity and faithful performance of duty. In addition to his regular duties as clerk, additional duties as policeman and supervisor of the water system were imposed upon Mr. Acker.

The election of two policemen—one as chief and one as assistant, has been set for January 27th. Under the efficient police duties of Chief Martin and Policeman White, disorder and wrong doing has been reduced to a minimum. There have been but few recent cases for the recorder to pass upon.

Several radical changes were made in the licenses for doing business in the city. Electric and power companies were raised from $75.00 to $150.00; Southern Railroad Company, from $75.00 to $150.00; to be prohibitive were placed as follows: "Restaurants, cook shops and public eating houses serving lunches for both white and black, $100.00." "Billiard or pool tables, 1 to 3, $5.00."

Mr. S. Brooks Marshall has finally disposed of that Belton newspaper of his. The Daily Intelligencer has taken it over and will serve the people of Belton. No doubt a great relief to Mr. Marshall, as satisfactory arrangement for the people of Belton and one that will grow more so.—Greenwood Index.

BELTONETTES

Belton, the hub of the Piedmont.

Well, Belton is still a railroad center.

There is nothing to keep Belton down.

The banks are busy these days—a good sign.

It is said that the Beltonettes are widely read.

Do you read the Belton page every day?

Beltonites sympathize with the couples of newspaper men in issuing a daily.

NEAL'S CREEK NEWS

Special to the Intelligencer.

Belton, Jan. 15.—The Baptist Calendar of Jan 8 reproduces the following quotation from Rev. J. Furman Moore, in the Baptist Calendar: Stay on the farm dear boy. With the parcel post and the rural credit system things are coming the farmer's way at last.

That bit of advice is about a full of meaning and common sense as anything I have found. Of course, many young men should locate in towns and cities. There is need of them, there is room for them; but there is no need, neither is there room for all of them. If all of our boys leave the country, what will be the result? The country will go to waste, and those seeking locations in towns and cities will not be amply rewarded for their labor, in consequence of an overcrowding of the professions.

And yet it is true that many country boys think, when they have left college, that they must rush for town, to find work. The truth is, our colleges should impress upon their boys and girls that intelligent farming and intelligent house-keeping in the country are just as dignified and remunerative as is professional work in town and cities. With rural daily mail, telephones and good roads, the country offers to our young people better inducements for their successful effort than it has ever offered in the past. So, with Mr. Moore, I say, "Stay on the farm, my dear boy."

J. B. Felton, county superintendent of education, has announced that teachers examination will be held in his office at the court house Saturday. The examination will be conducted by Mr. Felton and will begin promptly at 9 o'clock. All those who expect to stand are urged to be there by that time.
