The proper lighting of show windows has been a great problem with most merchants. The lighting them in a way which will display the MERCHANDISE and not his LIGHTING FIXTURES. While the lighting fixtures are absolutely necessary for the proper lighting of the display they should be designed to place the light on the goods and not in the eyes of persons looking in the windows.

National X-Ray reflectors are designed exclusively for window lighting, and the merchant will have no difficulty in selecting one which will correctly and economically illuminate his windows.

MR. MERCHANT

Did you ever notice our Electric Sign? No doubt you have. Most everybody has noticed it. Hasn't everybody noticed your sign? And are there a great many people who can positively remember to have seen your sign at all? Why not make it attractive enough to be remembered—attractive enough to draw trade—attractive enough to indicate your desire to be progressive—attractive enough to attract people that you wish to attract—that you want their attention and trade.

We would like to talk Electric Signs with you.

WHITE

Commencing Monday Morning, January 19th.

If the strength of a chain is dependent on its weakest link, the strength of a white sale is not dependent upon its strongly worded advertisements and its overhauled price comparisons, but upon its ability to provide merchandise of worth—upon its very lowest priced items, as well as upon its offerings at greater prices. And we shall be glad to have both our White Sale of Underwear and our January sale of Linens, Laces, Embroideries, All Overs, Curtains, etc., tested by this standard.

Included in this Sale is a beautiful assortment of House Dresses at unheard of prices.

Come Monday and Every Day

Our entire stock of Mulla Underwear—garments of every description—and all of snowy freshness, bear attractive sale prices—prices that will appeal to all. You can't possibly get an idea of the many good values that are being offered except by seeing the goods yourself.
